KILL DILLINGER GANG'S FENCE

PRESIDENT PUTS O. K. ON GUFFEY SOFT COAL BILL

Also Obtains Delay in Rail Strike.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Developments in three different sectors of the union labor battle front held the stage in Washington today. They were:

1. President Roosevelt signed the Guffey-Vinson coal control bill whereby minimum prices of soft coal will be fixed at levels enabling the operators to pay higher wages to miners, the legislation being the result of pressure exerted by John L. Lewis' union of mine workers.

2. The Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation bowed to the authority of the national labor relations board and the Wagner act, recently upheld by the Supreme court, when it announced withdrawal of recognition of its company union. [Details in financial section.]

3. The President proclaimed an emergency in the threatened strike of 25,000 eastern railroad freight handlers and clerks and appointed a three member board to mediate between the employers and employés.

Replaces Invalidated Law.

The Guffey-Vinson act, which goes into effect June 1 for a four year period, replaces a similar but broader statute setting up a little NRA in the bituminous coal industry which was held unconstitutional by the Supreme court. The court declared the federal government lacking in power to fix wages and that as the price fixing provisions were inseparable from the wage provisions the whole act was invalid.

In the act signed today the wage fixing provisions are omitted and the price fixing provisions retained. It empowers a national bituminous coal commission to prescribe minimum prices for coal and proclaim a code of fair trade practices for producers. Offenders against the commission's rulings are to be fined 19½ per cent of the sale price of their product at the mine. The commission also may fix maximum prices to consumers to protect them from "runaway markets."

The mine union was content to forgo the wage fixing provisions ruled out by the Supreme court, Mr. Lewis declaring the union sufficiently strong to enforce demands for higher wages so long as the operators are enabled to make substantial profits.

Higher Prices to Consumers.

With labor constituting 65 per cent of the cost of coal production the tendency of price cutting competition among producers is to hold down wages. The Guffey act is designed to prevent cutthroat competition and assure the producers a profitable market. It has been estimated that the fixing of minimum prices will operate to raise the cost of soft coal to consumers about 100 million dollars a year.

The act provides a tax of 1 cent a ton for the expense of administration, estimated at 4 millions a year. As members of the commission at a salary of $10,000 the President appointed C. F. Hosford Jr. [Pa.], and Thomas S. Haymond [Ky.], representing producers; Percy Tetlow [O.], and John C. Lewis [Ia.], representing miners; Pleas E. Greenlee [Ind.], and Walter H. Maloney [Mo.], representing the public.

Rail Strike Postponed.

New York City was threatened with a strike of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employés, scheduled originally for Saturday, then postponed to today. The strike for a 20 per cent wage increase would have tied up railway and ship terminals and paralyzed a large sector of commerce and other business.

At the eleventh hour the President at the instance of James W. Carmalt, chairman of the national mediation board, intervened with a proclamation of emergency under the railway labor act and appointment of a mediation board to report findings in 30 days. Pending this action the union employés will remain at work.

To the mediation board Mr. Roosevelt appointed Frank M. Swacker and W. H. Davis of New York City and J. I. Sharfman of Washington, D. C.

6 MONTHS' WAIT ENDS; WALLY CAN NOW BE FREED

Final Divorce May Come Monday.

Ex-King Wins Fight

LONDON.—Duke of Windsor compels British publishers to suppress book containing uncomplimentary references to him and Mrs. Wallis Simpson. The book, "Coronation Commentary," was written by Geoffrey Dennis, a schoolmate of Edward at Oxford. Page 8.

LONDON.—King George VI. relents and commands that Quaker representatives at the coronation be permitted to enter Westminster abbey in long pants. James W. Gerard, special American envoy to the coronation, arrives and announces he will wear knee breeches. Page 8.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 26.—Six months ago tomorrow a big American made automobile bearing the arms of the royal house of Windsor was waiting under the archway at the side entrance to the crenellated brick building in which the Ipswich assizes are held.

Shortly after 2 p. m. a group of policemen hurriedly whisked the frail figure of a woman into the car and it dashed away.

The woman was Mrs. Wallis Simpson, American born, and she had just obtained a provisional divorce from Ernest Simpson, London ship broker, by the decision of Mr. Justice Sir John Anthony Hawke, and coincidentally set in motion the series of events which a few weeks later crowded King Edward VIII. off the British throne.

Technicalities Cause Delay.

Six months must elapse here before a temporary divorce decree becomes permanent and the principals are free to wed again. Those six months expire tomorrow for Mrs. Simpson, and it will be only a few days—the extra days are due to legal technicalities—before the provisional decree may be made absolute and wedding bells may ring for her and Edward.

Normally an application for an absolute decree is made on the first motion day after the six months have elapsed.

The next motion day after tomorrow—the date of expiration of the six months—is Monday, May 3, and it is expected that date will see Mrs. Simpson's decree made absolute.

Action to Be Taken in London.

The application will be made in open court in the divorce division of the high court in London, where all decrees are made absolute.

Mrs. Simpson, who is in France, does not need to attend court in person. The application probably will be made by Norman Birkett, her counsel, and her solicitor, Theodore Goddard. Not longer than six days before the application, Wally's legal advisers must have filed at Somerset house [London depository of records] a notice and affidavit of search for intervention in the case.

At a special hearing last month it was disclosed that the only intervention against the court making Wally's provisional decree absolute was filed last December, but was withdrawn. Presumably no one has filed any further objections.

WIRE TAPPED, DUKE FEARS

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ST. WOLFGANG, Austria, April 26.—The duke of Windsor, the former King Edward VIII. of England, believes somebody is trying to listen in on his nightly telephone talks with his fiancée, Mrs. Wallis Simpson, who is staying at Château de Cande near Monts, France. He apparently has heard sounds indicating wire tapping.

The lines are being investigated. The duke is anxious to make certain the couple's secrets are not discovered and that the wedding plans can be kept from the public until the last minute.

This morning, as during many other mornings, Edward worked over piles of documents, letters and diaries, plotting his past official and private trips on a big world map. Friends assume he is preparing to store the papers for safekeeping while he and his bride roam the world looking for a new home. More documents are being sent from England.

This afternoon Edward and an aid, motored to Ischl for eighteen holes of golf.

EMBARRASSMENTS OF THE 'KING' BUSINESS

Ten persons homeward bound from the loop were injured and more than 50 others were frightened and jolted last evening when a coach of an eight-car all steel North Western suburban train was derailed by a suddenly closed switch. The coach came to stop at a perilous 45 degree angle when it crashed into a steel viaduct girder.

The accident occurred in downtown Chicago between Canal and Clinton streets just south of Kinzie street, where the North Western operates on an elevated structure 35 feet above the street level.

Switch Closes Suddenly.

The train, carrying 480 passengers, left the station at 5:33 o'clock in charge of Engineer Arthur Field, 2154 North Avers avenue, and Conductor Oscar Olsen, 1145 North Laramie avenue. It was to make local stops north to Niles Center. In leaving the yards, the train started to switch from one track to another.

The engine, tender, and first six cars and the front trucks of the seventh passed over the open switch. Then, railroad officials explained last night, the mechanical device governing the switch snapped shut. The rear trucks of the seventh car remained on the original track, swinging the car around at an angle and causing it to smash into the girder. Both front and rear couplings broke, preventing damage to the coaches in front and the one in the rear.

Women Scream.

Women screamed as the passengers were thrown into a momentary panic. Male passengers quickly broke windows and assisted the women to safety. Firemen carried the more seriously hurt down ladders to the street level. Six of the ten persons treated at the Passavant hospital later went to their homes. Those who remained and the nature of the injuries are:

KRUGER, MISS MARY, 5901 North Kostner avenue, shock and bruises.

B. E. Terpning, general superintendent of the North Western road, said an investigation will be made today to determine what caused the switch to be thrown.

POSTPONE WEDDING OF MELVIN PURVIS AND TEXAS BEAUTY

San Antonio, Tex., April 26.—(AP)—A. J. Rummel, brother-in-law of Janice Jarratt, whose marriage to Melvin Purvis, former ace G-man, was scheduled for next Thursday, said tonight the wedding has been "indefinitely postponed."

Friends said Miss Jarratt, sweetheart of the Texas Centennial last year and recently of the movies, left the Rummel residence, where she had been staying, for a ranch at Victoria, Tex., tonight.

Purvis, who flew here from San Francisco last week, was registered at a hotel but refused to be seen.

Rummel telephoned society editors of San Antonio newspapers today and asked an announcement of an affair honoring the couple, scheduled for tomorrow, be canceled.

INSISTS HE'S NOT TOO OLD AT 81 FOR DIVORCE; GETS IT

Theodore Kohn, 81 years old, 717 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park, insisted yesterday that he was not too old for a divorce, and so Judge John J. Lupe of the Superior court, granted him a decree.

Kohn won the divorce from Mrs. Johanna Kohn, 76 years old, 617 Madison street, Oak Park. They were married in 1918. A year after that, he told Judge Lupe at an earlier hearing, she began treating him cruelly. He said she beat him on the wrist with her false teeth.

Hears 'Whoa' Under Auto; Looks; There's Pedestrian

Fremont, O., April 26.—(AP)—A. C. Maurer, driving slowly down the main street of nearby Bellevue, heard a frantic voice today, crying, "Whoa, whoa there—hold her!" He stopped and I. M. [Kelly] Philips emerged from beneath the car. Philips said he had been struck a half block down the street, and had been hanging precariously onto a bumper.

Gale Twists Liner Europa Off Course in N. Y. Channel

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—The North German Lloyd liner Europa, steaming into New York harbor today, was forced 30 degrees off her course in the channel off the Gravesend anchorage by a 50 mile an hour gale.

Farley's Loyal Man Gets Him a Corner Stone

Loyal Democrats of northern Indiana have been in a dither since last Friday when official Washington announced that James Aloysius Farley, postmaster general and patronage dispenser of the New Deal, had selected himself to dedicate the new $500,000 Gary postoffice today.

Apparently Mr. Farley decided to kill two or three birds with one stone. He is scheduled to dedicate another postoffice this afternoon at Galesburg, then run over to Indianapolis, Ind., tomorrow for a conference with Democratic bigwigs of Indiana. This latter meeting supposedly concerns what shall be done about Senator Frederick Van Nuys. Senator Van Nuys is opposing President Roosevelt's court reorganization plan.

A Complication Arises.

But of more immediate importance to Gary Democrats was the visit of Mr. Farley. This was to be an occasion, in capital letters, and appropriate measures were undertaken.

The new postoffice, at 6th avenue and Massachusetts street which replaces the building built in 1917, will not be ready for occupancy until fall. So when word came through on Friday of the coming visit, there was a rush to get the building in shape for the ceremony.

Came a grievous complication. Federal building inspectors rejected a corner stone, which had been prepared in Detroit. How could Mr. Farley dedicate a building without a corner stone to lay?

The Boss Gets Busy.

So yesterday morning the Farley reception committee placed a hurry up order with the Miller Monument works, 4160 Broadway, in Gary, for a grade A granite corner stone. But—

Employés of the monument works have been doing rush work on a number of grave markers. They bluntly refused to set aside these tasks—many of them rush jobs—to cut a corner stone for Mr. Farley to lay.

Last night into the breach stepped a loyal Democrat. Carl Miller, owner of the monument company, declared it would never be said that a Miller couldn't rise to a monumental occasion.

So late last night, hour after hour, Miller labored with his sandblast, turning out the corner stone, complete with appropriate inscription, which Mr. Farley will lay at 11 o'clock this morning.

Two Day Rains Flood Ohio and Eastern Rivers

6,000 Leave Homes

LONDON, Ontario, April 26.—[Canadian Press.]—The worst floods this western Ontario city has experienced in 40 years tonight compelled 6,000 persons to evacuate their homes in several sections of London.

Several thousand others waited for boats to take them out. The Thames river was rising six inches an hour, fed by rain swollen tributaries. It was estimated to be 30 feet above normal.

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 26.—[Special.]—Threatening a repetition of some of last January's floods, waters from the rain swollen Ohio river and its tributaries spread alarm tonight as they rolled into the Pittsburgh business district and low areas in other communities.

The worst April high water threat in the history of Pittsburgh caused residents to prepare for a possible major flood. The two rivers—the Allegheny and Monongahela—which converge here, were already four feet above flood stage and were rising toward a predicted peak of 36 feet.

Stage Estimates Go Up.

More than thirty hours of continuous rainfall prompted Weather Forecaster W. S. Brotsman to revise his previous stage prediction. Residents recalled that the unprecedented floods of three months ago, which took nearly 400 lives and left a million homeless, began by forcing forecasters to revise their peak estimates.

Pittsburgh mobilized its forces as the murky waters lapped into the fringes of the famous "Golden Triangle" business district. Merchants in low lying streets erected wooden flood gates and sandbag barriers and installed water pumps.

Although a thirty-six foot flood would not seriously damage the city's business properties, high water would paralyze some of the most important industrial plants in this steel center of 700,000 inhabitants.

Distribute Rescue Boats.

Rescue boats were distributed by river patrolmen for lowland residents and at the Western penitentiary, situated in a low part of the Wood's Run district bordering the Ohio.

The heavy rainfall, which had continued for seventy-two hours in some areas, was general over the 200 mile watershed from Johnstown, Pa., to Wheeling, W. Va.

Scores of homes and business sections in the historic "flood city" of Johnstown were inundated by waters from the Conemaugh and Stony Creek rivers. The crest of the flood there appeared to have been reached, however, without great damage.

More than two feet of water coursed through half a dozen streets there, flowing into basements and first floors.

Business at Standstill.

Schools were closed, trolleys were stopped, and most of Johnstown's business brought to a standstill by the high water.

Police at Wheeling prepared to evacuate all families in the flood zone

$50,000 IN GEMS FOUND; G-MEN HUNT ASSASSINS

Victim Ambushed in S. Shore Drive.

Albert Montlake, accused by federal authorities of helping the old Dillinger gang dispose of its loot, was shot to death in a typical gangland assassination last night in the South Shore district.

With $50,000 in diamonds in his pockets and his car, Montlake, begging for his life, fell in a burst of leaden slugs. He was slain across 73d street from his home in the South Shore Towers apartment hotel at 7300 South Shore drive.

Montlake, an ex-convict who began his criminal career as a pickpocket, had been known to the police for the last ten years as a daring fence who specialized in diamonds and securities taken in major holdups. One of his many aliases was Montley.

Ace Witness Against Gordon.

Government men said he was to have been the government's ace witness against Meyer Gordon, loop jeweler living at 3565 Pine Grove avenue, in federal court in New York. Gordon was arraigned in federal court here only last Saturday on the New York charges of conspiracy to transport $21,000 worth of bonds taken by the Dillinger gang in 1933 from the American Bank and Trust company at Racine, Wis.

Gordon was taken into custody early today at his home and hurried to the Grand Crossing police station for questioning by Capt. Patrick Brady and Gordon Nash, assistant state's attorney. Gordon freely admitted that Montlake had visited him at 4 p. m. yesterday in Gordon's office and discussed the New York case, but denied any knowledge of the shooting. Gordon said he and Montlake had been friendly.

Leaves with Stranger.

Police and federal agents who joined the investigation believe that Montlake was pointed out to the killers by a short, stocky man who had been visiting him in the Montlake apartment. This man vanished after the shooting.

He was seen going to the apartment with Montlake an hour before the shooting, and he is believed by Montlake's wife Anna to have been the supposed diamond customer Montlake had told her he was expecting.

Just before his dark eyed brunette wife of 36 returned with their daughter Bernice, 15, from a shopping tour, Montlake and the stranger departed. It was then a few minutes before 7 p. m., according to William Toomey, the elevator operator, who saw the men stroll out.

They turned west on the south side of 73d street, then Montlake cut north across the street to his parked car. He placed in it his brief case, containing 170 diamond and platinum rings. He also had twenty-five uncut diamonds in his pocket. He was about to enter the car when a light gray sedan, occupied by two men, swung into 73d street from South Shore drive. The sedan halted opposite Montlake's car.

Two Witnesses to Slaying.

Two persons saw what happened next: W. D. Moore, who lives on the sixth floor of the hotel building where Montlake lived; and Edward Rudolphy, 11 years old, 7333 Coles avenue, who was playing in the basement of the hotel.

Moore said Montlake apparently recognized the killers and sprang quickly away from his car. One of the gangsters leaped from his car and advanced with drawn revolver.

Montlake began running backward, across a vacant lot, pleading:

"Don't! Don't! For God's sake, don't!"

He tried for an instant to take shelter behind a slender tree near the alley that parallels South Shore drive. But even as he begged for mercy the killer emptied his gun and apparently every bullet took effect. Montlake died instantly.

No Move to Rob Victim.

The killer made no move to rob his victim, although Montlake was known to have carried large sums of money and often large quantities of jewels. Instead, the gunman stepped back into his own car and was driven west in 73d street by his companion.

The killer was described as a husky man, about 30 years old. He was wearing a gray suit.

Sergt. Michael McFadden and his detective squad, the first policemen to arrive, found eight shells on the ground. This gave rise to the belief that the killer might have emptied one gun and then begun shooting with another, although witnesses saw but one gun.

Hurrying to the Montlakes' eleventh floor apartment the police found Mrs. Montlake decked with diamonds. When they took her away to the Grand Crossing station for questioning she told her daughter to admit no one.

Doubts Shooting of Husband.

At the station Mrs. Montlake gave more evidence of anger than of grief and professed to doubt that her husband had been shot. She was wearing a brown coat over a blue flowered dress. There were diamonds on both her hands and a particularly large one on her bosom.

"Did you see my husband shot?" she kept inquiring skeptically of persons in the station.

The police were dazzled by the richness of the stones they found in Montlake's pockets and his brief case. Many of the uncut diamonds were upward of three carats, and all were one or more.

After the diamonds had been examined and Mrs. Montlake had been questioned, the police finally convinced her that her husband was dead. They then returned with her to her apartment to enable them to get in.

Policeman Gains Entrance.

When they arrived, however, they found that Policeman Henry Nortag had gained entrance. Assigned to keep watch on the apartment, he had seen the girl open the door to go downstairs for a paper, unable longer to bear the suspense of not knowing what had happened. Nortag put his foot in the door and entered.

Mrs. Montlake insisted on talking to her daughter alone, but the police refused, asserting the mother wanted to coach her on what to say. When the officers separated mother and daughter outside the building for the trip to the police station, Mrs. Montlake fought until she was overpowered.

At the station questioning of the daughter was done by Walter J. McDermott of the coroner's office.

Montlake was seized in a New York hotel room last July, with $21,000 worth of stolen bonds in his possession. Some of them were found to have been taken by the Dillinger gang in the Racine robbery, and others were believed to have been taken by another gang in a holdup at Braidwood, Ill., in 1936. Later more of the Racine bonds were found. Montlake was indicted.

Gordon Pleads Not Guilty.

As a result of his revelations to the government, presumably, came the subsequent indictment of Gordon. Gordon pleaded not guilty when he was arraigned here, and it was expected that extradition proceedings would be begun.

Sergt. Thomas Alcock said Montlake's long record as a gangland fence made the New York case seem of importance to the investigation.

Police said also they had heard of Montlake in their investigation of the $6,000 jewel robbery of which Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Shapiro were the victims last Dec. 28 in their apartment at 7100 South Shore drive—a robbery their son Harold has confessed planning.

One of the robbers, the police said, was a cousin of Montlake and asked Montlake to dispose of the loot. Montlake was said to have refused, commenting that the jewelry was too hot, the police said.

When Gordon, who was eventually locked up at the detective bureau, was questioned about Montlake's slaying he quoted Montlake as saying he feared the trial in New York would implicate customers to whom Montlake had sold stolen jewelry, and that Montlake's reputation for protecting those who dealt with him would suffer. Gordon said further that Montlake told him he had been held up and robbed of $1,000 worth of jewelry at 1 a. m. yesterday, at almost the same spot where he was shot to death last night.

POLICE POINT TO 22 YEAR CRIME RECORD OF SLAIN GANG FENCE

Albert Montlake, shot to death last night in a mysterious assassination in the South Shore district, had a criminal record dating back to 1914. In the twenty-two years he had been in trouble with the law he had used many aliases.

As DAVE SCHMOOLFELD, Dec. 29, 1914, New York City, attempted grand larceny by pickpocket; three months in the workhouse.

As DAVID J. SCHMOOLFELD, Jan. 3, 1915, arrested New York City, disorderly conduct; three months in the workhouse.

As HARRY STEIN, May 30, 1915, arrested New York City, grand larceny; discharged.

As SIMON MILLER, Oct. 17, 1915, arrested New York City, disorderly conduct; one month in the workhouse.

As SOLOMON SMULFELD, May 1, 1916, arrested Philadelphia, Pa., larceny, pickpocket; discharged and given "hours" [to leave town].

Student Drinks Chloroform; Sets Fire to Clothes; Dies

Bloomington, Ind., April 26.—[Special.]—James Freeman, 20 years old, of Syracuse, Ind., a pre-medic student at Indiana university, died tonight in a hospital here of burns suffered earlier in the day when he saturated his clothing with gasoline and set fire to it. Witnesses said Freeman exclaimed that he had drunk a quantity of chloroform and then made a human pyre of himself because he wanted to die.

there. A crest of 48 feet in the Ohio river was forecast, a height that would submerge Wheeling Island, residential community of 10,000 persons, in the center of the big stream.

Trucks and sandbags were stationed at strategic points in the city for immediate service and more than 100 PWA workers were ordered to stand by for duty. Another 100 CCC enrollees were ordered to be ready for flood protection work.

Cumberland, Md., Flooded.

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—Rising flood waters and one of the worst spring storms in Chesapeake bay history caused distress to members of a congressional party and to residents living in the area.

Business was suspended at Cumberland, Md., and women were evacuated from the business section as water flooded over important streets. Merchants boarded up store fronts and moved stocks.

Firemen dragged a swollen river at Orange, Va., for the bodies of five youths believed to have drowned when their automobile went through a washed out bridge.

Garner in Ship Party.

The Chesapeake bay storm caught a congressional party that was returning from a tour of the Virginia peninsula. Minor injuries and illness were reported by some of the members, although they docked safely after flood tides and winds had delayed them an hour and a half.

Vice President John Garner and nearly a hundred senators and representatives and the wives of some were aboard the ship District of Columbia, a 2,100 ton vessel. It ran into the full force of the gale almost immediately after leaving Old Point Comfort, Va., where for two days the party had headquartered while touring the peninsula.

Dining Salon Wrecked.

The ship had been on its way only a short time when a 65 mile wind drove 30 foot waves over the prow of the ship, Capt. Eddie Eaton reported. A wave caught her broadside, swung her far over and wrecked the interior of the dining salon where 85 persons were at dinner.

Many of the diners were thrown from their seats and dashed among overturned tables and spilled dishes. Mrs. Ernest Lundeen, wife of the senator from Minnesota, said she was bruised slightly and Mrs. Andrew J. May, wife of the representative from Kentucky, reported she received a sprained wrist and chest bruises.

HEAR EXPERTS TELL ACTION OF DENHARDT'S GUN

Jurors See Pictures of Death Weapon.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New Castle, Ky., April 26.—[Special.]—Brig. Gen. Henry H. Denhardt's old army revolver, with which his fiancée, Mrs. Verna Garr Taylor, was killed on the night of last Nov. 6, was held from 9 to 18 inches away from her breast at the moment of the explosion, according to expert testimony at Denhardt's trial for murder today.

Sergt. John Messmer.

Probably never before has a state gone to such efforts to show what happens when a bullet is fired into a body from close range.

It appears certain from this testimony, based on test shots made on the carcass of a hog, over which Mrs. Taylor's black dress and pink slip had been draped, and from microscopic examination of the skin taken from the area of the widow's death wound, that the gun was not held close to her body.

Whether she was able, as the defense will maintain, to hold it away from her breast, pulling the trigger with her thumb, is a matter for the jury to decide.

Crowd Packs Courtroom.

On this vital question hangs the fate of the sad-faced general, now 61 years old, and one of Kentucky's most popular politicians, who was forced to sit in Judge Charles C. Marshall's court today, facing the two daughters of Mrs. Taylor and a curious crowd that packed the ancient structure to the window sills, while this evidence was paraded before the jury.

This evidence was not placed before the jury without long arguments in chambers, in which the defense fought to keep it out. On one point the defense won. That was the decision not to permit Dr. A. J. Miller the state's expert, to testify from comparison of the bullet scarred hog flesh and the woman's wounded flesh, how far away the gun must have been held at the time.

The doctor would have placed this distance at not closer than eighteen inches, which would make it impossible for the woman to have killed herself.

May Change Decision.

Judge Marshall indicated tonight that he might change this decision tomorrow, or that the question might be reframed. It still might be possible for Mrs. Taylor to have killed herself at a nine-inch distance. Outside of this possibility, however, the state's case places Denhardt in the position of the killer. He was near his parked car with the widow at the time of the shooting, and no one else has been placed there. It was his gun.

No motive has been shown either for murder or suicide, although it was touched upon today in the evidence that Mrs. Taylor had suffered from severe headaches and had taken treatment for them in Louisville. This might indicate ill health and a progressive melancholia. All other motives are in the rumor and gossip stage.

Another important angle of expert testimony today was the commonwealth's effort to build the base for its contention that scientific evidence will indicate that Denhardt actually held the revolver in his hand when it exploded.

Explosive Expert Heard.

This was the evidence of Clyde T. Erwin, ballistics expert of the Peters Cartridge company, King's Mill, O., a student of physics and chemistry and formerly with the bureau of standards in Washington, D. C. He brought before the jury a series of sparkograph or shadow pictures of the revolver, showing the explosion leakage action.

Later evidence is to attempt to show the marks of such a leakage were found on Denhardt's hand by the paraffin test. All that was shown today is that the revolver might leave a mark of this character on the hand that held it during explosion.

Dr. John T. Walsh, Mrs. Taylor's personal physician, from La Grange, and Dr. Miller were the state's experts on the gun distance tests. With Sergt. John I. Messmer of the Louisville police, they had gone to the rifle range and arranged the pig test. Dr. Walsh also had assisted at the autopsy and pleased the defense greatly when he said in his testimony this morning that there were powder marks around the wound. This was later explained to the satisfaction of the state.

Describe Bullet Tests.

Both doctors described the pig tests in detail. There were five experiments made, at 3, 6, 9, and 18 inches and at contact with the flesh. The results to the clothing and to the stain were given in each shot. At the contact shot in this test there was a large hole and deep discoloration from powder and other stains on the dress and the slip. The discoloration on the skin was dense and particles of carbon deposits were found.

As the gun was held further away the powder residue marks became fewer. At 9 inches the outer garment is discolored and there is a powder residue on the skin. At 18 inches there were slight discolorations and some slight markings of powder. The gun was held, therefore, somewhere between 9 and 18 inches, if this test is to hold good.

Another point made by the experts for the state was that there was no evidence of "ballooning" of the wound in Mrs. Taylor's body, such as would have occurred if the gun had been held close and the pressure of the gas had not begun until after the bullet had entered the body.

Such evidence again would take the gun several inches away from the body.

FOREIGNERS IN RUSSIA FEAR EXPULSION AS POLICE OUST CHINESE

MOSCOW, April 26.—(AP)—Without explanation the soviet police tonight ordered seventeen Chinese long resident in Moscow to leave the soviet union at once. The capital's Chinese colony of 500 was seriously alarmed by this move.

Anxiety was shared by other foreign residents who believed it may foreshadow renewed pressure to expel all foreigners not employed under contracts or recognized representatives of foreign firms. Pressure to reduce the foreign population of Russia is considered partly responsible for the fact that about 400 American residents have left the country in the last eighteen months.

The seventeen expelled Chinese appealed to their embassy for aid. Most of them have lived here since before the world war. Some are married to Russians. All are said to have good records.

RUMANIA SIGNS PACT WITH POLES TO STOP RUSSIA

Seek to Prevent Military Aid Reaching France.

BY DONALD DAY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, April 26.—Poland and Rumania have signed an agreement which is designed to make it impossible for Russia to send aid to her ally, France, across Polish or Rumanian territory in the event of war, it was disclosed tonight. It was stated the agreement also concerns Czechoslovakia, whose military understanding with Russia produced turmoil in central Europe.

Foreign Minister Joseph Beck of Poland, who returned from Bucharest tonight, said the Polish-Rumanian alliance had been greatly strengthened.

Serb-Italian Pact Hinted.

Both countries definitly abandoned any illusions over the possibility of promoting peace in Europe by means of collective security pacts directed against Germany, it was said. Beck hinted that a Rumanian-Italian understanding along the lines of a recent agreement between Jugo-Slavia and Italy might be expected soon.

Replying to bitter complaints in the French press that Poland is attempting to destroy the little entente of Rumania, Czechoslovakia, and Jugo-Slavia, officials asserted Poland is remaining faithful to her French alliance.

Hit Red Agitation.

Poland is interested in promoting closer relations between Hungary and Rumania, and Beck's conversations with King Carol of Rumania and Foreign Minister Victor Antonescu, are reported to have been successful.

The chief reason for Poland's unusual diplomatic activity is said to be a direct result of the international situation in France, which is considered to be getting more critical. Another reason is that Poland and Rumania both consider communist agitation directed from Moscow as a serious threat to public order within their borders. Both are also interested in preventing Moscow from increasing its influence.

EVANSTON'S NEW MAYOR WILL KEEP FREEMAN AS CHIEF

William O. Freeman will remain as chief of police of Evanston. Evanston's new mayor, Henry D. Penfield, last night included him in his appointments. Mayor Penfield added a warning that the police department "must keep out of politics in the future." Chief Freeman, police head in Evanston for ten years, pledged full coöperation with the mayor.

Other officials retained are Dr. John W. H. Pollard, health commissioner; Edward M. Goodman, building commissioner, and Albert N. Hofstetter, fire chief.

The new appointees were Wesley W. Polk, superintendent of public works; Crittendon C. Jarvis, city attorney; Eugene Sanford, city collector, and A. A. De Lapp, city controler. Polk formerly headed the water department, which now is merged with public works. Sanford will succeed S. J. Ingraham, who was elected city treasurer. Only Polk's appointment was confirmed last night.

EVERY WOMAN FACES THIS QUESTION
How do I look to other people? So many women risk their beauty by neglect of constipation. It often causes loss of pep, sallow skins, dull eyes, poor complexions.
Yet common constipation can be ended so easily. Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or fruits every day, three times daily in severe cases. This delicious ready-to-eat cereal supplies the "bulk" needed to exercise the system—and vitamin B to help tone up the intestinal tract.
Within the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs more than twice its weight in water, gently sponging out the intestines. It never causes the artificial action of pills and drugs, that often prove ineffective.
Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, you see, is a food—not a medicine. It relieves common constipation the way Nature intended -- so it's results are safe. Buy it at your grocer's. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

COURT SILENT AS DICTATOR RULES IN RHODE ISLAND

Refuses to Act Upon Assembly Protest.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Providence, R. I., April 26.—[Special.]—The last chapter in a turbulent session of the Rhode Island legislature was written today by the state Supreme court which was the first creation of the dictatorship which has governed Rhode Island for the last two years. The tribunal refused to adjudge the high handed tactics employed by the administration during the closing hours of the legislature last week.

The gavel was used in the senate to override a vociferous majority in order to put over the program of Gov. Robert E. Quinn, who is building a "little New Deal" on the Roosevelt blue print in this state.

The same gavel was wielded by Quinn on the night of the "bloodless revolution," Jan. 1, 1935, when all the members of the state Supreme court [Republicans] were ousted from office and the bench was filled with political appointees of Theodore Francis Green, then governor and now a United States senator. Quinn was lieutenant governor at that time. The court that sprang into being that night is the one in power today.

Bills Gaveled Through.

Brandishing the polished mallet in the faces of a majority last Thursday, Lieut. Gov. Raymond E. Jordan approved the passage by the senate in rapid succession of the 14 million dollar state budget, a cent increase in the gas tax, and a deficiency bill providing additional appropriations for the state government during the current fiscal year.

The senate majority, made up of 21 Republicans, attempted vainly to obtain call votes and consideration of amendments. Afterward the group sent a record of the proceedings to the Supreme court with a petition asking an opinion.

To this the Supreme court, which is directed by the state constitution to render advisory opinions on legislative controversies of this nature, replied that nothing could be done because the general assembly had packed up and gone home.

"The twenty-one members who proposed the question [petition] apparently joined in the passage of the resolution of adjournment," said the tribunal, "consequently, the senate is no longer in session, and our advisory opinion thereon could not enable that body, to act legally upon a pending question."

Suit Is Only Recourse.

The attitude of the court left only one recourse open to those who found fault with the measures as they were hurriedly injected into the law of the state. This would be a suit started by a tax payer which would have to move upward slowly from the lower courts to eventual determination by the Supreme court. The possibility of such an action was deemed remote.

This was not the first time a majority had been graveled under during the legislative session just concluded. A month ago a bloc of recalcitrant Democrats combined with the Republican minority in the house to precipitate scenes of riotous disorder and bodily violence.

A bill providing life tenure for Supreme court judges to take the bench out of politics was opposed by the Quinn forces. The governor has his own idea about the court, one of which is to repack it with two new members of his own choosing. Seeing a majority in favor of the lifetime proposal, Speaker James H. Kernan, ward politician in Providence and the governor's mouthpiece, gaveled the bill back to committee for burial in the face of a storm of "noes."

The following week the Quinn forces moved to strip Mayor Thomas P. McCoy of Pawtucket, leader of the revolting Democrats, of all his municipal powers. The "stripper" bill was seized on its way to the speaker's rostrum and torn to shreds. Fist fights followed. The coalition majority against the governor elected a speaker and sent a petition to the Supreme court demanding a clarification of the parliamentary situation. The Supreme court refused to act in this case, even though the legislature was in session.

Tells Love Tragedy

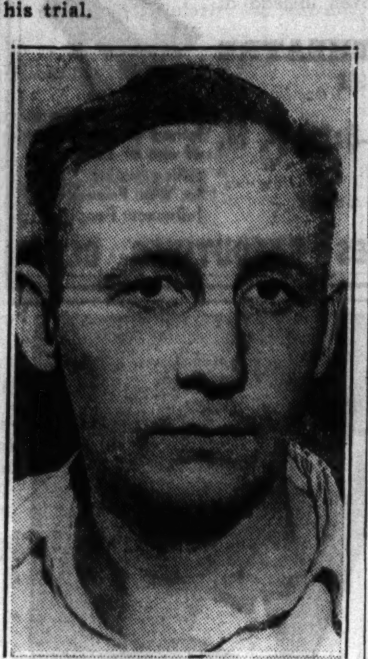
Mrs. Floris Willeford as she described events leading up to the killing of Charles Truchan, her sweetheart, by her husband, when she appeared at police station. She said she would aid her husband in his trial.



[TRIBUNE Photos.]

Samuel Willeford, who shot his wife's young lover after he had warned the two to drop their affair, in cell awaiting hearing yesterday.

Turns to Mate After He Kills Rival.

If given a chance, Mrs. Floris Willeford, an attractive brunette, will stand by her husband, Samuel, who shot and killed her young lover Sunday night in her home at 2724 West 38th street. She will even return to her husband, but the first word of reconciliation must come from him.

Mrs. Willeford, mother of three children and expecting a fourth, expressed these sentiments yesterday before she and her husband were brought together in the Brighton Park police station. But once in the station for questioning over the death of Charles Truchan, 21 years old, 3219 West 37th street, Mrs. Willeford showed a reluctance to converse with or glance at her taciturn husband.

"I'll Stick to Him."

"Now Chuckie is gone, and I can't help him," mourned Mrs. Willeford, who is 27 years old. "But I can help Sam. He told me before the shooting that I could always come back to him. The way things have turned out I guess I can't, but I'll stick to him through the trial."

Truchan had come into the Willeford home as a friend about five years ago, but not until three years later, according to her story to the police, did a romance develop. Willeford lately had warned both Truchan and his wife that the affair couldn't continue, the police said.

Mrs. Willeford's answer six weeks ago had been to leave her husband and their three children, Samuel Jr., 11; Jack, 9, and Floris, 6, and to file a divorce suit. Sunday she made a visit to her husband at his request, and Truchan had arrived later.

Youth Refuses to Give Her Up.

Before the arrival of Truchan, Willeford had made an ineffectual plea for a reconciliation, his wife said. When Truchan came in Willeford searched him for a gun. Truchan refused to give up Floris, and Willeford shot him.

In a reminiscent mood at the detective bureau's women's quarters where she is being held for the inquest today, Mrs. Willeford told of her concern for her "big brother" husband, and her affection for the dead Truchan.

"Sam and I have known each other since we were kids together in Council Bluffs, Ia. His oldest brother was my stepfather. When I was 15 years old we ran away and were married.

Recalls Reconciliation Plea.

"I thought the dispute with Sam was straightened out. On account of the children we stayed together several months longer than we intended to."

Recalling the scene prior to the shooting, Mrs. Willeford said her husband had sat beside her on the davenport, placed his arm around her and said, "Honey, I'm sorry that you hate me." She replied that she didn't, but that he was more like a brother than a husband, and she had a different feeling for Truchan.

Although admitting her romance with Truchan, Mrs. Willeford was insistent that her husband is the father of her expected child.

Doesn't Believe in Divorce.

"I had never thought of shooting Truchan, but I wanted desperately to end their affair," Willeford said. "I don't believe in divorce, and I got them together to try and make some arrangement.

"I'd take the kid back because of the children. It's a woman's job to care for the youngsters she brings into the world. No matter what the world thinks of her, she still is my children's mother."

BROKER ACCUSES EX-FOLLIES GIRL IN $1,700,000 'CLIP'

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—Extortion charges reached an all-time high today when Louis Bamberger, stock broker once credited with a fortune of $50,000,000, complained to the district attorney's office that he had been clipped for a total of $1,700,000 over a seventeen year period.

The shears, he said, were clutched in the hands of Betty Randolph, whose glamorous background includes a Follies career, four husbands, penthouses, diamonds, Rolls Royces and a jilted minister who sued her for breach of promise.

Betty herself is suing Bamberger for breach of promise, contending that he agreed in 1916 to support her at the rate of $100,000 a year for the rest of her life, but stopped making payments in 1933.

GREENER PASTURES, FATTER FISH FRIES, WIN FOR MESSIAH

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—Father Divine, head man of Harlem's heaven, has triumphed over his celestial foes by banishing faithful Mary from the Garden of Eden and promising his wavering angels greener pastures and more barbecues.

And Mary—she irked "god" by calling him a "damned old man" and fomenting an incipient revolution in the promised land—admits she has been heaved out of heaven.

Her decision to shake the dirt of the promised land from her heels came soon after "god" made a flying trip to Ulster county yesterday, spoke to the angels there who were wavering between him and Mary, pledged more "peace—it's wonderful," better food and greater miracles.

As soon as they were back in the fold "god" called a conference of the boss angels, and then his attorney, Arthur A. Madison, announced plans for some "extra super heavens"—some colossal, stupendous heavens.

"We're going to buy all the property in Ulster county that we can lay our hands on," he said. "Under our long-term program we eventually will build our own automobiles, make our own clothing and shoes. Everything will be on a community basis, with all of the producers sharing in the proceeds. There's no telling where it will end."

LOVE BALM SUITS ARE DEFENDED BY JUDGE DAVID

Judge Joseph B. David yesterday defended the legality of breach of promise suits in comment from the bench before he granted a continuance until today to Miss Alyce Strand, who is suing J. Leslie Younghusband, wealthy lipstick king, for $100,000, alleging breach of promise.

"What's all this noise about breach of promise suits?" Judge David asked. "Is some member of the legislature afraid he will be sued? I think the outlawing of heart balm suits is unconstitutional."

Miss Strand's suit, originally filed in 1933, asserts that she accepted Younghusband's proposal in the spring of 1933, and two months later he had married another woman, his third wife. Last March 26 Younghusband was ordered to pay $125 weekly to his fourth wife, Lillian Hawes Carter, pending hearing of her divorce suit.

JAILS FORGOTTEN WOMAN TILL SHE CAN REMEMBER

Court Rules Daisy Must Tell About $30,000.

Mrs. Daisy Tegtmeyer, 50 years old, a widow, forgotten woman of the county jail, will remain forgotten until she chooses to talk freely of the $30,000 she is accused of withholding from an estate for which she was trustee.

Judge Cornelius J. Harrington made this ruling yesterday in denying another request, one of many in the past three years, by which Mrs. Tegtmeyer sought freedom. Judge Harrington, who had the matter under advisement since Dec. 24, will enter his final order Thursday.

Fails to Clear Mystery.

In the December hearing, Mrs. Tegtmeyer broke a long silence, but failed to clear up the mystery of what happened to the money. On Jan. 5, 1934, Mrs. Tegtmeyer was sentenced to jail for contempt of court, in connection with the administration of the estate of her father-in-law, Henry, a Des Moines real estate man.

Mrs. Tegtmeyer later told of spending some money on a worthless gold mine stock. The rest of the $30,000, about $27,000, was sewed in an old fur coat and left in her apartment at 6033 Vernon avenue when she went to jail, she said. But, Mrs. Tegtmeyer added, friends told her that burglars had stolen the coat after she was locked up.

Accompanied by deputy sheriffs, Mrs. Tegtmeyer was permitted to return to the apartment to look for the coat. But it was not found.

Both Frank and Evasive.

Judge Harrington remarked yesterday that in answering questions about hiding the money, Mrs. Tegtmeyer at times was frank, but often became evasive.

The court also stated it had repeatedly sought to have Mrs. Tegtmeyer examined by Dr. Harry R. Hoffman of the Criminal court behavior clinic. Each offer, however, according to Judge Harrington, was spurned by Mrs. Tegtmeyer's sister, Mrs. Myrtle Moore, a school teacher of New York City.

First Chinese Catholic Priest Ordained in Nanking

NANKING, China, April 26.—(AP)—The first Chinese Catholic priest, Father Liang Shihchi, was ordained today—300 years after the advent of organized Catholicism in this ancient city.

PLAN UNION OF YUKON TO BRITISH COLUMBIA RULE

VICTORIA, B. C., April 26.—(AP)—Premier T. D. Pattullo announced today agreement had been reached with the dominion government for the acquisition of the Yukon territory [207,076 square miles] by British Columbia. The territory's population in 1931 was 4,230.

The addition of the northern territory would make British Columbia the second largest province in Canada with an area of 579,706 square miles. The largest is Quebec with an area of 706,834 square miles.

The legislature of British Columbia will have to approve the acquisition, Premier Pattullo said. He pointed out that the new British Columbia will extend to the Arctic ocean. The Yukon territory's administration was carried on by the dominion government with a local government composed of a chief executive and an elective council of three members. As a part of a province, its administration will be carried on by the provincial government.

LOYALISTS FIRE CITY TO BLOCK REBEL ADVANCE

Eibar in Flames; Bilbao Defense Cracks.

BULLETIN.

GUERNICA, Spain, April 27 (Tuesday).—(AP)—Hundreds of civilians were killed and this ancient city, once capital of the Basque country, was left a mass of blazing ruins today after a three and one-half hour insurgent aerial bombardment.

BY MANUEL LYRA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

LISBON, Portugal, April 26.—The rebel army in northern Spain is advancing on Bilbao along a broad front, dispatches from Spanish rebel headquarters reported today.

One column of Gen. Emilio Mola's rebel force is reported to have carried to the gates of Durango—once a town of 9,000. Basque loyalists abandoned the town, which had been the key point of the Bilbao outer defense during four weeks of attack and all day long were fleeing along the 16 mile down hill road to the coast. Durango was subjected to heavy artillery bombardment and there was fierce fighting in the trenches outside the city.

Town a "Vast Furnace."

East of Durango loyalists set fire to Eibar, important munitions manufacturing city of 25,000, to impede the progress of the rebel army. Rebels said Eibar was a "vast furnace." However, Gen. Mola's second column made its way around the edge of the town and surged to the outskirts of Marquina, 5 miles north of Eibar and only a short distance from the Bay of Biscay coast.

[Some reports said Durango and Eibar already have been occupied by the rebels, but the Basque government denied this.]

Bilbao, a city of blast furnaces and called the "Pittsburgh of Spain," is reported in imminent danger. The Basque capital is normally a city of 176,000, but during nearly a month in which it has been besieged by land and blockaded by sea, refugees have swelled the population to nearly 400,000. It is reported Bilbao citizens have commenced to evacuate the city.

Follows Weeks of Shelling.

Weeks of shelling by rebel heavy guns and air raids on Durango, Eibar, and Bilbao prepared the way for today's wide movement. The start of the loyalist collapse came Saturday when rebels captured the village of El Orrio. More than 1,000 loyalists were taken prisoners and much war material was left on the battle field.

By last night the rebel forces had established a semi-circular line on the Cantabrian heights, ready to start their downhill push toward the plain of Durango.

The rebels had captured Mount Udala, the last of the greater peaks to remain a government fortress. Farther to the right they occupied three crests of Mount Enchorta. This put them in control of El Gueta pass and the highest mountains on the front—Gorbea, Aranguio, Amboto, and Udala.

Cut Off Two Key Towns.

To start their drive the rebels captured Verriz, which broke off rail communication between Durango and Eibar. Then they moved toward the two towns. The wall of flames at Eibar prevented immediate occupation, but the headquarters of Gen. Mola expressed confidence that the towns would be completely in their possession tomorrow. The headquarters declared 3,000 loyalist prisoners had been taken in two days.

Rebel capture of Verriz prevented loyalist troops at Eibar from retreating toward Durango and they withdrew in the direction of Marquina instead. As loyalist forces and refugees from Durango fled toward Bilbao and those from Eibar moved toward Marquina, rebel aviation pursued them with crackling machine guns. Durango, Eibar, and Marquina were heavily bombed from the air.

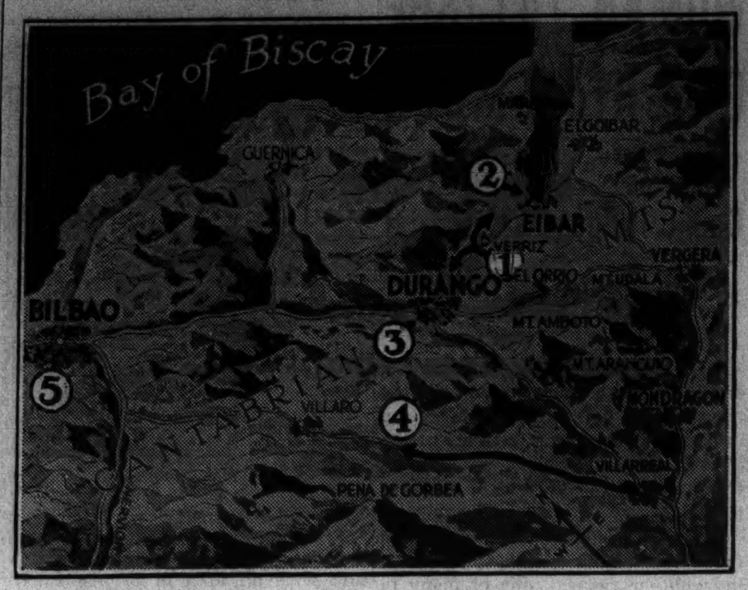
Order Planes to Shield Madrid.

MADRID, April 26.—(AP)—Spanish government aviators today were ordered to silence the relentless roar of rebel artillery, which in the past fortnight had cost Madrid 250 lives.

Defense chief, Gen. José Miaja, said he had directed his aviators to drop 100 kilogram [220 pound] bombs on enemy gun emplacements in Carabanchel and Casa de Campo park, across the Manzanares river. At least fifteen persons were killed today and more than twenty injured in two bombardments.

SPANISH REBELS CRACK BILBAO DEFENSE

(Story in adjoining column.)



Spanish rebels attacking yesterday on a broad front smashed a wide breach in the outer defenses of Bilbao, industrial metropolis of northern Spain. The main rebel force struck through main communication lines at Verriz (1). Loyalists cut off at Eibar (2) set the munitions town afire and fled toward Marquina. Other rebel soldiers reached the outskirts of Durango (3). Loyalists abandoned the town and retreated toward Bilbao. Another rebel force (4) is advancing toward Bilbao (5) along a road farther south.

HITLER LAUDS FRANCO FOR UNIFYING PARTY OF SPANISH REBELS

SALAMANCA, Spain, April 26.—(AP)—Gen. Francisco Franco, virtual dictator of rebel-held Spain, received a message from Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler today congratulating him upon the creation of a one party system similar to Germany's National Socialist [Nazi] party. Franco last week decreed the incorporation of Carlists [Monarchists] and Falangistas [Fascists] into a single official party and the abolition of all other parties. Telegrams of congratulation also included more than 100 messages from South America.

Two Garage Alligators Enter Advertising Field

If the gentleman who prefers his garage without alligators will return, Mrs. Ethel Aldrich can give him that kind. The two alligators who have been living in her garage at 801 North Humphrey avenue, Oak Park, went into the advertising business yesterday—in the show window of a sea food house. Mrs. Aldrich rented the garage Sunday to a man whose name she neglected to ask. When he saw the alligators, left by a former owner of the property, he departed hurriedly and has not been seen since.

BOOKIE'S WIDOW, GIRL FRIEND MEET IN STONY SILENCE

The widow of Oscar Klinger and the slain bookmaker's sweetheart met face to face in stony silence in the office of Capt. Charles Pawlowski at the Shakespeare avenue station yesterday.

Barbara Klinger, whose golden hair is shot with red, puffed many cigarets and denied volubly to others that she knew anything of the extra-marital affair of her husband, who was executed in gangland style last Friday night. But she had nothing to say to the other woman.

The other woman, Miss Marcia Thompson, 26 years old, tall and brunette, told police she had been Klinger's sweetheart for the last year—that he paid the rent on her apartment and spent many nights there. But she had no words—only a glance—for Mrs. Klinger.

Police clung to their contention that jealousy motivated the slaying of Klinger, a former pugilist, and continued their probe into his love affairs.

Capt. Pawlowski took into custody yesterday Frank Darling, 30 years old, an employé of the Maytag Washington Machine company who is a former sweetheart of Miss Thompson. Ponice said Miss Thompson met Darling Friday afternoon, the day of the murder.

New Rules for Burning Gas Asked After 4 Die

Although disclosing no cause for the blast which wrecked a boiler plant of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation at 3426 East 89th street March 2, killing four men and injuring five others, a coroner's jury made up of engineers yesterday recommended that a new city and state code regulating the use of burning gas be drawn.

FRANCO WARNED TO HALT THREATS ON BRITISH SHIPS

Rebels Insist Sea Limit Is Six Miles from Shore.

LONDON, April 26.—(AP)—Sir Henry G. Chilton, British ambassador to Spain, was instructed today to protest to the rebel Spanish junta at Salamanca against the "interference" of rebel warships with three British food ships en route to Bilbao.

It was believed the protest concerned the freighters which ran the rebel blockade April 23, bearing food into famished Bilbao, besieged Basque capital. These ships were menaced by rebel warship guns until the Hood, Britain's greatest battle cruiser, came up and escorted them as far as the three mile limit, within which the Basque government protected them.

Argue Over Three Miles.

The British foreign office and rebel Gen. Francisco Franco are three miles apart on their definitions of the "high seas." The British contend "the high seas" stretch to within three miles of the Spanish shore. Franco says the limit is six miles.

A Franco envoy today protested to Sir Henry at St. Jean de Luz, France, concerning the manner of protection British warships were giving merchantmen.

This dispute came up again today after Sir Henry's instructions had been wired. The rebel cruiser Almirante Cervera tried to prevent a Glasgow coal boat, the Oak Grove, from entering Santander.

The Almirante Cervera wirelessed the nearby British cruiser Shropshire she intended to halt the Oak Grove inside the "six mile limit." The British ship replied she would give the Oak Grove protection to the three mile limit. The Almirante Cervera pulled away.

Vessel Turned Back to Gibraltar.

Also, the seventh British freighter to run the attempted blockade of Bilboa the Sheaf Garth slipped into the harbor with a cargo of food.

The captain of the British merchantman Greathope returned to Gibraltar and reported to naval authorities he had been ordered back to the port by armed rebel trawlers. The Greathope was en route to Antwerp with a cargo of oranges from Valencia.

The blockade question also came up in the house of commons and Viscount Cranborne, undersecretary for foreign affairs, reassured questioners there would be no interference with British shipping on the high seas.

U. S. URGES NAZIS TO SPARE LIFE OF CONDEMNED JEW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 26.—American embassy officials today continued their efforts to save Helmuth Hirsch, 21 year old American, from the axman's block. Hirsch, a Jew, was sentenced to death on charge of violating the high explosives act. American officials are still hopeful Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler will commute the death sentence.

The American embassy made representations to the foreign office and urged clemency. The plea was based on Hirsch's youth; he was 20 years old at the time of his arrest in Stuttgart last December. It was stressed that Hirsch probably was a tool of older men in a plot to assassinate either Hitler or some other higher officials.

Hirsch's parents, who fled Germany, live in Prague, Czechoslovakia.

COMPENSATION LAW UPHELD BY MADISON COURT

$20,000 Is Awarded Two Disabled Workers.

Madison, Wis., April 26.—[Special.]—The constitutionality of a provision in Wisconsin's compensation act, making it compulsory rather than optional between employers and employés, was upheld today by Circuit Judge Alvin C. Reis. The decision holds the Montello Granite company liable for the payment of more than $20,000 to two workers, Joseph Heller and Robert Zellmer, who contracted silicosis.

The company and its employés in 1933 entered into a "partnership" arrangement, whereby the 51 laborers became partners in the business, thus relieving the corporation, it was believed, from liability for compensation. The plant closed in 1935 and most of the employés were sent to Milwaukee for medical examinations. Heller and Zallmer were found to have silicosis in an advanced stage. The company allegedly refused to rehire them and they filed claims for compensation.

Assails "Partnership" Pact.

In supporting the claims, Judge Reis held that the so-called partnership was "shallow in its conception and devoid of partnership characteristics" and that the 51 workers only went through with it "in the pathetically hungry hope of getting back their jobs."

"It is said," Judge Reis continued, "that no compulsory law like Wisconsin's has been ruled upon in this state or elsewhere. Then it is about time that we faced the problem. It would take some temerity to hold that an employer and employé had 'liberty of contract' to wash out the workmen's compensation act.

Cites Changes in Outlook.

"With the postdepression deluge of decisions regarding living wages, industrial relations, fixing of minimum prices and fair trade practice codes—all of them hammering down the individual's right to bargain—freedom of contract is not what it was a decade ago.

"The Montello Granite company does not have to stay in business. It remains in business with an expectancy of profit. It cannot profit at the expense of social wreckage which it turns out in the form of grown men hacking themselves to death from lung disease.

"Unless that cost can be avoided by the installation of safeguards to suck away the silica dust—or at least until the manufacturer is forced to pay for the human consequences of his output—the company ought to close shop."

City Seeks Out of Court Pact on Calumet-Sag Claim

The city will seek an out-of-court settlement of the claims of the Pressed Steel Car company and Calumet River Railroad company, which are delaying the Calumet-Sag channel navigation project. Accordingly, a hearing on the claims yesterday was continued indefinitly by Master in Chancery Thomas McDonald of the federal court. The companies contend that the dumping of fill in the old Calumet channel impairs the value of their property to the extent of $35,000.

GETS HIS MAN

Robert Schaefer, age 8, in his "G-man" headquarters at Lancaster, O., where escaped federal prisoner hid. He ordered Robert to keep quiet, but the boy called police.

[Associated Press Wirephotos.]

Owen Bickel, escaped prisoner who was caught by boy playing "G-man."

Lancaster, O., April 26.—(AP)—True to the "G-man" tradition, 8 year old Robert Schaefer refused to talk today of his part in the capture of Owen Bickel of Coshocton, O., an escaped federal prisoner.

The boy bashfully limited his remarks to "I never thought I could catch a real prisoner."

Police Chief Gail Sesler, however, said the youth's feat probably would be given formal recognition of some kind, and that Robert would receive the personal thanks of the mayor.

Robert went to a back yard playhouse which he and a playmate, Jack Hauser, 7, used a a "jail," and found Bickel hiding there yesterday. Spurning a dollar bill offered to "keep quiet," Robert dashed out and told Patrolman Harley Highley that he had captured a prisoner.

ST. JOHN'S, Newfoundland, April 26.—The first experimental flight over the North Atlantic in connection with Great Britain's extension of the empire mail and passenger service will be made from England to Newfoundland during coronation week [May 9 to 15] if ice conditions at the Botwood, Newfoundland, seaplane base permit. Botwood lake still is filled with ice.

SYPHILIS CLINIC SCORNED; IOWAN IS FACING JAIL

Court Orders Victim to Accept Cure.

Davenport, Ia., April 26.—[Special.]—Arraigned before Police Magistrate John A. Hornby in city police court this morning on charges of failing to report and take treatment for a veneral disease, Kenneth James pleaded with the court for another opportunity to attend the free clinic held here.

His request was granted and the case was continued until May 26 after James promised he would submit to treatment immediately.

Physician Makes Complaint.

James was arrested after Dr. George Braunlich, city physician, signed the information against him. The court was informed that the defendant has syphilis and a month ago reported to the clinic for treatment. He was told to return regularly, but did not do so.

An agent from the state health department testified that she visited James on March 19 and explained to him that the treatment was to be given for his good and for the protection of the public, but he adopted a belligerent attitude and asserted no one could force him to accept treatment.

Part of National Drive.

Dr. Braunlich explained that Davenport authorities are coöperating in the nation-wide campaign to stamp out the disease and presented to the court a list of names of Davenport people who are infected.

James was told that should he fail to report for treatment he would be taken into custody again and will face a $500 fine, a term of six months in jail, or both. James is employed on a relief project.

Russia Plans to Turn Out Planes on Assembly Line

MOSCOW, April 26.—(AP)—A Russian plan to become in 1937 the first nation to produce airplanes on an assembly line, as a step toward mass production of military aircraft, was disclosed tonight by Michael Kaganovich, vice commissar for the defense industry. Writing in the newspaper Pravda, Kaganovich pointed out that American industrial technique must be mastered immediately in order to install a conveyor belt system for aviation similar to those now working in Russian automobile, tractor, and some agricultural machinery industries.

The largest commercial land plane in the United States today is taking shape in the assembly hangar of the Douglas Aircraft company at Santa Monica, Cal. It will be capable of carrying 40 passengers from San Francisco to New York in two stops and is the prototype of machines which at least four commercial air lines will be operating next year. It will be approximately one-third larger than the flying fortress bombers built by the Boeing company at Seattle for the army.

Facts about the new airliner were disclosed in Chicago yesterday by an engineer for the Douglas Aircraft company who was passing through the city. He said the plane would weigh 60,000 pounds with full load and was expected to cruise at 210 miles an hour. The company also claims that it will be the safest land plane ever built. Test flights are scheduled to begin Nov. 15, and the company hopes to begin delivery of planes June 1, 1938.

Stormy History Behind Plane.

This plane has already had a stormy history since a contract for its delivery was signed on March 19, 1936, by five major air lines. They are American, Pan-American, Eastern, United, and Transcontinental and Western Air, and the plane was to have been delivered this spring. But when work began, the five joint purchasers disagreed over minor points in the plans and the whole project was delayed.

The Boeing company was building the flying fortress bombers for the army at the time, and was able to sell a commercial version of the army plane to Pan-American and T. W. A., which had contracted for the Douglas ship. The Boeing commercial plane is designed to weigh 43,000 pounds, powered with a 6,000 horsepower engine, and to carry 30 passengers at a cruising speed of 210 to 230 miles an hour. The two companies are scheduled to receive the Boeing planes beginning May 5, 1938.

Puts on Extra Speed.

When the Douglas company found that two of its customers had bought the Boeing ships, extra speed was ordered to get the big Douglas airliners finished and flying as soon as possible.

Now after the plans have been on paper two years, and work has been going on 13 months, the round fat fuselage, 97 feet long, is virtualy complete except for interior furnishings. The center section of the vast wing, which will have a span of 148 feet, is also nearly done. This center section carries the nacelles, or shells, for the four 1,100 horsepower twin row motors which will be attached to the leading edge of the wing, and also carries the saddle in which the fuselage will rest. The wing tips are now being built and will be bolted to the center section.

SEEK NEW WAR AGAINST CITY'S DIN AND CLATTER

War on the city's din and clatter was brought forward yesterday as a desirable city activity by the noise abatement committee of the City club, which makes a plea to officials that former efforts halted by financial retrenchment be renewed to eliminate health damaging noise.

Concluding a report on the ill effects of excessive noise, the committee recommends that an effective ordinance be drafted, a commission be organized, and coöperation between the health and police departments be established to bring about the elimination of unnecessary noise.

Physicians and engineers are quoted at length in the report on the harm that noise does to individuals.

While little effort is being made in Chicago to minimize the city's roar, other cities, according to the report, have solved the problem.

China-U. S. Air Mail Line Opens; 35,000 Letters Sent

An airplane with the letters left here at 8:30 a.m. [7:30 p.m. Chicago daylight saving time Monday] and was due in Hongkong at 4 p. m. From Hongkong Pan-American Airways will carry the huge mail cargo to the United States by way of Manila.

PANIC ON STREET CAR AS POLICE SEIZE GUNMAN

Armed with two revolvers and an automatic pistol, Paul Dughan, 31 years old, 1634 Monroe street, was seized by Sergt. Joseph Devery and his squad yesterday on a southbound Clark street car at Division street.

Paul Dughan

A score of passengers on the car were thrown into momentary panic as Dughan attempted to draw one of the guns when he was being arrested. The revolvers had been stolen last March from the Chicago Historical society museum, Clark street and North avenue. Yesterday Dughan returned to the museum and was surprised by a guard, Thomas Gilroy, as he tinkered with the lock on an exhibition case.

Taking Gilroy's pistol, Dughan fled. He leaped on the street car as attendants gave chase and others notified police. Dughan admitted he had been released from the state hospital at Dunning several years ago and had been on relief for five years.

CITY TO ASK 35 NEW TROLLEY-'L' TRANSFER POINTS

Request to Be Made at Hearing Thursday.

Transfers between the Chicago Surface Lines and the elevated railways at from thirty to thirty-five additional points will be asked by the city at a hearing before the Illinois commerce commission next Thursday, city representatives stated yesterday.

The city's proposal in effect will require a universal transfer system outside the loop district, providing for interchange of transfers where street car and elevated lines connect, intersect, or are within convenient walking distance of each other. The universal transfer arrangement has been sought by Mayor Kelly for more than three years.

New Points Suggested.

Among the important points which would be added to the fifty-five elevated stations where transfers now may be interchanged under the proposed new arrangement are the following:

EVANSTON DIV.	GARFIELD PK. BR.
Division	Racine
Larrabee	Ogden
Halsted	LOGAN SQ. BRANCH.
Center	Madison
Western	Grand
SOUTH SIDE DIV.	Chicago
18th street	Division
Cermak	HUMBOLDT PK. BR.
26th street	Western
31st street	California
35th street	DOUGLAS PK. BR.
39th street	Roosevelt
61st street	18th street
RAVENSWOOD DIV.
Southport

Hits Unnecessary Restrictions.

Maj. R. F. Kelker, transit expert for the city, maintains that the present limited transfer arrangement between the two systems is complicated by unnecessary restrictions. The only limitations on interline transfers, he asserted yesterday, should be those necessary to prevent improper use.

Mayor Kelly conferred yesterday with Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson regarding the Chicago transit problem and negotiations now under way to draw up a new franchise for the surface lines. Both the surface and elevated lines are under Judge Wilkerson's jurisdiction.

Following the conference, Mayor Kelly said that a substantial cut in the 170 million dollar valuation claimed by the surface lines still is the major requirement for granting of a new transit ordinance.

Hopes for Easy Agreement.

Mayor Kelly said he did not believe that A. W. Harris, head of the Harris Trust and Savings bank and the leading representative of surface lines securities holders, would stand in the way of a settlement of the problem.

"It is my impression," he said, "that Mr. Harris will be inclined to be reasonable."

He added that it also was important to fix a new reduced valuation on the elevated system, which under his program would be combined with the surface lines. He said he had not considered a valuation of the Chicago Motor Coach company which also would be brought under a unified system.

COURTNEY OFFICE WILL TAKE OVER BOMB INQUIRIES

Assistant State's Attorneys Mal Coghlan and William Crawford were assigned yesterday to work with the police bomb squad, which is to be enlarged and transferred to the state's attorney's office as a result of the five bombings last week which were attribued to labor troubles.

Sergt. Andrew Aitken will remain in command of the detail, enlarged to 50 men. There are 10 men on the squad at present.

Dykstra Leaves Thursday for New Wisconsin Post

Cincinnati, April 26.—(AP)—City Manager C. A. Dykstra said late today he and Mrs. Dykstra would leave Thursday for Madison, Wis., where he will assume his duties as president of the University of Wisconsin on May 1.

PROBLEMS MADE EASY

LABOR TROUBLES, MARKET SLUMP HARASS FRANCE

National Assembly Opens Session Today.

PARIS, April 26.—(AP)—Widespread labor troubles, strike violence, and a slump in the stock market harassed the French government on the eve of the opening of the national assembly tomorrow.

Employés of the La Tecoere, an airplane factory at Toulouse, which has not yet been taken over by the government, started something new today by going to work against employers' orders.

Police Refuse to Act.

On strike since April 17, they solved their differences with the management in principle, but accused the company of holding up final details, so went back to work anyway.

Owners called police, claiming illegal occupation of their factory and demanding evacuation of the workers. Police declined to act.

Storekeepers Make Protest.

The ten week old building workers' strike at Nantes flared into violence. Francois Bernard, head of the Building Employers' association, was beaten by strikers, who smashed windows and damaged his offices.

Thirty thousand small storekeepers met in Paris and protested against a two days a week closing order. They encouraged stores to defy the order and stay open.

HARVEY-DIXMOOR FEUD IS REVIVED; POLICE ACCUSED

The old feud between the citizens of Harvey and the police of adjoining Dixmoor was revived last night with the issuance of warants for the arrest of Dixmoor's police chief and his one patrolman. The warants were obtained by attorneys for Everett J. Harris, former police commissioner of Harvey, who said the Dixmoor police department beat him up last Thursday—right in his own home town.

The Dixmoor policemen are Chief Robert Greco and Charles Padwano. Harris is in the Ingalls Memorial hospital in Harvey as a result, he says, of blows from blackjacks and revolver butts.

The feud began long ago when Harvey residents accused Dixmoor police of operating a speed trap into which the Harvey citizens were always falling.

KILLING SUSPECT

Mrs. Stella Maddox, accused of slaying her husband, as she was reunited briefly with her daughter, Dorothy, when trial was delayed yesterday.

Mrs. Stella Maddox, 26 years old, who is charged with the jealous slaying of her husband, Daniel, last March 18, was reunited briefly yesterday with her daughter, Dorothy, 11 years old, who is expected to be the state's star witness in the murder trial. It was the first time Mrs. Maddox had seen her daughter since her arrest soon after the slaying, which Mrs. Maddox insists was an accident.

They met in the Criminal court of Judge Peter M. Schwaba. The judge had just continued the trial until May 10 because Defense Attorney George Crane is busy with other matters, when the girl was led into the courtroom.

"Mama, my mama!" Dorothy cried, rushing to her mother and throwing her arms about her. Mrs. Maddox, in tears, was granted a few minutes alone with the girl before being returned to her cell. The child has told police that she heard her mother threaten Maddox.

Japanese Clash with Reds on Manchukuan Territory

HSINKING, Manchukuo, April 26.—(AP)—A battle between 20 soviet cavalry men and a Manchukuo guard patrol, in which the Russians were reported forced off Manchukuo territory, was described late tonight in a Japanese army communique. The Reds were said to have crossed the border southwest of Pingkangchen and tried to cut military telephone lines. A half hour battle ensued. No casualty figures were given.

POLICE ESCORT CROWN GEMS TO SHOP FOR POLISH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 26.—Eleborate police precautions were taken today when the crown jewels were transferred from the Tower of London to Garrard & Co., crown jewelers, where they will be mended and polished for the coronation on May 12. Eight detectives rode in the van that carried the jewels. Four more followed in a squad car. More than thirty detectives strolled up and down Albemarle street as the van drew up before the shop.

The jewels moved included St. Edward's crown, which is the one used for coronations, four scepters, two maces, an orb, gold spurs, the sword of state, a set of gold communion plate, an ampulla, an anointing spoon, the king's gold staf and state silver trumpets.

The imperial state crown, coronation rings, and the swords of mercy and of temporal and spiritual justice were moved previously.

RAND IS ARRAIGNED ON LABOR CHARGES; PLEADS NOT GUILTY

New Haven, Conn., April 26.—(AP)—James H. Rand Jr., president of Remington Rand, Inc., pleaded innocent in federal court today to a charge of violating a federal law during a strike at the firm's Middletown plant. Arraigned with Rand was Pearl L. Bergoff, head of a New York strikebreaking agency.

The indictment charged Rand and Bergoff with sending some 57 men from New York to Middletown to interfere with peaceful picketing and other lawful conduct in the strike of Rand employés.

Judge Hincks tentatively set the trial date for Monday, May 17, at Hartford, and set bonds at $5,000 each.

Holy Land Jews to Fight Schemes to Curtail Rights

JERUSALEM, April 26.—(AP)—The Zionist general council today unnanimously passed a resolution recording its firm refusal to accept any scheme for Palestine curtailing Jewish rights as expressed in Britain's mandate and the Balfour declaration.

EXILED PRINCE FLIES TO VIENNA; MUST PAY FINE

VIENNA, April 26.—(AP)—Nicholas of Rumania found out today how it feels to be a commoner.

Stripped of his princely titled by his brother, King Carol, because he wouldn't give up his commoner wife, Nicholas landed at Vienna airport to start his exile this afternoon and immediately was informed he would have to pay a fine. He landed his plane without advance notice, which is required by law.

Nicholas, now plain Mr. Brana, let his adjutant argue it out and hurried to a hotel, where he met a woman believed to be his wife. She preceded him abroad.

BOMB ATTEMPT BRINGS DOUBLED GUARD IN STRIKE

Ford Man Also Target of Death Trap.

Lewiston, Me., April 26.—[Special.] —National Guard sentries were doubled tonight around a strike affected shoe factory which was the target of an apparent bomb attempt.

Three pieces of dynamite were found by a watchman in the yard of the building housing the Venus Shoe Manufacturing company and the Lown Shoe company in nearby Auburn. The two companies are involved in a strike involving nineteen Lewiston and Auburn factories.

A partially burned fuse attached to the dynamite indicated that the crude bomb apparently had failed to explode after it was lighted and thrown into the yard. Both National Guard officers and police were investigating the matter.

Hopes for a settlement of the thirty-two day old dispute soared late today when manufacturers met with representatives of the Committee for Industrial Organization in a preliminary conference.

Seek to Bomb Ford Man.

Detroit, Mich., April 26.—[Special.] —[illegible] attempt to bomb John Gillespie, [illegible] Motor company employé at- [illegible] to the staf of Personnel Di- [illegible] Harry H. Bennett, was dis- [illegible] today by Chief of Police Carl A. Brooks.

The chief said a milk bottle filled with dynamite was found last Thursday wired to the spark plugs of Gillespie's automobile. It was supposedly planted there with the expectation Gillespie would be killed when he stepped on the starter and a spark ignited the explosive. Gillespic was formerly a Detroit politician.

The trial of 79 women and 41 men, charged with contempt of court for disregarding an order to evacuate the Yale & Towne Manufacturing company plant during a sitdown strike, was opened today in Circuit court. The strikers were ejected April 14 with tear gas.

Several hundred employés of Parke Davis & Co. went on a sitdown strike and held possession of the big pharmaceutical plant for nearly six hours. They evacuated this afternoon, however, when 200 uniformed policemen and 50 detectives were mobilized at the factory.

Give Up Ford Fight.

Richmond, Cal., April 26.—[Special.] —Strikers at the Richmond assembly plant of the Ford Motor company returned to work today, apparently without having obtained the union recognition they sought and which Henry Ford has said he never would grant.

Close Machinery Plant.

Saginaw, Mich., April 26.—(AP)—A labor dispute marked by a brief fight between two groups of workers today closed the plant of the Baker-Perkins company, one of the largest manufacturers of baking and confectionery machinery. A truce was arranged tonight and plans were made to resume production tomorrow and start conferences Wednesday between management and labor representatives.

Saginaw police said today's trouble was an outgrowth of attempts by two unions to organize the Baker-Perkins personnel. When the day shift went off at 3:30 this afternoon the fighting broke out at the plant gates. Stones were thrown and several cars damaged.

Battle With Tear Gas.

Trenton, N. J., April 26.—[Special.] —Hamilton township police and striking employés of the Thermoid company battled with tear gas outside the plant gates early tonight after pickets prevented the departure of a truck loaded with rubber goods. The clash followed a partial reopening of the plant when about 300 men and women who are not members of the C. I. O. union returned to work.

Caught After Escape from Chain Gang

Police Get Tip

Fleeing from a Florida chain gang in a prison guard's car, two convicted burglars, one a Chicagoan, were captured here yesterday a few hours after they reached the city. They are James Marron, 24 years old, who lived on the south side until about a year ago, and Robert Kovan, 32 years old, of New York.

Marron was seized after a five block chase on foot by Sergt. Joseph Morrison at 80th street and Eberhart avenue, during which Morrison fired five shots. Kovan was captured in the automobile at 79th street and Calumet avenue. A telephone call that the men were acting suspiciously brought police.

The two escaped men said that they and two other men overpowered a guard who was transferring them in his car to a chain gang camp. They handcuffed the guard to a tree and fled in the car. The other two men left them on the way, and one was recaptured in Georgia yesterday. Marron and Kovan financed their flight with forged checks from the guard's checkbook.

MRS. WILHELM'S MIND UNSOUND, NIECE TELLS JURY

Mrs. Jean Peterson of Normal, Ill., a niece by marriage of the late Mrs. Mary Scully Fagan Wilhelm, testified yesterday that she believed her aunt was mentally incompetent in 1932, a few months before Mrs. Wilhelm, then 75 years old, married August Wilhelm, now 41 years old.

Mrs. Peterson was a witness for the 15 nieces and nephews who seek their aunt's $500,000 estate by attempting to have the marriage to Wilhelm annulled. The case is being heard by a jury before Judge Grover C. Niemeyer.

Mrs. Peterson said that after her aunt met Wilhelm her appearances and manners changed.

Three Held to Grand Jury on Ten Robbery Charges

Judge J. M. Braude of the Boys' court yesterday held Arthur Spitzock, 27 years old, 4830 North Linder avenue; his brother, Raymond, 20, and William Bautz, 24, 4851 North Merrimac avenue, to the grand jury on ten charges of robbery. Arthur Spitzock and Bautz are paroled convicts.

MOTHER LEAVES HOSPITAL WITH BABY; DISAPPEARS

Mrs. Louise Aevermann, who disappeared early yesterday from her home at 1315 North Central avenue, was still missing last night after a search by her husband, Archibald, a florist, and Austin police.

Mrs. Aevermann, who is 30 years old, had been taken home Sunday from St. Anne's hospital where her second son was born eleven days ago. The couple has been married 12 years. The other son, Ronald, is 4 years old. Mrs. Aevermann appeared happy on returning home, but was still in a weakened condition, the husband told police.

Moving Forward

Marshall Field & Company presents here each day observations and opinions intended to be of interest and value to those it seeks to serve

A LIGHT THAT DAWNS

By CALEB

EMPLOYERS who are interested in personnel come to distinguish between employes who have the "management viewpoint" and those who do not.

The customers of most businesses can distinguish between the service they receive from these two types of employes, but they can hardly ascribe the difference to management viewpoint or its lack.

Even employes who have—or who do not have—this viewpoint probably are not aware of having or not having it.

But it is important.

A great many employed people consider themselves to be an element entirely apart from and distinct from the organization employing them. They refer to their company as "they." They waste company assets in small or petty ways they would not waste property of their own.

They dissipate their company's good-will by treating customers less well than the proprietors of the business would treat them.

During the climb of men and women who "go places" there seems to come at some time or another in their careers "a light that dawns" on this particular topic. Some day the employe wakens to the realization that the company's interests are his interests and that he is defeating his own interests whenever he handicaps the interests of his organization.

If you work for someone else, have you the management viewpoint? Are you lined up solidly with your employer resolved to fulfill his purposes of conserving and increasing assets through rendering a service that people will like well enough to return for again and again?

If you have this viewpoint, you probably cannot consider the identity of your job apart from the company. You probably say "we."

This business knows it moves forward through the efforts of our people all down the line. We are never so pleased as when we distinguish the management viewpoint in an employe. "That person," we observe, "will be more successful for having merged himself or herself with the unity of purpose which is aimed toward serving you so as to merit your continuing patronage."

EX-KING COMPELS FIRM TO SUPPRESS BOOK ABOUT HIM

Wrings an Apology from British Publishers.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 26.—Faced with a libel suit by the duke of Windsor, the former King Edward VIII. of Great Britain, the publishers of the book, "Coronation Commentary," backed down today, suppressed the book, and agreed to apologize.

Written by Geoffrey Dennis, who attended Oxford university with Edward when the latter was prince of Wales, the book aroused the anger of the exiled monarch, who from his haven at St. Wolfgang, Austria, objected particularly to the chapters headed "Edward VIII." and "Abdication."

The ultimatum threatening a libel suit was supposed to have been based on statements in the book criticising Edward for his "muddling, fuddling, and meddling" during his brief reign. Undoubtedly highly uncomplimentary references to Edward's fiancée, Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson, also were regarded as objectionable by the ex-king.

Called Wally "Shop Soiled."

Dennis in his book called Mrs. Simpson "shop soiled" and said "she clashed too crudely with the nation's idea and ideal, dream and myth of feminine royalty."

A libel suit against the publishers, William Heinemann, Ltd., is by no means impossible, since "Coronation Commentary" has been widely circulated. All available copies were snapped up Saturday, when it was learned that Edward had issued his ultimatum. Even if he is satisfied by an apology, which is reported to have been conveyed to him already by Dennis and the publishers, Mrs. Simpson probably could sue if she wished to.

There have been hints that other writers and publishers might find themselves facing suits if Edward dislikes their works after examining them.

Edward Calls a Halt.

The general belief has been that any writer or publisher was safe in such matters because of the royal exile's rank. The comment has been heard frequently that any other person would object to the things which are being written about the duke, but that a personage of royal blood must ignore them. Edward apparently has decided that his rank is no reason why he should let persons snipe at him unmolested and that it was time to call a halt.

The publishers of "Coronation Commentary" in commenting on its withdrawal said: "The book is out of print." Any copies—if there are any—are to be called back from retailers.

Another book caused trouble today. It was announced that Mrs. Edith Nepean and a publisher, Stanley Paul, apologized because Mrs. Nepean inadvertently used the name of a real peer, Lord Harrowby, for an objectionable character in a novel, "Gay Penitents." She said the book had been re-issued with the name "Lord Luffston" substituted, since a thorough search showed that nobody bears that name.

Book to Be Sold in U. S.

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—"Coronation Commentary," the book over which the duke of Windsor threatened a libel suit, will not be withdrawn here as it has been in England. The American publishers, Dodd, Mead & Co., announced this today after a hurried conference caused by suppression of the English edition. The announcement said:

"The book is intended to be a fair and faithful presentation of the whole meaning of British democracy during the last century in its relations to the king.

"The record of Edward VIII. both as prince of Wales and as king and the final abdication are dealt with in considerable details, and form a picture of the man which exhibits in sharp lines his many fine qualities as well as his weaknesses.

"No one can read this book without realizing the author's bitter disappointment, shared by millions of his countrymen, over the sensational circumstances of the abdication, or without feeling that, all things considered, he has treated the duke of Windsor with the utmost fairness."

STARS AT A BALL

[Acme Photo.]

MISS VESTA CULBERTSON.

LONDON, April 26.—(AP)—Two hundred and sixty coronation year débutantes, including two Americans, were the stars in a colorful ceremony tonight at Queen Charlotte's birthday ball in the west end.

The Americans were Miss Tracy Haight, daughter of Mrs. Sherman Haight of New York, and Miss Vesta Culbertson, daughter of Mrs. Wallace Kirk of Chicago.

All the débutantes were dressed in white and wore white flower wreaths in their hair. They escorted into the ballroom a cake which was eight feet in diameter and bore 193 candles in honor of Queen Charlotte, consort of George III.

The duchess of Kent, sister-in-law of King George VI. and a descendant of Queen Charlotte, cut the cake. The débutantes distributed the pieces. The ball, honoring the débutantes, was given to aid Queen Charlotte's maternity hospital.

Alberta Buys a Valuable Bull from Edward's Ranch

EDMONTON, Alta., April 26.—(AP)—The Alberta government has purchased Princeton Queston, valuable 2 year old shorthorn bull, from the duke of Windsor's Ep ranch to head its herd at Olds agricultural school. The announcement did not state the purchase price or whether a check was made out to the duke or to his ranch.

LET THE QUAKERS DON LONG PANTS, KING COMMANDS

Gerard Arrives; Says Knee Breeches Suit Him.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, april 26.—Knee breeches as a covering of the male underpinnings at the coronation on May 12 of King George VI. of Great Britain suffered another setback in the fight with long pants today—this time at the hands of English Quakers.

As a result W. E. Littleboy of Birmingham, chairman of the Society of Friends, as official Quaker representative at the coronation, will be in Westminster abbey next month in plain evening dress with long pants. This was made known after King George himself intervened to overrule the duke of Norfolk, who as hereditary earl marshal of England is the coronation dictator. The monarch ordered that the Quaker delegate be allowed to witness the crowning with his shanks covered.

Gerard Reaches London.

Although the American state department has ruled that plain short pants with black tailcoats do not constitute any special kind of uniform, Quakers balked at knee pants or any kind of special dress and threatened not to attend the coronation ceremony.

The Quakers won their victory almost at the hour that James W. Gerard, President Roosevelt's special ambassador to the coronation, arrived in London with a message of good will from the President to the king.

Gerard, American wartime ambassador to Germany, beamed with good humor and high interest in the coronation pageantry at which the special envoy, clad in knee pants, will be the chief American spectator.

"The only thing they are interested in back home now is whether I am going to wear breeches at the coronation, and the answer is that I am," said Gerard.

"If I am invited to a gentleman's house I do what he asks me to do. If my hosts dined in pajamas I would wear pajamas."

He proceeded with his apologia of knee breeches by citing names of illustrious predecessors who had donned them.

"Anyhow, it will not be the first time I have worn breeches," he said. "Years ago I dined at our embassy here when the late King George V. was present and I wore breeches then. So did the late President Taft, that great mountain of a man."

Hasn't Met the King.

Gerard said he had not yet met King George.

"Are you going to Germany after the coronation, Mr. Ambassador?" a reporter asked him.

"Are you trying to sell me a life insurance policy?" snapped back the coronation delegate.

British interviewers then asked him what he thought about the pilgrimage of George Lansbury, Labor leader, to Berlin to try to get Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler to make plowshares out of German armaments.

"I would be delighted to meet that amiable gentleman," said Gerard, adding, however, that he was not impressed by the Lansbury-Hitler peace conference suggestions.

The former ambassador to Berlin then slung out some Latin at the boys: "Timeo Danaos et dona ferentes." [I fear the Greeks when they come bearing gifts]. Then he added, "At home you may have heard we have adopted the principle of non-interference." Gerard said he would like to meet Hitler.

Since the American desertion to short breeches last week, British tailors are making short pants not only for Gerard, but also for Robert Worth Bingham, United States ambassador to the court of St. James's, and other representatives.

J. P. Morgan, the American financier, will go to the coronation in short pants as the guest of the royal house of Windsor. The Morgans started going to coronations when King Edward VII. was crowned in 1902.

The Society of Friends began to shy away from short coronation pants several days ago. The earl marshal had told the quakers their representative must wear either court dress or modified evening dress, the latter involving breeches and silk hose.

The Quakers replied, stating their objection was not to the "details of the costume but to the fact that a specific costume is required before a representative is welcome at the ceremony."

The letter continued: "If the regulations of the ceremony do not permit of representatives of religious bodies such as ourselves being present in normal dress, it will be for us a matter of regret, but it will in no way alter our prayers at the time of the coronation that the king's reign may be blessed of God."

The king thereupon interceded and commanded that Quaker representatives may go to this coronation as at the last two—that is, in ordinary evening dress.

'OFF WITH PIGTAILS,' MANCHUS ARE TOLD AFTER 3 CENTURIES

NANKING, China, April 26.—(AP)—The government snipped the last vestige of ancient Manchu authority today, ordering all Manchus to cut off their queues by June 30 or go to jail. For 300 years, Manchu emperors required their subjects to wear "pigtails" as a mark of subservience. After the revolution of 1911, all but the numerically dwindling Manchus cut off the plaits.

SUPREME COURT TO RULE SOON ON SOCIAL SECURITY

New Deal Financing Is in Balance.

BY CHESLY MANLY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.—The United States Supreme court agreed today to hear arguments next week in a case involving the constitutionality of both the unemployment insurance and the old age annuity provisions of the federal social security act, which means that a final decision will be forthcoming before the summer adjournment is taken, probably on May 31.

The outcome of the social security case is expected to have an important if not a determining effect upon President Roosevelt's scheme to pack the Supreme court with additional justices favorable to the New Deal.

The opponents of the packing project, who defend the court as a protector of individual liberties, were supplied with a new argument today when a majority of the justices reversed the conviction of Angelo Herndon, a Negro communist, who was sentenced to a minimum of 18 years on a Georgia chain gang on his conviction of attempts to incite an insurrection. It held the law, as applied to Herndon, was unconstitutional.

Financial Problems at Issue.

Some Democratic senators have contended privately and will do so publicly when the debates begin in the senate that the plan to pack the Supreme court was prompted largely by financial considerations. These senators declared that the administration had about reached the end of the rope with its policy of financing deficits through the sale of government bonds to the banks, and that the social security act, with its pay roll taxes, became vita' to the New Deal.

The budget for the 1938 fiscal year estimates receipts from the pay roll taxes at $774,800,000. Under the law the proceeds from the old age annuity taxes go into a reserve fund, scheduled to reach a maximum of 47 billion dollars by 1980, and this fund is to be invested in government bonds.

Solicitor General Stanley Reed declares in his petition asking the court to review the social security case that it is "of great fiscal importance to the treasury of the United States." The taxes involved, he states, are now being paid into the treasury at the rate of 40 million dollars a month.

Supreme Court Enters Situation.

The importance of the social security act to the government's fiscal policies is thus officially established, but when President Roosevelt sent his judiciary reorganization message to congress on Feb 5 the Supreme court was not expected to pass upon the old age annuity pay roll levies at this term. The possibility that it would consider the entire act at this term did not arise until April 14, when the Circuit Court of Appeals at Boston, in a 2 to 1 decision, held both unemployment insurance and the old age annuity taxes unconstitutional.

The Boston suit to enjoin payment of the taxes, brought by George P. Davis, a stockholder of the Edison Electric Illuminating company, was not filed until Nov. 17, 1936, so that, with a final decision by the Supreme court probable by May 31, the litigation from its inception to its conclusion will require only a little more than six months. One of the arguments advanced by President Roosevelt in support of his packing proposal was that the court was behind with its work; that more judges were needed to assure prompt administration of justice.

Another Case Under Advisement.

The court already has under advisement a case involving the validity of the federal unemployment insurance pay roll taxes, which are imposed on employers only, which came up from Alabama. The Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals at New Orleans upheld the unemployment insurance title of the act. Decisions in both cases may be handed down by the Supreme court at the same time before it adjourns for the summer, either on May 31 or June 7. The court never adjourns without deciding a case that has been argued and submitted.

DECISION BY ROBERTS

Justice Owen J. Roberts, who cast the deciding vote with Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes and the three so-called "liberal" justices, Louis D. Brandeis, Harlan F. Stone, and Benjamin N. Cardozo, in the Washington minimum wage and Wagner labor relations cases, delivered the opinion on behalf of the same majority in the case of the Negro communist. Justices James C. McReynolds, Pierce Butler, George Sutherland, and Willis Van Devanter again dissented, in a vigorous opinion delivered by the latter.

Herndon was convicted and sentenced to not less than 18 nor more than 20 years' imprisonment on charges of calling and attending public assemblies and making speeches for the purpose of organizing white and colored persons in the name of the communist party. The indictment alleged that he incited others to offer combined resistance to established authority, in violation of a post-civil war Georgia statute.

Calls Application Unconstitutional.

The Georgia Supreme court, said the opinion, gave the statute the construction that "one who seeks members for or attempts to organize a local unit of a party which has the purposes and objects disclosed by the documents in evidence may be found guilty of an attempt to incite insurrection."

The opinion concludes that such a construction and application of the statute deprives the accused of the right of freedom of spech and of assembly, guaranteed by the fourteenth amendment, and that the statute, so applied, is unconstitutional because it furnishes no reasonably ascertainable standard of guilt."

The dissenting opinion of Mr. Justice Van Devanter quoted at length from the incendiary communist literature distributed by Herndon and declared that "under the statute, as construed and applied, it is essential that the accused intended to induce combined forcible resistance,"

"These measures included a revolutionary uprooting of the existing capitalist state, as it was termed; confiscation of the landed property of white landowners and capitalists for the benefit of Negroes; establishment in the black belt of an independent state, possibly followed by secession from the United States; organization of mass demonstrations, strikes, and tax boycotts in aid of this measure; adoption of a fighting alliance with the revolutionary white proletariat; revolutionary overthrow of capitalism and establishment of communism through effective physical struggles against the class enemy.

"Proposing these measures was nothing short of advising a resort to force and violence."

FIGHTS FOR CHILD

MRS. DOLORES ECKMAN.

Harry Eckman, 30 years old, 4618 Kenmore avenue, a metallurgical engineer, and his attorney, Norman Becker, contended yesterday that Eckman's wife, a Spanish dancer who uses the name of "Idolita," thinks more of her art than her daughter. Judge Philip J. Finnegan ordered that an investigation be made of the homes of both parents for a decision May 19 on who should have the child, Anita, 3 years old. Mrs. Eckman, who lives at 2332 West 24th street, received temporary custody of the girl and $10 a week on April 7.

SENTENCES TRIO FOR TORTURING WOMEN IN HOLDUP

CRIMINAL COURT.

Eldon Wimmer, crime against nature, sentenced to from 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Rudolph Desort.

Delbert Murphy, Thomas Booth, and Leonard Anderson, burglary, sentenced to from 1 year to life each in the penitentiary by Judge Michael L. McKinley.

Less than a week after they maltreated two women in the robbery of $4,000 in valuables from the home of Dr. Edgar Crass, an oculist, at 6444 Magnolia avenue, three men were sentenced yesterday to from one year to life in the penitentiary.

The men pleaded guilty before Justice Michael L. McKinley in the Criminal court. They are: Delbert Murphy, colored, former houseman in the Crass apartment, and Thomas Booth, both of 444 South State street, and Leonard Anderson, 856 Wilson avenue.

Last Tuesday the three invaded the Crass home and bound and gagged the oculist's mother, Mrs. Louise Crass, 86 years old, and the maid, Miss Viola Powell. Then, accasionally helping themselves to Dr. Crass' liquor supply, the men ripped out a wall safe.

FOURTH ANNUAL ROTARY BUSINESS SHOW ON TODAY

A cross-section of Chicago's industries and some of its humanitarian and educational activities will go on display in the Hotel Sherman today. Charles A. Dostal, president of the Rotary club, will open that organization's fourth annual business exposition. The show will continue until 10 p. m. Friday.

Exhibitors will include the Salvation Army, the Presbyterian hospital, the Illinois Orthopedic hospital, and the Chicago Motor club.

Other displays—118 in all—will range from a fur fashion show to displays of the history of western railroads and electric illumination progress.

UNSIGNED DECREE PUTS DODD CASE BACK INTO COURT

The lengthy case which ended in a decree of separate maintenance for Mrs. Sue Hutchinson Dodd of Winnetka from Attorney Walter F. Dodd, former Yale law school professor, while custody of their two children was left with Mr. Dodd, was back in court again yesterday because Superior Judge Walter P. Steffen died before signing the formal decree.

A motion by Attorney Floyd E. Thompson, representing Dodd, to have Judge John J. Lupe of the Superior court enter a formal decree based on Judge Steffen's findings met with opposition by Attorney Charles F. Rathbun, representing Mrs. Dodd. Mrs. Dodd wishes to have the custody hearing included in the original separate maintenance hearing and the custody of the children stated in the new decree.

The children are Walter Jr., who is 10 years old, and Laura Alice, 7.

BEGIN SELECTION OF JURY TO TRY 10 POLLS WORKERS

Selection of a jury to try ten polls officials and workers of the 4th precinct of the 20th ward in the April, 1936, primary on charges of conspiracy to make fraudulent returns, was begun yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Rudolph F. Desort. The ten are: Mr. and Mrs. Herman Sulli, 1219 South Damen avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Clement Amore, 1043 South Winchester avenue; Mrs. Nancy Delmonaco, 1038 South Winchester avenue; Miss Dorothy Berger, 1033 South Damen avenue; Mrs. Kate Paldo, 1933 West Taylor street; Barney Siegel, 1260 South Spaulding avenue; John Zittello, 1911 Tyler street, and Sanders Caravello, 1132 South Winchester avenue. The women served as officials and the men as watchers.

SUFFOCATED BY FIRE IN BED.

Thomas Pashll, colored, 33 years old, 2112 South Dearborn street, was suffocated yesterday by smoke from a fire in his bed apparently started by a cigaret he was smoking.

MAKING A GOOD STORY BETTER.

The threat of a strike of 25,000 freight handlers and railway clerks in New York City is news, of course. It deserved and received important position on the front page of this newspaper the other day. The strike news was interesting on a number of counts. For one thing, the conflict is not between employers and employés, but between rival unions of employés. For another, the threat suggests picturesque consequences. It would lead to a good deal of inconvenience to travelers. It would interrupt the flow of goods in and out of the largest city in the nation. If it continued for any time a good many people and some business houses might be more or less seriously incommoded.

The human temptation to make a story better than it really is led the writers in New York to go a step farther. They talked of "dire results" from this strike. "Dire" is a big word. It suggests not inconvenience and annoyance, but acute hardship, hunger, destitution, disease, and death; the kind of thing that cartoonists imply when they use the figures of the four horsemen.

Nothing like that or remotely like it is going to happen in New York, no matter how long the strike lasts. For one thing, the freight handlers and railway clerks, important as their services are, do not occupy so important a position as they think they do. The metropolis can get along without them if it has to. There are supplies of food stored in New York pantries, in New York groceries, in New York warehouses, ample to keep the city's millions going for a year. There are thousands of trucks in New York and still other fleets available for service to New York if required. The successful plays can go on tour; the ocean trade can be handled through Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore, and a half dozen other ports. The probability is that a tieup of railroad freight service in and out of New York would more seriously inconvenience New York's customers throughout the country than the dwellers in New York itself. Months might elapse before the bellies of New Yorkers were pinched by hunger, and before that happened it is certain that the community would find a means to defend itself.

The temptation to make a good story into the best of all possible stories is a strong one. The newspaper readers of the nation saw that process at work during the recent Ohio river floods. The damage was considerable. There was some suffering. The inconveniences imposed on the inhabitants of Louisville, Cincinnati, and other river towns were picturesque. The rescues, the fires, the gallantry were exciting. But the Ohio flood was just another spring rise, a little higher than usual, a little more destructive than usual, but still well within the annual tradition. Noah would have looked at it with scorn. Not until Philip Kinsley sent his stories from Cairo did any note of restraint find its way into the dispatches. Mr. Kinsley saw and recognized a big flood, but he didn't suppose for a second that the Ohio valley was being swept into the Gulf of Mexico.

Much of the reporting of the automobile strikes would have been improved by that kind of perspective. The economic loss was considerable and the effects were felt over a wide area, but this is a big country and the closing of even the largest unit in a very large industry cannot speedily wreck the national economy. After forty days of the strike, the national indexes of carloadings, production, etc., showed little change. Many persons suffered, but the principal sufferers were those in the automobile industry itself, as might have been expected. There has been a little delay in the receipt of new cars ordered, but no one who wants to ride in an automobile is walking.

That suggests what is going to happen in New York even if the strike lasts for some time. The principal sufferers will not be the outsiders, but the participants and the corporations which employ them. The rest of us in and out of New York will go our way with a good deal less inconvenience than the people of this city have experienced during its occasional transportation strikes.

IT'S CHICAGO'S PARK DISTRICT.

There is a fundamental inconsistency about the hullabaloo at Springfield over the park district's pegged levy. That inconsistency lies in the intrusion of the state government in a purely local concern of Chicago's.

Mr. Dunham and his fellow commissioners are local officials. They were appointed by Mayor Kelly, who is also a local official, to run the local parks. The mayor is responsible for the manner in which they run them. By all the evidence at hand they are doing a good job, and the mayor is glad to accept that responsibility.

That, however, is beside the point. If they were not doing a good job the responsibility would still be the mayor's. It would be up to him to remedy the condition, and if he failed in his responsibility the people of Chicago would have a ready remedy for his failure the next time they went to the polls.

In this situation there is no necessity for the state administration and its supporters to dash up on a troop of white horses, in the rôle of rescuers. The remedy, if one were needed, lies here at home. The people of Chicago will not thank the would-be rescuers for intruding themselves into a situation which is strictly the business of Chicago and just as strictly no concern of the state government or any of its officers.

LAST WEEK'S STOCK BREAK.

Fear that the government was about to reduce its buying price for gold was credited in Wall street for the severe break in stocks on Friday and Saturday of last week. That the speculative community was able to discover quickly and precisely what was making stocks go down is nothing new. Quick rationalization about sudden price changes is a habit of the stock market fraternity. Unfortunately the glib conclusions are seldom found to be the correct ones. All that those who execute orders on the floor of exchanges or who watch a pulsating tape know in a sell-off is that stocks are being offered for sale in increasing quantity. They have no special knowledge of the reason for the sudden increase of selling orders or the withdrawal of buying orders.

Whatever the true explanation for the recent market relapse, the one which was given publicity in Saturday's paper was obviously not the correct one. That will appear clear from a little reflection. If the United States reduced the price of gold without a simultaneous revaluation of currencies by other nations two world commodities, wheat and cotton, would decline precipitously. Neither wheat nor cotton fell perceptibly during last week's greatest stock market weakness. And secondly, if the United States was going to reduce the buying price for gold the gold mine issues would fall out of bed. Five of the six leading gold stocks fell scarcely at all on Friday. One gold stock rose. The only gold stock which fell sharply was Homestake Mining, a high priced stock subject to wide fluctuations. On the basis of what happened gold revaluation can be excluded as an explanation for last week's market break.

The sell-off will probably be found to have been due to the same causes which made the market go down in the past. Markets have broken when the government suddenly launched a drive against trusts. The anti-trust suit brought by the government against the Aluminum corporation may be the forerunner of a general drive on big business. If the activities of corporations are going to be interfered with, and if funds have to be diverted to the defense of suits, a reconsideration of the value of the securities of the affected companies is in order.

Declines in security prices have inevitably preceded increases in tax rates. It is conceivable that the ways and means committee of the house may have determined to proceed with new tax legislation despite any request for higher rates from the President. If the government takes more as taxes less will be left for stockholders, either in dividends or in reinvested earnings.

The decline may presage a recession in business. The market is one of the most sensitive of barometers. Its moves generally precede shifts in the movements of general business by several months. The expansion has continued over a period of years, and experience suggests that a setback, possibly similar in extent to that which took place in 1924, might be expected at any time. If orders for future delivery have declined, those who know that would be likely to sell stocks which others who have had no intimation of a downturn have continued to buy.

With corporation earnings uniformly good, retail trade at a high level, and the steel industry booming, a decline in the stock market of the extent of last week's has some significance. If there is a single valid explanation, we won't try to select it. We shall go no further than to say that the one which came out of Wall street last week was not the correct one.

EIGHT HOURS FOR WOMEN.

The measure limiting the working hours of women in Illinois, with reasoned exceptions imposed by special conditions in certain occupations, we trust will be passed at this session of the assembly. It has already received the approval of the senate and its prospects in the house should be good. The public policy represented is already widely recognized in the United States touching the protection of women workers and should be embodied in the law of Illinois. It has had the approval of the United States Supreme court as well as state courts and undoubtedly expresses the social conscience of Illinois.

A SORRY SPECTACLE.

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

Execution of the death penalty by electrocution does not seem to have eliminated that unaccountable maudin curiosity on the part of some persons which was one of the worst features of the hateful system of semi-public hangings. The spectacle last week of 300 human beings shoving, shouting, cursing, scratching, and gouging their way into a somber, stuffy death room in the Cook county jail in Chicago to watch a trio of pasty-faced murderers die shocks the sensibilities of decent people.

We are expressing no grief for the executed men. They richly earned what they got. But we are concerned about the state of public morals when such conduct on the part of witnesses is permitted. The taking of life, even when fully justified, is a grim thing. When we permit the appearance of a ribald holiday to have part in the carrying out of a proper sentence the whole thing becomes horror.

The wholesale issuance of tickets to the Chicago execution is not excused when jail authorities say that never before had the pressure for tickets been so insistent and that at least 5,000 had demanded seats. Some of the favored, to be sure, were policemen friends of a Chicago officer killed by one of the condemned men. But shocking is the spectacle of grown persons fighting their way to standing room in the death chamber and greeting the deputies who threatened to clear the room with boos and catcalls.

There is no reason for making a Roman holiday of an execution. One of the reasons the electrocution method was adopted in this state was to eliminate the public spectacle. Only a handful of guards, officials and chaplains should be allowed to witness executions. Decent citizens can only criticize Cook county authorities for the occurrence.

REALLY SLEEPING.

The doctor met Mrs. Brown in the street.

"And how is your husband sleeping now, Mrs. Brown?" he asked. "Did you give him the sleeping draught?"

"Yes, sir," she replied. "You told me to give him the amount i could get on a small nickel, but as I hadn't any silver I used five pennies and he's been fast asleep for five days."—Windsor Star.

END OF THE PARADE.

It has the faintest odor of classicism, but we must pass on the story of an unpopular copyreader (when was one popular with reporters?) on one of our best family dailies in conflict with Eddie. Enjoying one of his two nights a week off, Ed was entertaining graciously in a poker game at home. Just as he was pondering what to do with his pat flush the villain of the eyeshade called him to the phone. "That was a nice story about the parade," said he, "but you failed to tell what happened to the procession when it dispersed." And the disgusted Eddie retorted: "Put in that it went to the same place your lap goes when you stand up."

OUTSTANDING.

On Thursday we published a poem, "A Daddy's Prayer," by T. E. B. No astonishment developed when letters of commendation for the poet began to slip in on Friday. One lady, who on occasion writes excellent verse herself, described the work as "one of the most poignant I ever read," and compared it to the best of Stevenson and Eugene Field. We wouldn't know about that, but it was a grand bit of sentiment. The good printers approved it as much as we did, and a telephone caller assured us that her husband broke down and wept when he tried to read it to her. Many thanks to the able author.

PUTTING HIM IN HIS PLACE.

(Ord, Neb., Quiz, thanks to A. C. M.)

The relief administrator up in Garfield county was making out the necessary application the other day for a large, humorless woman of middle age. "Do you folks owe any back house rent?" he asked. "Mister, we may be needing relief," the woman flared, "but I'll have you understand that we have got modern plumbing."

WHEN ALL the other peaks and craters that make up our civilization have been satisfactorily leveled, the scientists can devote their years of thinking to inventing a device to keep mashed potatoes from being served cold in restaurants.

CUE TO FORTUNE.

An investigation of the present status of Carlos Ogleton is indicated for our next journey to Hometown. For Carlos disappointed the prophets more than any other young fellow in the county. He had just come of age when his father died in 1919 and bequeathed him 220 acres of fine rolling land. After some dickering Carlos sold the place for $42,000 and, as was customary, received a third of it in cash. . . . He confided that he intended to purchase another farm, but never seemed to get round to the deal. Instead, he rented a house in Hometown and settled down to a steady chore of pool playing in Mike's place. The oldsters all wagged their heads and said he was headed for a bad end. . . . Then, a year after the buyer took possession, what was called a depression was in effect and Carlos had to take his farm for the $28,000, which was near a market value, still due him. He still had nearly $11,000 cash, as $25 a week paid for a lot of pool in Mike's, which was closed on Sunday and at 10 p. m. weekdays. It's been fourteen years since we checked up, and we crave to know whether Carlos or the critic band is most anxious today to tell the story.

PROTEST AGAINST SPRING.

Now spring is here again, and ah, the pain
Of leaves new-green and proud upon a tree!
Oh, better far, the swirling winds, the sane
Monotony of snow, than ecstasy
Like this that stabs at once-healed wounds anew
And shatters armor forged in quiet days.
Rather a dark endurance flowing through
The lonely heart where love no longer stays.
But I remember, now that spring has come,
The sight of you with blossoms in your hair,
The music of your voice. My heart is numb
With dreams it has forgotten how to bear.

Oh, all the stark impassioned youth of spring
Was never meant for hearts that cannot sing!

WHO DOESN'T LIKE HASH?

Something ought to be done about that classic gag concerning hash. It crops up in print about once a week and is ascribed to world famous chefs, black mammy cooks, or short order pan swingers of no repute. You know, somebody asks, "What's the recipe for the famous hash?" And the answer is, "No recipe; it just accumulates." This story was current in the days of Pericles, whose generation probably stole it from the Babylonians, who in turn probably got it from Mr. Adam's Eve. Let's have the label of antiquity on it. Who likes hash, anyhow?

BRINE USEFUL IN BONE INFECTIONS.

LITTLE more than a half century ago Sir John Erickson, a distinguished medical leader, stated in a public address that "surgery has reached its limits." He recalled the numerous advances which had been made up to that time and concluded with the remark that although physicians in the coming centuries might utilize with profit the known achievements of medical science, nothing fundamental would be added.

The shade of Sir John is probably twisting its hoary locks in puzzlement over the strides made in surgery in the past two generations. Areas of the body hitherto considered beyond the reach of science are now invaded safely and with impunity.

In no department has progress been more welcome than in that dealing with diseases and injuries of bones and joints. During Erickson's lifetime the care of osteomyelitis—pus infection within the bone—was a sad affair. If these discharging wounds ever healed it was usually with a twisted or distorted limb. Ofttimes amputation was resorted to in order to save the patient.

Within the last few years, however, the Winnett Orr plan has come to be recognized the world over as applying in a practical manner two important principles, namely, drainage and rest. When carefully carried out the method has led to far greater success than has been attained through any other form of management.

But the end is not yet. Every physician realizes that some disability may result from this affliction, particularly if pus has invaded the joint. It is known, also, that if good drainage can be combined with motion the possibilities of a functioning knee or ankle will be far greater.

Now comes the suggestion of A. Brockway that many cases of bone destruction will be improved greatly if the site of the disease can be bathed in a strong solution of common salt. To accomplish this end, he advocates a salt water dip, using a fairly high concentration [6 or 7 per cent]—approximately the same as sea water. This affords a practically sterile solution. No self-respecting bacillus would live in brine of such strength.

The inflamed part is immersed in a brine pool—the buoyancy of the fluid assisting activity. The temperature is maintained at about 96 degrees Fahrenheit and the procedure is continued for thirty minutes at each session. Brockway writes of 8 cases of infection—5 in the knee, 2 in the thigh, and 1 in the ankle. Complete healing was accomplished in all in less than two months, and within five months function was restored fully.

In the beginning of treatment free drainage is provided and the diseased region is irrigated with several gallons of warm salt water. Splints are applied for a few days and then the salt baths are begun. In cases wherein the ends of the long bones are affected the vaseline gauze pack recommended by Orr is used. After a few weeks the cast is removed and the salt water regimen instituted.

Brockway believes that movements of the involved parts in the bath are desirable as motion is accomplished without pain or muscular spasm. The test of the pudding, however, lies in the eating thereof, and patients generally report that they feel better after each pool performance.

The principle is clear. Strong salt water applied to wounds extracts quantities of fluid from the tissues. This means that an outflow of secretions is brought about which lave the area with fresh, healing elements from the blood. If the salt is in the same concentration as the mineral matter of the blood this outbound stream is not established. The powerful solution not only stimulates drainage but carries away large amounts of diseased and dead cells.

Thirty cases have been reported by this author and, in all, healing occurred more quickly and with better results than under previously used types of management. Sluggish wounds take on new life, appear clean, and lose their unhealthy character.

PROBABLY NOT.

J. F. writes: When stretching and bending backward I hear a cracking sound in my chest. Is this a symptom of any disease?

REPLY.

Probably not. Most of us can elicit sounds on making muscle or joint movements. With exercise the noises tend to decrease.

TONSILS.

F. M. writes: Is a person whose tonsils have been removed more likely to contract colds and pneumonia than one whose tonsils are in?

REPLY.

20 Years Ago Today

APRIL 27, 1917.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Marshal Joffre of the French commission told Secretary of War Baker that the United States can be of inestimable service to the common cause by sending troops to the firing line in France at the earliest possible moment. He said the dispatch of even a small expeditionary force of 50,000 men this season would inspire new enthusiasm as well as give valuable aid to the French and British.

CHICAGO.—A group of leading members of the city council issued a call for a special session of the body tomorrow to draft an official invitation to Gen. Joffre and other allied commissioners to come to Chicago. The call was signed after it became certain that the mayor would not extend such an invitation.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The United States may be called upon to finance the allies to the extent of $500,000 a month, according to preliminary reports to the treasury department upon which Secretary McAdoo will base his recommendations to the President as to the size of the first bond issues under the 7 billion dollar war finance law.

MADISON, Wis.—State Senator Frank Raguse of Milwaukee, one of the three Socialist members of the Wisconsin senate, was formally and dramatically expelled from membership in that body for refusing to retract alleged disloyal statements he made on the senate floor.

LONDON.—The taking of the first American prisoner of war was reported to the American embassy through the American consul at Glasgow. The prisoner was not identified, but since Germans usually seize captains of merchantmen sunk by their submarines it may mean an American vessel has been sunk.

CHICAGO.—Forty-five men enlisted in thirty minutes at a patriotic meeting in the Woodlawn Masonic temple after an Illinois infantry officer taunted that "you have worked yourself into a fine fervor of patriotism, but I'll venture to say there isn't a man in the crowd that intends to show his patriotism by enlisting." A man who shouted: "That's a lie!" led the way back to the waiting recruiting sergeant.

NEW YORK.—Charges that Max Lynar, also known as "Count" Lynar-Loudon, had plotted to "seize the person of the President" and raise an army of 150,000 German reservists in this country for an invasion of Canada were made when he applied for release on parole from the prison where he is serving a sentence for bigamy.

PLEDGED SECURITY.

Chicago, April 24.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I have two $500 notes dated March 1, 1930, to run five years, 6 per cent interest being stated which was reduced by agreement to 4 per cent in 1932 and which has not been paid since 1935. "The payment of this note is secured by trust deed, bearing even date herewith, to . . . trustee, on real estate in the county of Cook, etc., securing the payment of $20,000." [To date $6,000 has been paid, reducing the amount involved to $14,000]. The signers of these notes, husband and wife, have recently passed away and the children are contemplating carrying on. The trustee mentioned in the note is still alive.

1. Is there an obligation on his part?
2. Will it be necessary for me to secure a new note covering both the old one and the interest on same from the administrator of the estate or trustee?
G. P. K.

1. In general, his obligation is merely to hold the title for the noteholder. This obligation continues.
2. No, in the sense that the old note continues binding as to the pledged security. But unless you take action during the year for filing claims your right to collect the balance of the debt from the estates of the maker of the note will be barred.
TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

LEGAL HEIRS.

Evanston, Ill., April 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—A woman, now living, whose first husband died, and who has since remarried, had by the first husband four children—one son [now dead], who leaves a wife and six children, and three daughters. One of the three daughters was unmarried, but had a son who, at the age of 3 years, was adopted by another family. This daughter recently died, leaving an estate consisting of cash, bonds, and real estate. She left no will. Who are her heirs, and to what extent do they inherit her estate? She lived and died in Illinois and all her property was here. Who would be the natural executor or administrator of the estate? What is the proper procedure in the settlement of the estate, from the date of her funeral, until settlement has been made?
P. I. M.

Section 6 of the Illinois adoption act says that the parents by adoption shall not inherit from the child "any property which such child may take or have taken by . . . descent from his kindred by blood." In view of this implied recognition of the possibility of inheritance from parents we incline to the opinion that the adopted child should be included as one of the heirs of his natural mother. One of the resident heirs should present a petition to the Probate court of the county for appointment as an administrator.

THE SIZE OF CLASSES.

Chicago, April 21.—It is too bad the citizens of Chicago are not interested in the injustices done their children in the public schools.

The authorities say they are to have smaller classes, but the real truth is disguised. The reading teachers, gymnasium, and special teachers have no regular class membership, but they must be carried along by the classroom teacher, which means she has 51 or so children actually present in her room and not 42 as reports show.

If every parent whose child does not have a seat would call on Mr. Johnson personally, perhaps something could be done about it.

It does seem a job for the P.-T. A., but maybe they won't have time with their social affairs.

MORE ABOUT SITTING BULL.

Chicago, April 23.—In THE TRIBUNE of April 15 there was a writeup of Chief Sitting Bull's death by Ray G. Hurlburt of Oak Park, who, I think, was not well informed as to the facts. Chief Sitting Bull was shot and killed in January, '91, but not by white soldiers.

At the time mentioned I was sherif in a county in North Dakota about 90 or 100 miles due east of Standing Rock Indian reservation. The daily papers of Minneapolis and St. Paul at the time were filled with Indian war news, so much so that my wife was afraid to have me transact business with farmers for fear that I would be scalped. An engineer on a branch line of the Great Northern railway, which ended in Ellendale, the county seat, would not allow the fire to go out of the fire box of the engine for a week.

Sitting Bull was known to be a very treacherous chief and Buffalo Bill was not thought of in connection with the chief's arrest. An acquaintance of mine by the name of Smith, now living in the neighborhood of Cottage Grove avenue and 63d street, was one of a patrol of white soldiers sent to arrest the chief, but they were stopped and an Indian patrol sent instead. The chief started a racket and was shot dead, and what might have proven to be an Indian outbreak was checked.

I have knowledge enough of history to have sympathy for the Indian, but the massacre of Gen. Custer in Montana in 1876 did not help their cause, and Sitting Bull was there. I might say also that the conduct of many of the agents at the reservations was not to be approved by a friend of the Indian. They were treated in a shameful manner.
EX-SHERIF.

Topeka, Kas., April 17.—In commenting on Mr. Orr's cartoon, "The Modern Sitting Bull," Ray G. Hurlburt of Oak Park, Ill., tells about white soldiers enfilading Sitting Bull's camp with machine gun fire. I have read a great deal about the types of firearms used in battles with the Indians in the west after the civil war, but it was news to me that in Sitting Bull's time machine guns were in use. I do not recollect that this type of gun was used in the Spanish-American war in 1898. I would be interested if Mr. Hurlburt would tell us where he gets his information.

RELIEF COAL.

Chicago, April 23.—"Relief Clients Dig Up Money to Buy Luxury Fuel," etc. Under that heading there appeared an article in THE TRIBUNE April 21 deriding the poor reliefers for their indulgence in the better grade of fuel than that prescribed by IERC. If we had had a state health commission or board anywhere near free from political and other influences, such "soft coal" as the reliefers receive would have been long ago prohibited, for purely sanitary reasons alone, for use in residential districts. To those who know how terribly that coal smokes and how obnoxious and sickening is the smell of the smoke, besides that it begrimes everything within a large radius from the point wherein it is burned with its black, sticky soot, the action of those "reliefers" who indulge in the "luxury" of buying a better grade of coal, thereby depriving themselves of some other necessities, takes the aspect of a very noble sacrifice on their part for the benefit not only of themselves but also of the city.
NEIGHBOR.

PROHIBITION.

Greenwood, Wis., April 21.—In an editorial [March 13, 1937] you say in part: "We are still paying in tax evasion, lawbreaking, and murder for the thousands of moonshiners who were trained under prohibition."

Who trained them? The prohibition law? Then the anti-dope law is training dope peddlers. I'll tell you who trained the moonshiners. It was the wets who bought booze of the moonshiner; and it was such publications as THE TRIBUNE which, by subtle and not so subtle propaganda, encouraged contempt for the law which had become a law of the nation by a good majority of the states voting for the eighteenth amendment. This amendment was ridiculed and misrepresented by newspaper story, cartoon, movies, and even magazine fiction.

It takes two to make a bootlegger—buyer as well as seller. Therefore put the blame for lawlessness where it belongs, on the ones who bought liquor and on the ones who encouraged drinking and lawbreaking.
C. R. GAYLORD.

O, SAY CAN YOU SEE.

New York, April 21.—We appreciate very much the helpfulness of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE in spreading knowledge about the conservation of vision through the full page article in last Sunday's issue under the heading, "O, Say Can You See."

May we take this opportunity also to commend THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE for the excellent series of Sunday magazine articles on venereal diseases which were published last year? As you know, syphilis and gonorrhea are important causes of blindness.

CHURCH LEAGUE STARTS FIGHT ON COURT PACKING

President's Plan Called Menace to Religion.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The Church League of America, newly formed organization of clergy and laymen of all faiths, yesterday announced that it will at once start an intensive campaign to defend the Supreme court in the name of religious liberty. Frank J. Loesch, head of the Chicago Crime commission, is national president of the Church League of America.

President Roosevelt's court packing scheme to add six new justices to the Supreme bench was described at a meeting of the Church league in the Union League club as a potential menace to the right of Americans to free worship. A resolution was passed calling for defeat of the bill in congress that embodies the President's proposal.

Points to Dictatorships.

"In every country where there has been extreme centralization of power," said Mr. Loesch, "religious liberty is usually first to feel the mailed fist. A dictator always needs subserviency on the part of his people. He usually finds that the best way to exercise this control is to be able to control the voice of religion. If the churches do not obey him he soon seeks a measure to make them do so."

Mr. Loesch declared that the proposed court change would establish a dangerous precedent, adding that this country has always been a haven of refuge and the hope of oppressed peoples.

"Political manhandling of the Supreme court will become an easy matter if this precedent is established," said Mr. Loesch. "The court is the guardian most free from the influence of mob hysteria, to which we look for the preservation of that precious religious freedom which our forefathers sought and established in this country.

Fears Court as Tool.

"How long can religion be free from political hands when once the Supreme court becomes the tool of reckless political leaders? It is clear that this bill is being pushed to get the stamp of approval upon proposed unconstitutional legislation of which the people yet know nothing. Religious interests would be endangered by its passage."

The league has opened offices at 53 West Jackson boulevard with George W. Robnet, 2509 Asbury avenue, Evanston, as executive secretary. The Rev. Dr. Almer E. Pennewell of St. John's Methodist Episcopal church, and Rabbi Charles E. Shulman of Glencoe will direct a clerical committee and a lay committee will be led by Harry Kinne, president of the village of Wilmette, and Walker Butler, past grand knight, Calumet council, Knights of Columbus. These committees will have charge of the church league's campaign against packing the Supreme court.

BRITAIN TO TAKE OVER COAL MINE ROYALTIES TO STIFLE UNREST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 26.—Great Britain's decision to nationalize all coal mining royalties at a cost of $332,250,000 spread over fifteen years was announced in the house of commons tonight by Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin. The payments of royalties to private landowners long have been the cause of political controversy and industrial unrest in British coal fields. Acquisition by the state is expected to clear the air.

About 4,000 owners, headed by the Church of England, are affected. The church draws an income of around $1,850,000 a year from this source.

Other big owners and their estimated annual incomes from royalties are the duke of Hamilton, $568,965; the marquess of Bute, $546,385; Viscount Tredegar, $371,985; the duke of Northumberland, $345,970; the earl of Dunraven, $294,270; the earl of Durham, $178,100, and the earl of Ellesmere, $133,540.

PRESIDENT PUTS STOP ORDER ON FAIR TRADE BILL

Leaders Are in Middle as Message Comes.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt sent a curt order to congress today to halt consideration of the Miller-Tydings "fair trade" bill. The instructions were promptly obeyed by house leaders, who had planned to act on the bill tomorrow, but the Democratic leaders were not only hugely embarrassed but in a white heat of anger at the peremptory command.

Unusual significance was attached to the incident. It furnished a clear indication of the administration's intention to fight the passage of any legislation giving the states the right to fix their own public policies on matters affecting trade.

Moreover, it revealed in vivid fashion the manner in which the White House has left congressional leaders to grope blindly with a legislative program without a clear idea of what Mr. Roosevelt desires except in the case of certain measures such as the proposal to enlarge the Supreme court.

Get Other "Stop" Orders.

On several occasions at this session, house leaders have planned to pass certain bills only to receive last-minute orders to delay action.

The Miller-Tydings bill provides that inter-state shipments of goods shall be subject to the "fair trade" laws already passed by 38 states and being considered in seven others.

The house judiciary committee, reporting the bill favorably, pointed out that it "merely seeks to help effectuate a public policy" fixed by a state legislature.

"It is the legislature's responsibility to fix the public policy of the state," the report stated. It was exactly this theory that the administration objects to, it was learned. Federal control of states' public policies is the New Deal objective and caused the President to intervene, according to reliable reports.

"The fair trade" acts legalize the maintenace, by contract, of resale prices of branded or trade-marked goods which are in free competition with other goods of the same general class. The Miller-Tydings bill would have no application to a state which has not enacted fair trade regulations.

Among the 38 states which have already approved such acts are Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa and Indiana. Only one state has definitly rejected legislation of this character.

Yet, President Roosevelt put thumbs down on the house committee when it announced that "sound public policy on the part of the federal government lies in the direction of lending assistance to the states to effectuate their own public policy with regard to their internal affairs."

The co-author of the fair trade bill, Senator Millard Tydings [D., Md.] said the President's action came as a complete surprise to him.

Chicago's most famous restaurant

Yes Henrici's Is "different"

Among dining establishments of note Henrici's is one of the few great restaurants that continues to be devoted solely to the service and preparation of excellent food. It continues to offer also the convenience of service suited to the time and appetite of the patron. In environment it continues to offer also a pleasant . . . congenial and hospitable atmosphere and an abundant variety of foods. And prices, too, remain moderate . . . a fact especially noticeable in view of the generally higher trends.

KRAFTONE, delicious chocolate-flavor drink, brings a health aid available in no other food drink: CONCENTRATED MILK CALCIUM

THESE TROUBLES MAY BE DUE TO "CALCIUM HUNGER"

Because of the demands of growing teeth and bones, a child needs as much food calcium daily as two grown men. If the child's diet fails to supply adequate food calcium, authorities now recognize that this shortage may cause nervousness. Nervousness in normal children can show itself in various ways, among them peevishness, listlessness and lack of appetite often accompanied by failure to make proper gains in weight. By providing additional calcium Kraftone helps guard against these troubles.

"Calcium Hunger" in children

What authorities say:

A WORLD FAMOUS NUTRITION AUTHORITY: American dietaries are probably more often deficient in calcium than in any other element. For children, at least twice as much as the maintenance requirement of an average man is needed.

ONE OF AMERICA'S MOST DISTINGUISHED PHYSICIANS: Calcium is often lacking in the average mixed diet. The need for calcium is especially great in women and children.

THE CHIEF PSYCHO-CLINICIAN AT A CELEBRATED SCHOOL FOR PROBLEM CHILDREN: Children who cannot concentrate due to an over-sensitive nervous system are often markedly deficient in calcium. Lack of calcium (lime) is a common cause of serious instability.

A NOTED PHYSICIAN AND ENDOCRINOLOGIST: Observations upon nervous children in schools of Rome, New York, showed 85% were markedly improved in a short time by a diet rich in lime (calcium). Calcium starvation is the commonest form of malnutrition in America.

A LEADING NUTRITION AUTHORITY: A child of 3 to 13 years probably needs as much calcium per day as two grown men.

A U. S. GOVERNMENT BULLETIN: Most important of all the body's building materials, calcium is the food factor on which diets are most likely to go short.

MANY MOTHERS of growing children are probably unaware of this new and important discovery:

Nervousness in normal children, authorities now recognize, may be due to one very simple cause . . . to a lack of sufficient food calcium in the diet.

Furthermore, it is known that many all-too-familiar troubles—peevishness, poor appetite, listlessness—may be merely nervous symptoms.

Many physicians today treat nervous symptoms in children by adding calcium to the diet.

Every growing child needs as much calcium as two grown men

Calcium is the essential food mineral of which milk is our chief source. Every child requires daily as much of this food calcium as two grown men. Growing teeth and bones, to be sound and healthy, must absorb large amounts of it. When there is a shortage, teeth are more likely to decay and delicate nervous systems are apt to suffer.

Now mothers can easily supply this vital need! Kraftone, Kraft's delicious new chocolate-flavor drink, brings a remarkable safeguard against "calcium hunger"—a safeguard now available for the first time—concentrated milk calcium!

In Kraftone your children get the usual health values found in other food drinks, plus an unfailing supply of milk calcium, milk phosphorus, and vitamin D.

To aid in guarding against nervousness, in protecting bones and teeth, and in promoting good health with satisfactory increases in weight, give your children Kraftone regularly in their milk. Get a can today from your grocer or druggist.

MIX WITH MILK, (Hot or Cold)

Give Kraftone to your children regularly in their milk . . . they'll love it. Kraftone contains the usual health values you expect of a food drink plus a rich supply of milk calcium, phosphorus, and vitamin D. Grocers and druggists have Kraftone in two sizes.

Tell your boys and girls to tune in "The Tomahawk Trail" . . . healthy adventure stories supervised by Irving Crump of "Boys' Life" . . . Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays, 5:45 P. M.; WBBM.

STATES DISAGREE ON CRITICISM OF PORTS OF ENTRY

New Mexico Appreciates It; Arizona Resentful.

BY HAL FOUST.

From New Mexico and Arizona yesterday came divergent views of THE TRIBUNE's investigation of the highway ports of entry that have hampered motorized commerce and annoyed tourists crossing the borders of these states.

From Gov. Clyde Tingley of New Mexico came a letter thanking this newspaper for its disclosures and declaring that objectionable features of the state's boundary regulations have been eliminated. From M. L. Wheeler, secretary of the Arizona state highway department, came a letter charging the articles with "obvious unfairness."

Laws of Two States Similar.

The laws in the two states are similar and until recently the administration of their regulations was similar. Objections to the ports of entry in both states have been cited with equal emphasis. Arizona, judging from the language of its highway department secretary, seems to be resentful of criticism, while New Mexico's governor wrote in part as follows:

"I want to thank you for the interest THE TRIBUNE has taken in the port of entry situation in New Mexico. Your series of articles has been of value in bringing to my attention the bad features of the port of entry operation.

"Without your interest, these conditions might have continued to do harm to New Mexico from the tourist standpoint without our learning of it. Through your interest, this situation has now been corrected.

Tourists No Longer Stopped.

"Our ports of entry have been entirely reorganized and tourist cars are no longer stopped and the drivers no longer questioned for any reason. . . . I know that many tourists have complained about our ports and I am equally certain that in the future there will be no cause for a legitimate complaint from the motoring public."

In behalf of Arizona, Mr. Wheeler wrote that, in addition to THE TRIBUNE, "unfair" criticism of his state's border inspectors has come from three sources: first, self-styled tourist passengers in uninsured cars supplied by so-called travel bureaus; secondly, commercial salesmen, who are required to buy Arizona plates for a single business errand into the state; thirdly, from automobile dealers objecting to the purchase of an Arizona permit to move new cars from the factory to California dealerships.

Tourists Embarrassed in Arizona.

Automobile clubs have received reports that zealous Arizona port inspectors have embarrassed bona fide tourists, suspecting them of being one of these three taxable types of highway users. Two Iowa couples sharing expenses on a tour to the west coast, according to reports, had to pay the bus tax intended for travel bureau cars. Visitors with new automobiles, it is charged, have been suspected of being car dealer employés. And a man alone in his out-of-state car and with a portfolio has been a subject for suspicion as a traveling salesman.

In the meantime, THE TRIBUNE's survey of these ports of entry has been reprinted by Texas automobile clubs to oppose passage of a port of entry law in that state. And California, with its rich tourist trade at stake, has been watching the step of its border inspectors since ports of entry have been receiving publicity.

MRS. F. U. ADAMS DIES; WIDOW OF TRAIN DESIGNER

Mrs. Alice Whitaker Adams, widow of Frederick Upham Adams, designer of the first American streamlined train more than 40 years ago, died Saturday at the home of her son, Morton H. Adams, in Altadena, Cal. Mrs. Adams was 77 years old and lived at 150 South State street, Elgin. While a reporter for THE TRIBUNE, Mr. Adams invented the first streamline train, the Windsplitter, which made its first record breaking run in 1900 on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad.

J. Murray Forbes, Former Rail President, Dies at 91

Milton, Mass., April 26.—(AP)—J. Murray Forbes, a pioneer merchant in China, sportsman, and former midwestern railroad executive, died today. He was 91 years old. A native of Boston, he began trading in China in the early '60s. He became president of the old Chicago, Burlington and Northern railroad on his return to the United States.

VOTE TO INDICT POLICEMAN FOR CAR CRASH DEATH

Squad Leader Accused of Auto Manslaughter.

Policeman Joseph Connelly, 42 years old, a detective bureau squad leader, was reported named by the grand jury yesterday in a true bill charging him with automobile manslaughter. He is a brother of Capt. Thomas Connelly of the Albany Park police.

Last Feb. 20 Policeman Connelly's automobile careened over the curb at 1246 West 74th street and struck two women pedestrians. One of them, Mrs. Susan Van Allen, 64 years old, 9130 South Oakley avenue, died of her injuries next day. Her companion, Mrs. Clara Morien, 41 years old, 7753 South Park avenue, incurred a fracture of the left leg.

The policeman insisted that he lost control of his car because it struck a hole in the pavement. Another motorist, Carl W. Lagoni, 8748 South Winchester avenue, testified at the inquest, however, that the policeman was driving too fast on a wet street.

Bernard McGrenahan, 49 years old, 1303 Van Buren street, died yesterday in the Edgewater hospital from injuries incurred Sunday night. He was struck at Clark street and Glenlake avenue by the automobile of Attorney Bernard Margolis, 48 years old, 6512 Bosworth avenue.

Auto Upsets; Driver Dies.

Le Moyne Pearson, 45 years old, of Converse, Ind., died in the Little Company of Mary hospital yesterday, shortly after his automobile skidded and overturned in Western avenue, near 86th street. His three companions, who were injured, said that Pearson lost control when the wheels slipped on the wet street car tracks.

Police yesterday were seeking the hit and run driver who sped away late Sunday after his car struck and killed Mrs. Martha Sorn, 40 years old, 3042 Osceola avenue, mother of three children, as she was walking at 7441 Belmont avenue.

Dies of Crash Injuries.

Howard Lyter, 33 years old, 1650 Arcade place, died in the County hospital last night of injuries received in a motor accident early Saturday. His companion, Mrs. Marian Ritchie, 28, of 2540 Monroe street, suffered a hip fracture. They were driving her husband's car. The accident occurred in Ogden avenue near route 54, west of Hinsdale, when their machine collided head-on with a car driven by Stanley Weller, 42, of 4809 Oakwood avenue, Downers Grove.

Injured by Hit-Run Driver.

Mrs. Mary Graham, 38 years old, wife of Arthur Graham, a farmer near Carthage, Ill., was found injured in an areaway at 5510 Cornell avenue yesterday. Mrs. Graham, who came to Chicago to visit relatives, said she was struck by a hit and run motorist. She was taken to the County hospital.

An accident verdict was returned yesterday by the coroner's jury investigating the death on Sunday of Alfred Tettenborn, 31 years old, 1823 North Austin avenue. Tettenborn was killed by the automobile of Homer C. Carme, 20 years old, 1105 College avenue, Wheaton, after alighting to inspect damage his car had caused to that of William Struth, 3649 Fullerton avenue, at Grand avenue and La Grange road in Franklin Park.

At 4 p. m. yesterday Cook county's trafic death toll for the year stood at 348, the coroner's office reported. Chicago was charged with 275 of these deaths. In the same period 6,284 have been injured.

GIRL WINS $15,000 IN DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST TEACHER

A jury in the court of Judge William J. Lindsay yesterday awarded Miss Victoria Ellinger, 4632 North Kedzie avenue, a $15,000 verdict in her damage suit against Miss Astrid M. Paulson, 1458 East 69th street, a teacher at the Roosevelt High school.

Miss Ellinger, then 16 years old and a high school pupil, was injured May 21, 1935, in a collision involving Miss Paulson's car, in which she was riding. The jury absolved the other motorist, Edward A. Holstein, 165 North Pine avenue, who was also sued. The jury found Miss Ellinger was a passenger on school business and not a guest.

Hunt Kin of Ira J. Wilson; Death Bares $24,000 Funds

A search for relatives of Ira J. Wilson, 73 years old, who died last Friday in his room at the Victoria hotel, 334 South Clark street, was begun yesterday by Jack Rubens, investigator for the public administrator's office. Papers and bank books showed Wilson had $24,000 in New York, San Francisco, and Los Angeles banks. He apparently had once been a sailor.

W. T. Stevens, Wisconsin Pioneer Lumberman, Dies

Rhinelander, Wis., April 26.—[Special.]—Willard T. Stevens, pioneer Wisconsin lumberman, former Oneida county sherif and former state senator, is dead at his home here. Two sisters, Mrs. Albert Dunn and Mrs. Lucy Flagg, survive.

GETS JAIL TERM

Earl Fones, CCC worker, gets 30 days in jail for reckless driving.

Earl Fones, 23 years old, a CCC truck driver from the Park Ridge camp, was sentenced to thirty days in the county jail for reckless driving by Chief Justice Michael L. McKinley of the Criminal court yesterday. His truck passed a stop sign and struck an automobile at Wolf and Roosevelt roads on March 29, injuring two occupants of the car.

Two other motorists were jailed by Judge George B. Weiss in the Safety court for driving while intoxicated. Lonnie Brazier, colored, 29 years old, 5238 South Parkway, whose car hit a lamp post at Oakwood boulevard and South Parkway on Sunday, was given fifteen days. Stanley Shiparek, 27 years old, of Hammond, Ind., whose automobile struck a parked car at 8735 Mackinaw avenue early yesterday, was sentenced to ten days. Walter Kzyzanowski, 38 years old, 3247 North Kostner avenue, was fined $10 for reckless driving.

Syphilis and Gonorrhea are curable

—if— Detected Early and Treated Promptly

Do not neglect syphilis or gonorrhea! If you know or suspect you are infected seek medical attention without delay. Untreated or inadequately treated persons are in danger of heart disease, insanity, blindness, paralysis, and many other disabling afflictions. Cure depends upon—

2nd—Experience of attending physician.
3rd—Adequate facilities for complete diagnosis.
4th—Continuity and regularity of treatment.

There are no short cuts—no quick cures—self treatment is futile and dangerous and permanent cures can be determined only by repeated blood tests.

Low Cost Treatment

Any intravenous injection, such as Neo-Salvarsan, Neo-Arsphenamine, 606, Tryparsamide, etc....	$1.00
Any intramuscular injection, such as: Bismuth or Mercury preparations,	$1.00

MORE WINNERS IN CROSSWORD PUZZLE CONTEST

Second List of Awards Is Published.

An Oak Park girl took top honor among the second batch of 430 winners in the $10,000 Franklin D. Roosevelt inaugural crossword puzzle contest offered by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. A similar list of winners was announced Monday.

In this contest a series of 44 crossword puzzles were published daily from Jan. 1 to Feb. 20. Interest in the contest was widespread judging from the multitude of entrants which were received in the fifteen days following the contest from every section of the country. Scores were also established by the merit of a 100 word letter accompanying each contribution.

Sylvia R. Gibson, 810 South Harvey avenue, Oak Park, was the first prize winner in the second list of winning puzzles. A check for $1,000 goes to her for her correct solutions and her particularly suitable letter.

To Genevieve Virginia Marshall, 5522-A South Ellis avenue, goes the second prize of $500. Ethel J. Schafer, 930 Milwaukee avenue, Racine, Wis., placed third, receiving $250.

The two $100 prize winners are Mildred B. Toogood, 700 Webster street, Ottawa, and Mrs. Arthur Bleau, 2737 West 64th street. The five $50 prizes were won by Louise Holden, 124 6th street, Wilmette; Mrs. E. O. Slaid, Dumont, Ia.; C. L. Sparr, 1161 Milton avenue, Chicago; Mrs. B. L. WORLD FLIGHT ONLY WHIM TO BE IN AIR, SAYS MISS EARHART

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—Amelia Earhart today made an avowal and defense of aimlessness. She explained that there was no purpose in her round-the-world-flight, interrupted by a crackup in Honolulu, which she intends to resume from Burbank, Cal., by next Saturday.

"I just fly because I want to—not for the advancement of science or anything else," she said. "I've never pretended to be doing anything for science.

"But when you go 27,000 miles over a route nobody has traveled before you can't help finding out a few things."

Tire Easily?

That dragged-out feeling is frequently the result of a constipated condition of the bowels. Headaches, sleeplessness and skin trouble may also in many cases be traced to the same source.

Constipation is dangerous for anybody. Nujol is safe for everybody. It does not affect the stomach, and is not absorbed by the body. Medical authorities approve Nujol because it is so safe, so gentle and so natural in its action.

Nujol makes up for a deficiency of natural lubricant in the intestines. It softens the waste matter and thus permits thorough and regular bowel movements without griping.

Just try Nujol regularly for the next month and see if you don't feel better than you ever suspected you could.

Ask your druggist for Nujol and insist on the genuine.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

and their FOOD BILL,

LADIES and GENTLEMEN . . .

If there were a million circus fat-ladies in the land . . .

. . . and a magazine specially edited for them . . .

. . . then, and only then, would The American Home have to yield first place as a medium for food advertising.

For The American Home has the next best thing . . . 1,000,000 people who are running a home . . . 1,000,000 people who plan three meals a day every day for a family . . . 1,000,000 people whose youngsters and friends and week-end guests go through the groceries like the seven year locust . . . . . . and their food bill, ladies and gentlemen, is enormous. Eleven million dollars a week plunked down on grocery counters . . . over half a billion dollars a year.

You can buy larger circulation than our million . . . but for food advertising not a better million. A million without bachelor girls, kitchenette couples or dear little old spinster ladies.

It's quite a million, this American Home million. Dollar for dollar spent, it will sell a lot more food.

There's no place like The AMERICAN HOME for advertisers who sell anything for the home

Convalescent Children Need Special Care

They May Be Temporarily Emotionally Unstable.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The convalescent child needs a little different handling from the well child, although all illnesses are not followed by the same sort of aftermath. An operation of almost any sort with a deep anaesthetic, usually involves shock which frequently is shown by emotional instability. Many parents have seen evidences of this after the removal of tonsils, a problem which we discussed Sunday. Some diseases, or their cure, affect the nerves. Others are more simple in their consequences, and we see only signs of a weakness which shows itself in easy fatigue, irritability, boredom during the convalescence.

Some mothers, thoughtless, perhaps, or a little too busy with household or personal concerns, heave a sigh of relief when their child is over his operation or sickness, and go back to their usual treatment of him and their usual daily schedule. There is more to it than that—there is convalescence of the body and often of the personality, as a superintendent of nurses in a children's hospital expressed it.

Convalescence is the time when a mother needs to exercise a great deal of patience, tact, and loving kindness. Don't be afraid you will spoil your child. These can be happy, intimate days for you both. Some grownups look back upon "the time when I was getting over scarlet fever," or measles or whooping cough, as one of the coziest times in their lives.

You won't spoil your child in doing this. Soothed and cherished, with intelligence as well as affection, he will return to full health and then will no longer want your solicitude, but will be eager for his usual active, outdoor, everyday existence and pastimes.

The booklet, "Caring for and Amusing the Convalescent Child," will be sent on receipt of a large 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request.

Front Views and Profiles

AN old man, white haired, proud smiles wrinkling the lether of his skin, his little old wife clinging to his arm, was among the crowd leaving Orchestra hall Sunday afternoon after Vincenzo Celli's program of Italian ballet. He was chuckling with gleeful satisfaction, and the assumption that he was the father of the young Italian who had turned what might have been a fiasco, because of the two hour late arrival of the accompanist, into a triumph by his artistry and resource, was correct. Ninety-four years old, it was his first visit to a theater of any kind. It was also the first time he had ever seen his son dance, although Celli's mother had seen him in Milan when he was primo ballerino at La Scala, he having arranged for her to come over to visit him.

Dancer— Entertainment— Gag— Commemoration.

The old couple had refused to go back stage after the performance so Celli went to their home in the Hull house vicinity to see them before going on to a supper party given in his honor. He told one of the guests he had had difficulty in persuading his father to come to the performance.

"Suppose I should drop dead—then it would spoil evrything," the old man argued, with rare objectivity.

PROGRESS note. Patrons in the new headquarters of a Chicago hairdresser are to be entertained by a twenty-two minute movie program which will have a musical short and a newsreel. The hairdresser says twenty-two minutes is time enough to dry anybody's hair. This feature is for women who patronize the French salon, which is to be decorated in Burgundy and gray with use of structural glass brick and metal, and a gold ceiling topping its gray walls. The customers in the less expensive shop on the first floor will be provided with individual radios and head sets to help pass the time while they are under the drier.

ANY one who got off the bus at Fullerton parkway and walked through Lincoln park to Belden, passing the statue of Shakespeare, just south of Fullerton, noticed something unusual Sunday. He might have thought it a trick of soft moonlight playing on the statue unless he looked closer. Then he saw that the bronze hands of the statue clasped bunches of fresh spring flowers, a large bunch of narcissi in one hand, and in the other jonquils, tulips, and other spring blossoms. Dangling from one wrist was a cord from which a piece of paper fluttered. On it was written:

"Placed here by Doris Donald every year in memory of Donald Robertson." There followed a sonnet to Shakespeare by Donald Robertson beginning:

"The wisdom and achievements of mankind
You gathered into your immortal plays. . . ."

Girdle Fashion Demands Slim Waistlines

Simple Exercises Whittle Midriff to Trimness.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

If you haven't a waistline to encircle beautifully this season and the summer and fall seasons, too, girls, you must scout around and get one. Get a nice slender one, with nary a suspicion of a spare tire above, on, or near it.

You read in the corset ads, daily now, suggestions emphasizing the midriff control. A good corset does a magnificent thing for the figure, we'll all admit, but it will not and cannot be expected to do a great deal for a silhouette with a fat and spreading waistline, spare tired above and below. What happens when you put the padded waist into stays with the new pinched waistline is that the flesh goes up above the girdle rim and makes the underarm and diaphragm sectors thicker. So, it looks as if the simplest, sanest, and very best way to get yourself in trim for the smart girdled dressline is to get up a few minutes earlier in the morning and take the fat off with some good, sturdy exercise.

I'll give you an old timer that a friend reports is as good a waistline refiner as any new exercise you can find. It's the old floor touching one, but touch the left toe with the right hand and the right toe with the left hand and see that you give a good swing on the waistline when you do it.

Another one you might be working away at meanwhile is standing tall with hands and arms stretched high overhead. With knees bent slightly and arms carried back rearward, stretch and stretch.

Never Forget Cole Slaw on Spring Picnic!

There Might Be Mutiny if You Did!

BY MARY MEADE.
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Cole slaw is as much a part of a family picnic as are the hordes of youngsters running wild over the benches and tables in the park. Whether Aunt Bess brings her fried chicken and hot rolls or not, somebody must bring a big bowl of cole slaw.

Cole slaw is an inexpensive, crisp and variable salad. Having a head of cabbage on hand, one may suit the combination to the menu need, for almost any vegetable or fruit may be combined in cabbage salad.

Cole Slaw.
[Serves Six.]

3 cups finely shaved cabbage
3/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon pepper
1 1/2 tablespoons sugar
3 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice
6 tablespoons top milk or thin cream

Add salt, pepper, and sugar to the cabbage. Add vinegar to the milk and pour the mixture over the cabbage. Keep cold until time to serve.

Cabbage, Pepper, and Olive Slaw.
[Serves Eight.]

1 small head cabbage, shaved finely
1 green pepper, cut in thin slices
3 pimientos cut in thin strips
10 sliced green olives
1 cup salad oil
1/2 cup vinegar
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon sugar
1/4 teaspoon pepper
Few grains of paprika

Shake the six last named ingredients together in a bottle and pour over the vegetable mixture. Mix well and allow the salad to stand in a cold place for several hours before serving.

Cheese Cole Slaw with Buttermilk Dressing.
[Serves Four.]

2 cups finely shredded cabbage
1/4 cup grated cheese
1 teaspoon brown sugar
1 teaspoon mustard
1 tablespoon vinegar
3/4 cup buttermilk
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon paprika
Few grains cayenne

Combine sugar and seasonings and add to the buttermilk. Pour the mixture over the mixed cheese and cabbage. Marinate the salad for a time before serving. Garnish the slaw with green pepper rings.

Cream Slaw.
[Serves Eight.]

4 cups shredded cabbage
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons sugar
1/2 cup cream
2 cups mild vinegar or vinegar and water mixed
1/2 teaspoon mustard
1/2 teaspoon celery seed
Salt, pepper

Beat the egg yolks and sugar together and add the cream and seasonings. Stir well together and pour into the vinegar, which has been heated. Allow the mixture to scald for one minute. Then pour over the cabbage and serve.

Cabbage, Pineapple, and Raisin Slaw.
[Serves Eight.]

1 small head cabbage, shredded finely
1/2 cup grated pineapple, drained well
1/2 cup seedless raisins
French dressing
Fruit salad dressing

Marinate the cabbage, pineapple and raisins in French dressing for several hours. Drain off the excess dressing and serve topped with fruit salad dressing.

Culbertson's "Gold Book of Bidding and Play"

Presentation of the usual Gold Book instalment has been postponed to make room for an important announcement regarding asking bids. Gold Book instalments will be resumed day after tomorrow.

ASKING BIDS.

[Copyright: 1937: By Ely Culbertson.]

When asking bids were announced to the world a little over a year ago I stated with confidence that this new system of slam bidding would increase by an enormous percentage efficiency on slam-range hands. According to the thousands of letters received from all parts of the world that prediction was justified. But even in my first announcement, and on subsequent occasions, I pointed out that, in the final analysis, only experience could take all the rough edges off a system or a convention.

Time has proved that asking bids are technically perfect and that they are effective even beyond my fondest hope. But time also has proved that there were two psychological errors in their original presentation. The first was this:

For years we had taught players that a bid in the opponents' suit [after partner had bid] was a slamtry, showing a strong hand including the ace or void of opponents' suit. When millions of players were asked to change their bidding methods and to use the immediate overcall of opponents' suit as an asking bid instead of the aforesaid cue bid, habit often got the better of them, with consequent confusion in later bidding. Thus, purely as a concession to "habit," there have been two changes made in the asking bid system.

The first is that the immediate overcall of opponents' suit, such as: South, one heart; West, one spade; North, two spades—the two spade bid is, as of old, a cue bid showing first round spade control and a big hand. To make an asking bid in spades you must jump one round and bid three spades. The other change will be discussed tomorrow.

A Perfectly Bid Grand Slam.

Speaking of asking bids, here is a hand from a recent duplicate match. Four teams were using asking bids and four were not. All the "askers" arrived at seven. The others forlornly found themselves in a mere small slam.

South, dealer.

NORTH

WEST

♦ J 10 7
♣ K 10 6 5 3

SOUTH
♠ A 7
♦ A Q 6
♣ J 9

Among the askers the bidding went uniformly as follows:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	3 hearts	Pass
4 spades	Pass	5 clubs	Pass
5 diamonds	Pass	6 clubs	Pass
7 hearts	Pass	Pass	Pass

All of the "asking" South players were shrewd enough to select the correct suit in which to ask over North's double heart raise. They saw that if the four spade asking bid received a positive response it would be necessary to ask further in other suits and, therefore, started with the highest ranking side suit in order to make their future course smooth. The spade bid elicited that North held second round spade control and the club ace. On the diamond asking bid that followed, North was able to make a beautiful twofold response showing not only second round control of the asked suit, but also second round control of the club suit. With all this information at hand South's seven bid was virtually a double-dummy contract.

At the nonasking tables the bidding went two different ways:

1. South	North	2. South	North
1 heart	3 hearts	1 heart	1 spade
4 no trp.	5 clubs	3 hearts	5 hearts
6 hearts	Pass	6 hearts	Pass

In neither of these latter cases could the partnership safely reach the laydown grand slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: What is the correct response to an opening bid of one heart [opponent having passed] with the following: ♠ K 7 6 ♥ Q 7 ♦ A 9 6 5 4 ♣ 8 6 4?

Answer: Two diamonds.

Mr. Culbertson will discuss this hand in tomorrow's article.

JO-JOTTE POINTER.

The requirements for a bid of no trump at Jo-Jotte are about the same whether it is bid originally or as an overcall. The objective in either case is to out-score the adversary. But remember that failure means the loss of a game. You should have two aces and a ten, in three suits. When you have overcalled your opponent's suit you should have some assurance that you will not be overwhelmed by a long run of high cards. A stopper [ace, guarded ten, or doubly guarded king] is desirable, but in a pinch a couple of low cards will suffice [especially if they prevent him from holding an honor meld in the suit].

John Timothy Stones Will Entertain 500

Dr. and Mrs. John Timothy Stone of the Presbyterian Theological seminary will entertain about 500 guests tomorrow afternoon at their annual reception in connection with the commencement exercises of the seminary. Among those who will assist at the tea tables are: Mrs. R. Douglas Stuart, Mrs. L. Hamilton McCormick, Mrs. Charles S. Reed, Mrs. Dumont Clarke, Mrs. Arthur Wirtz, Mrs. Edward H. Smith, Mrs. George P. Fisher, and Mrs. Harrison Ray Anderson.

Four Aces Lead Bridge Finals by Wide Margin

New York, April 26.—[Special].—The Four Aces, declining a free trip to Europe at the expense of Mr. and Mrs. Ely Culbertson, were 3,470 points ahead of a Minneapolis team in the finals of the grand national team-of-four championship at the end of the afternoon session today. The aces said they would be unable to enter the international tournament in Budapest because of a lack of time.

Two-Character Play Is Tense Tale of Tragedy

"Close Quarters" Is Given U. S. Premiere.

"CLOSE QUARTERS."

A drama adapted from the German of W. O. Somin by Gilbert Lennox; given at the Selwyn theater April 26, 1937, with Philip Merivale and Gladys Cooper as co-stars [no other characters]; under the management of Lee Shubert.

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

The new play that Philip Merivale and Gladys Cooper brought to the Selwyn theater last night under the title of "Close Quarters" is an importation from the German-speaking stage by way of London. It has been a European success, but one may suspect that its American career is uncertain. It requires maintenance of suspense through three acts by two players, for it contains only two characters.

Mr. Merivale and Miss Cooper, although highly talented and rich in experience, do not seem to be able to hold the performance in the tense vein of dramatic excitement which the play's structure demands. However, last night's performance was an American première; and the stars' grasp upon their difficult material may tighten as they grow riper in their rôles.

"Close Quarters" is a domestic tragedy, with political implications. It tells an interesting story of an assassination of a government official which brings the lives of Gustav Bergman, a radical and labor agitator, and his wife Lisa, under clouds of worry, suspicion, and finally tragedy.

The husband has happened to pass close to the scene of the murder on his way home from a union meeting at which he has made an inflammatory address. He knows nothing of the killing but his own associates suspect that he is guilty. Circumstantial evidence seems to be weaving a net around him, and he broods over the situation, which threatens to wreck his usefulness in his party.

He believes that even his wife suspects him of the crime because of her strange attitude; and the Bergman home becomes more and more harassed as telephone, radio, and newspapers gradually bring clues to the mystery. The action, however, is thin until the final scene, when the wife, learning that a man's glove, probably her husband's, has been found at the scene of the murder, clarifies the story with a confession. She herself was the murderer of the minister, who had seduced her and used her as a spy on her husband's political plans.

They think that the police will arrive at any minute to make the arrest; she refuses to escape, leaving her husband to take the crime on his shoulders. On his part, he sees no way out except a double suicide; and the play ends with two shots offstage, marking the end of Gustav and Lisa Bergman. Then, for a stroke of irony, the radio announces that the fatal glove had belonged to another man, and a neighbor tosses the missing Bergman glove through the mail slot in their front door.

Mr. Merivale's portrait of the labor agitator is excellent character acting. Miss Cooper, although not close enough to the character of middle class Lisa Bergner, German haus-frau, is effective in suggesting the emotional strain that the heroine suffers.

BY NANCY CABOT.

"Calico Bouquets" is a quaint and charming old pieced block which was used as an allover design in the post-civil war period. When it was set together as an allover design the flowers in the corners of each block formed a large cluster of vivid blooms. A combination of printed and plain materials is essential to the beauty of the design. It is an easy block to piece, and it measures 15 inches square when completed. Forty-two pieced blocks, set together and bound with a one-half inch bias binding, produce a quilt measuring 90 by 105 inches.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

This is a gay little comedy drama with a crook angle. And it's as full of chases and games of hide and seek as the old Keystone comedies used to be.

Millcent Kendall and Peter Nostrand, both pursued by the police and unwillingly pursued and pursuing each other, land in a resort hotel about to be closed for the season. Alarmed by certain developments, they flee again, to, once more, come bang up together in a summer cottage in the woods some distance from the inn.

The lady, you discover, is an eloping heiress. The man, really not the villain he has seemed to be. Just for the innocent butt of a jealous husband's unreasoning animosity. . . .

BUT—there IS a killer loose in them thar woods! Dutch Nelson by name.

Dutch, a rabbit, and a woodsman named Edwin Henry, become entangled in the affairs of the two young people. So do the sherif of the county and a large and healthy posse of right capable gun shooters.

The picture rounds out to a romantic and merry fadeout.

"Fifty Roads To Town" is light, sparklingly acted and full of action. Miss Sothern—she is such a pretty thing!—and Don Ameche do excellent team work, appearing to have a mighty good time the while. Supporting players are capable.

And there's some scenery that makes your thoughts wing wistfully to summer vacations.

Record Crowd Holds Breath as Eddy Sings

Film and Radio Followers Jam Opera House.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Nelson Eddy, a blond young Nordic god who is customarily worshipped from afar by legions of film and radio fans, came to the stage of the Civic Opera house last night to receive in person the homage of the largest recital audience in Chicago's recent history. The baritone's admirers filled every regular seat in the huge theater, clustered round him hundreds strong on stage chairs, and peered directly up at him from a packed orchestra pit.

The homage took several forms. There was applause, of course—very loud and of the excited, rapid-fire variety. Also there were happy sighs and other evidences of almost immeasurable bliss, ready laughter for all the singer's droll pantomime, and the kind of rapt silence amid which you could almost hear the click of 7,800 ears being cocked for whatever sound should be emitted by that famous throat.

Mr. Eddy had been spirited into the city and will be spirited out again. He was brought into the Civic Opera house by secret passages and taken out again like the hero of a spy drama. In other cities, according to the statement of a reliable authority, "they've been tearing him up."

The baritone did not put "Sweethearts" on his printed program—nor, indeed, any music of that sort. He used the standard concert répertoire and allowed the encores to take care of the lighter things.

There were songs in French, German, and English, with a Russian group whose words had been translated into the last named tongue. Operatic excerpts ["Monna Vanna," "Boris," "The Bartered Bride"] were scattered through a program that would have tested the mettle of any baritone alive.

Mr. Eddy's artistic growth has been remarkable. He is possessed of a round sonorous voice and an extremely deft and beautiful legato. It is too bad, by the way, that there is no such color as misted gold. It would serve admirably to describe the color of his voice, which is not ringing nor brazen by any means but attractively mellow and clouded.

In his handling of a phrase he could give pointers to many an older and better established singer. However, he has still to master a genuine pianissimo.

For any one eager to attack, Mr. Eddy's most vulnerable point seems to be his tendency to exaggerate. In Moussorgsky's "Song of the Flea" he conveyed in a wealth of pantomime quite foreign to the concert stage the sorry plight of those courtiers who became unwilling hosts to the small but important creatures whose migration is the subject of the piece.

Theodore Paxson, Eddy's admirable accompanist, played a group of solos at the end of the program's first half and was compelled by the volume of the applause to add another number as encore. His performance of a Handel Chaconne was a model of fluent, reserved, genuinely classical playing.

Logan, Miss Herma Clark, John McKinlay, Dr. Thomas P. Foley of the Chicago Medical society; Ebba Sundstrom, Charles M. Thompson of the Chicago Bar association, and Mrs. Andrew McLeish.

A new herbal lotion is a perfect skin tonic for dry, parched skin. Its handsome bottle is topped by an atomizer; gentle pressure on the bulb brings forth a gentle cloud of the mild, fragrant tonic, which leaves the skin moistened and softened.

The grand finale of heavenly beauty treatment we had not long ago was a cool, delightfully fragrant skin lotion sprayed on face and neck like a gentle mist. It's a most luxurious sensation—and one you can now enjoy at home.

The lotion is a skin freshener, nondrying, that finishes off a cleansing or a massage like nothing you've ever tried before. Its handsome bottle is topped by an atomizer and instead of patting the lotion on you can spray yourself gorgeously. It's rather fun and it does make the skin feel like a cool million.

It's an herbal lotion, of the sort that's extremely kind to dry skins, doing away with the messy feeling cream leaves but not at all harshly astringent in its action. It leaves the skin refreshed and moist.

This, we think, is a wonderful pick-up. No matter how weary you are, you're bound to feel as spruced up as if a dozen beauticians had worked on you if you take time out to spray the mistlike lotion all over face and neck after a quick cleansing. The spray is well controled; you won't be drowned in it. A gentle pressure on the bulb brings forth just the right cloud, which feels a little bit like the gentle rain from heaven.

Even the driest skins need toning, you know, but many of us thin skinned femmes are afraid of skin tonics. This is one you needn't fear at all; it's mild but a perfect freshener as well. In fact, dry, parched looking complexions take on a new moisture and softness. It's the old, hallowed idea of the beautifying English mist; hold the flacon a foot or so away from your face, press the bulb gently and you've a miniature mist, hand made. The skin surface is all set to take makeup perfectly.

A. of C. Chorus Celebrates Its Silver Jubilee

BY CECIL M. SMITH.

The glee club of the Chicago Association of Commerce has this season reached the ripe and experienced age of 25. To celebrate their silver jubilee the 150 members of the organization foregathered in Orchestra hall last evening, along with a host of their families and friends.

About 65 of the members, classified as "active," sang from the stage under the baton of Arthur Dunham. The others, designated "associates," kept cordial applause alive out in the audience.

Mr. Dunham is not only an admirable choral conductor but a wise judge of human nature as well. He realizes that the group of business men who annually submit to his excellent training do not wish to become students of esoteric forms of choral music. He therefore provides them with a bright and cheerful list of songs varying from the animated "Galway Piper" to the sentimental quietude of Rubinstein's "Reve Angelique."

In this last selection, a vocal arrangement of the familiar "Kamennoi Ostrow," the well-balanced voices of the glee club were assisted by Avern Scolnik, violinist, and Viola Gibbons, contralto. Mrs. Gibbons, the featured soloist of the evening, has a small voice of attractive sweetness in the upper register.

Mario Salvador, 19, Chicago organist who has studied both here and in Italy, played in Kimball hall last evening. He is gifted with great natural aptitude for the instrument, and often gives a virtuoso account of himself.

It is scarcely natural to expect so youthful a player to show a wholly mature musical insight. In Bach's Prelude and Fugue in B Minor, however, he went much too far astray. He obscured the sturdy Teutonism of the work by an overdose of Latin warmth in registration and phrasing. It sounded more like Bossi than Bach.

I hope also that he can conquer the serious nervousness which makes him rush tempi and commit occasional errors. He has a fine talent, but it will take shrewd teaching to put him on the right track.

Movie Closeup

Have you ever been to a "sneak preview"? Maybe so if you've spent any time in Hollywood, for Hollywood movie theaters make a practice of presenting such at night on the heels of a regular performance of the scheduled feature picture. This evening the Roosevelt follows suit, and at 10 o'clock after the regular performance of "Wake Up and Live" a new and uncut production, the name of which is not yet known, even to the manager of the theater, will be screened. After making its bow the visiting film will be shipped on to New York City for presentation. Only one preview performance will be held. There will be no increase in admission price.

Women Voters Open Illinois Convention at Jacksonville

Jacksonville, Ill., April 26.—[Special.]—More than 300 members of the Illinois League of Women Voters opened their annual state convention here today. During the three day session a program for 1937-'38 will be outlined and adopted.

At the annual election Wednesday Mrs. George G. Bogert of Chicago is slated to succeed Mrs. Frank P. Hixon of Lake Forest as president. Mrs. Bogert's nomination is without contest. Mrs. Bogert is retiring as president of the Cook County league. Previously she served the state league as chairman of publicity.

New vice presidents are expected to be Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer of Bloomington, Mrs. E. Olney Herman of Momence, Mrs. Raymond S. Knapp of Chicago, and Mrs. Guy Allen Tawney of Champaign. The treasureship will go to Mrs. Jay F. Glidden of Highland Park, it is expected.

The highlight of the convention will be a banquet tomorrow with State Senator T. V. Smith as the principal speaker.

Drama Abounds, Fabric Skimpy in White Hats

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Good spring tonics that knowing shoppers are selecting for what every one will agree are spectacularly successful wardrobes! Hats of the air conditioned variety whether you are young or sophisticated. The first spanking white piqués and linens have been unpacked and most of them have crowns that are nothing more or less than a single strap, and that plenty narrow.

These decidedly skimpy hats make up for the minimum of material with the maximum of drama. Sky shooting bows, stitched rows in white or contrast, huge fabric flowers cut with scissors into unheard of botanical blooms, with amusing button centers, pompoms of white braid, are some of the newest accents.

What is most comforting about these first all-white hats is the fact that you can find wide brims as well as the small unbrimmed models. And all of them promise headline flattery to one and all. If you are weary of white piqué try white linen for the right kind of a change or the black and white combines equally crisp and new for this season's daytime clothes. Another good trick is the small turbans of white that are completely veiled in black, and these black veils floating well down around the shoulders. The same effect can be achieved with a navy blue veil or even one of dark brown.

See the flower bestrewn new veils, rows of gay flowers all the way around the edge of the veil, such as forget-me-nots and the like. These are distractingly new for otherwise unadorned black or white hats.

Circular veils are very, very popular for these are the whiffs of color and contrast that are used with such stunning results on all the skullcaps of straw. Half a veil or an exact half circle of such a similar veil can be found with dime size dots of color around the edge, and for the yard buyers, try the white with black chenille dots, the blue with red dots, and the red with purple dots.

C. Y. Freemans and Jeffersons Are Parents

Son Is Born to Junior Henry Gardners.

BY JUDITH CASS.

BABIES or rummage sales? There is news of so many of both this morning that we did not know which to put at the head of the column, but we decided babies were the more interesting, by far. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yoe Freeman Jr. [Helen Marie Castle] are receiving congratulations upon the birth of their first child, a daughter, yesterday at the Passavant hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Beverly Jefferson [Margaret Dawes] are being congratulated upon the birth of their first child, also a daughter, on Sunday at the Evanston hospital.

From Providence, R. I., comes news of the birth of a son, Robert MacArthur Gardner, last Friday to Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Gardner Jr. [Georgianna MacArthur] and from Washington, D. C., comes word of the birth of a son, also last Friday, to Mr. and Mrs. Talbot Wegg [Elizabeth Zimmerman]. Both these are first children, too.

Wee Miss Freeman's maternal grandparents are Mrs. Frederick L. McNally and Alfred C. Castle, and her paternal ones are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Y. Freeman. The Jeffersons' daughter has been named Jean Dawes for her aunt, Mrs. Robert T. Sherman. Tiny Jean's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Cutler Dawes and the Carl Jeffersons.

Young Robert MacArthur Gardner's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Alfred MacArthur, is in Providence now, but his Grandfather MacArthur will not make his acquaintance just yet. The baby is named for Mr. MacArthur's father. The Donald R. Weggs of Chicago and the William E. Zimmermans of Washington, formerly of Chicago, are the grandparents of young Master Wegg.

THE TRAP

INSTALMENT I.

SYNOPSIS.

Alida French and Vance, who live in the same building, meet in Dr. Cunningham's office, through Miss Rogers, the doctor's nurse. Vance is upset by what the doctor tells him. Alida accepts his invitation to dine with him.

INSTALMENT II.

GETTING ACQUAINTED.

At the restaurant Vance had selected he smiled at Alida across the table.

"Ever heard of the Lord tempering the wind to the shorn lamb?" he asked her. "Well, that's what he's doing for me tonight. Let's celebrate fittingly. How about cocktails and a cream soup to begin, broiled squab chicken and new peas to go on with, sauterne cup, a fresh fruit salad with heavy mayonnaise, a peach Melba, black coffee, and apricot brandy?"

"The only things you have forgotten," she said thoughtfully, "are potatoes au gratin. I like them very much."

Vance laughed and added the potatoes to his order. He was coming up out of a nightmare and the sensation was wonderful.

"You and I have lived in the same building at least a year," he reminded Alida. "I think it was last spring I first heard the sound of sweet music as you came into our hotel elevator. Ever since then I've been wishing I knew you. Do you know anything about me?"

"All the elevator man knows," she confessed. "I asked him. Aren't you writing a play or a book or something?"

"I'm an architect by profession. But since New York stopped building anything I've taken up another job." His voice sank. "I write verse," he ended solemnly.

"You mean that you're a poet?"

"God forbid! I write jokes and jingles and short shorts for humorous weeklies. I also write greetings on cards—Christmas, birthdays, all that sort of thing. I didn't know I could do it, but apparently I can. I write about 40 per cent of the poetic drivel published in this country."

"Do you sign it?"

"Good Lord, no. But people are beginning to recognize my stuff. If some Christmas verses you read last December have been echoing in the chambers of your heart ever since, they're mine."

"All I read were simply appalling," she murmured.

"Then they're undoubtedly mine," he said buoyantly. "I write verses for Father's day, Mother's day, Aunt Susan's day. When I find my mind tottering under the strain, I make a sketch of a rural postoffice or something of the sort. Excursions into the higher air of my real profession are a mental tonic."

He rattled on, while she watched him and listened. He was under some peculiar tension, that was clear. He was an upstanding, clever-looking chap with brown hair, gray eyes so dark that at moments they looked black, and a peculiarly engaging boyish smile. This last she saw only two or three times, and then it was clearly forced. But she had seen it when they met in the waiting room. That time it had been natural. His young face—she decided that he couldn't be more than twenty-five or twenty-six—wore an expression wholly out of keeping with the nonsense he chattered. Notwithstanding his robust assertions of interest in the dinner, he was eating very little.

Alida ate her dinner absently, her thoughts on the man before her. This morning she had known him only as a fellow tenant of their apartment hotel. Tonight she was dining with him, and experiencing this odd sense of having known him long and well. Experiencing, too, a poignant and puzzling pity for him; for with every moment her consciousness that he was in distress grew and strengthened.

When the fruit salad had been served she straightened, looked him in the eyes, and spoke very gently.

"Why don't you tell me about it?"

If he had pretended not to understand she would have been disappointed in him. His note was frankness. It looked from his clear gray eyes.

"There is something that disturbs me. I'd like to tell you about it," he said soberly. "I may later. Not now, if you don't mind."

Alida had a problem of her own, and to divert his mind she decided to put it to him.

"You're thinking something out," she began. "So am I. I've been up against my puzzle for weeks. In fact, it's what has led to my little bout of insomnia. I never had insomnia before. But I think about this maddening problem all day. Then at night I can't sleep."

"Let's have it," he said almost eagerly. "Perhaps I can help," he added more quietly. "I'd like to."

"Perhaps you can." Alida looked at him thoughtfully. "At first glance my problem seems simple. Like you, I'm in a profession that is almost dead for the time. I'm a magazine writer. My line is special features. The first two years I wrote it paid very well, considering that I was a beginner. For the last two years the magazines seem to have stopped buying anything except a little fiction. They've got to have that. Their special features are written in their offices by their stafs, who are only too glad to hold their jobs by doing such work. Besides, every magazine started the depression period with a big stock of accepted material it had been holding over. They're all revamping and using that. The point is, they're not buying much of my kind of thing. I'm not earning more than a quarter as much as I did at first."

"I'll teach you to write jingles," Vance suggested with a wan smile. "They really do pay, and it's easy to learn the knack of tossing them off."

She laughed.

"Thanks. You really are a good samaritan. But that sort of thing is altogether out of my line. I must stick to my last. Or rather I must concentrate on a new last that's ready and waiting for me. But—it has a lot of complications."

Vance attacked the peach Melba which had just been placed before him.

"Go on, please," he urged. "I'm awfully interested."

"It's rather an interesting situation," his guest continued. "I own an old house in a village called Quinnet. It's on the Massachusetts coast, not far from the cape. It was left me by an uncle, Amos French, who disappeared fourteen years ago. No one knows what became of him, and that's part of the story. After he had been gone fourteen years he was legally declared dead and his will was probated. He had left the life use of the house to an old cousin who had been his housekeeper for a quarter of a century. When she died this winter it became my house. Ever since then," the girl added darkly, "that house has been planted in the foreground of my mind like a tangible substance. It shuts out everything else."

"I wouldn't mind having a house in the foreground of my mind," Vance jested, "if it existed somewhere else, too, and I owned it."

"You would mind having this one there," his companion said somberly. "You see, at first glance, the legacy was quite wonderful. It's a good house, built by my great-great-grandfather, Capt. Amos French, in 1798. They don't build houses like it nowadays. It's big and comfortable. Uncle Amos put in modern plumbing and modern heating. The Frenches have always lived in it. It's very nicely furnished. Uncle Amos added some good things. He was a successful country lawyer with a taste for old mahogany. It has about ten acres of ground stretching back in the country side and down to the sea. There's a vegetable garden, a chicken run, a fine old barn made over into a garage, and a charming old fashioned flower garden. The housekeeper had the temporary use of the small income that was left with it. She didn't spend any of it on repairs, so the house has grown pretty shabby during her fourteen years there. It needs paint and a good deal of carpentry. Theoretically, I ought to go there this spring and put it into condition, and live in it. I could almost live on the vegetable garden and the chickens and the cow—there's a cow, too—and the little income. Almost—but not quite. What I thought when I first got it was that I might take in a few 'paying guests,' as they're so elegantly called. I might take them for the summer—just enough of them to meet my expenses. Then, I could stay there winters or come to New York and go on with my own game when conditions improve."

"It sounds great," Vance commented. "What's the matter with it? I don't see any problem."

"You will. There's a catch. You'll laugh when I tell you what the catch is, but it isn't really funny." She drew a deep breath and brought out her climax. "The house is haunted!"

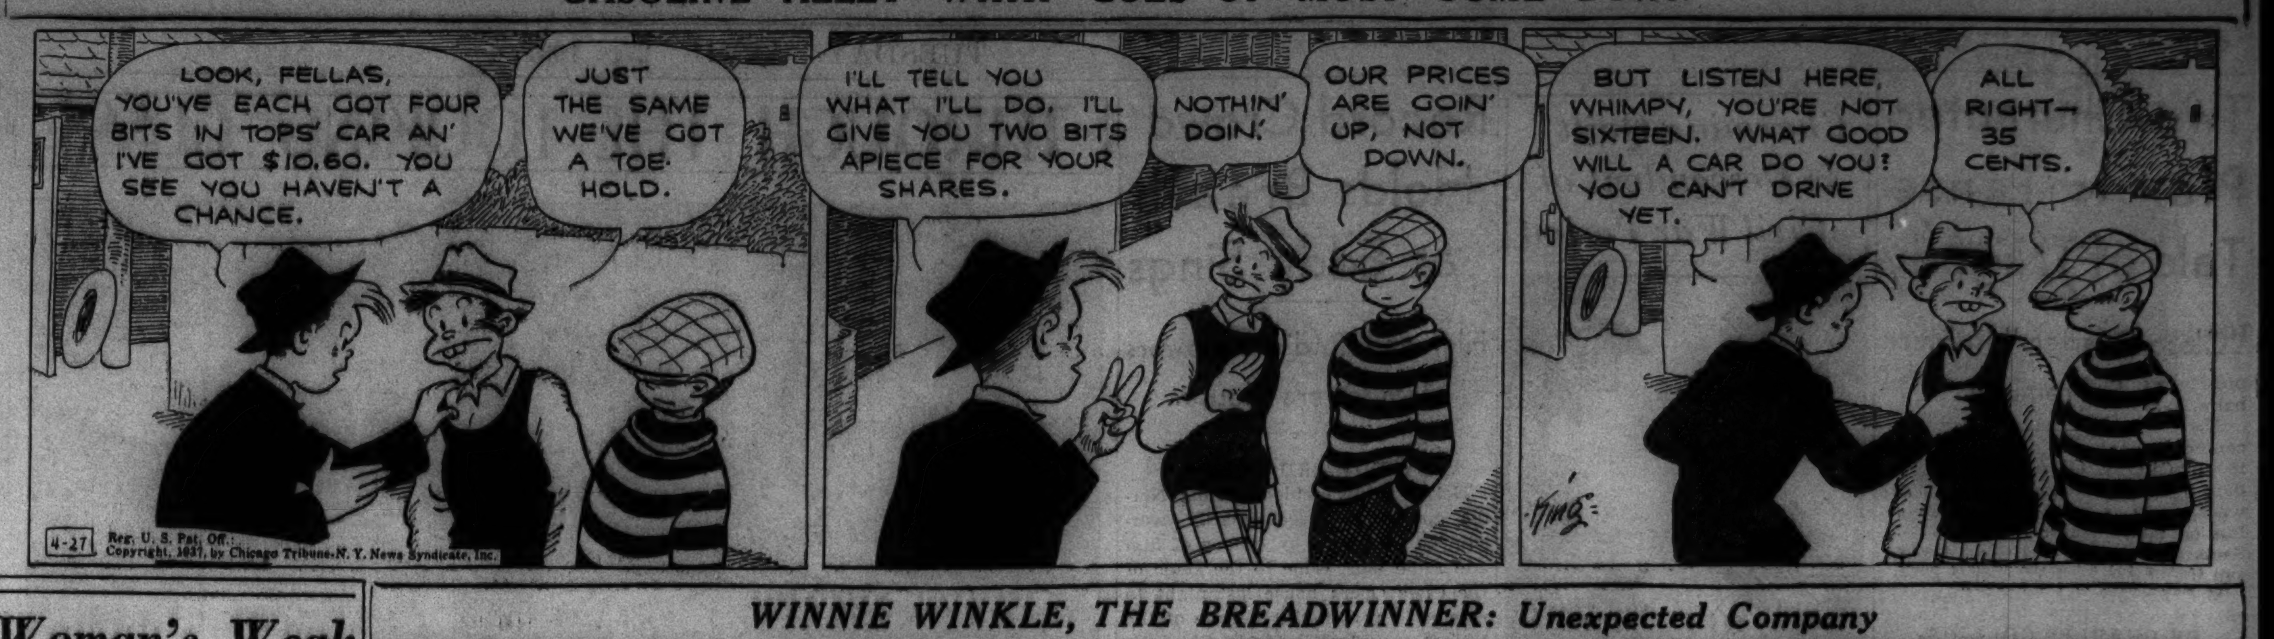
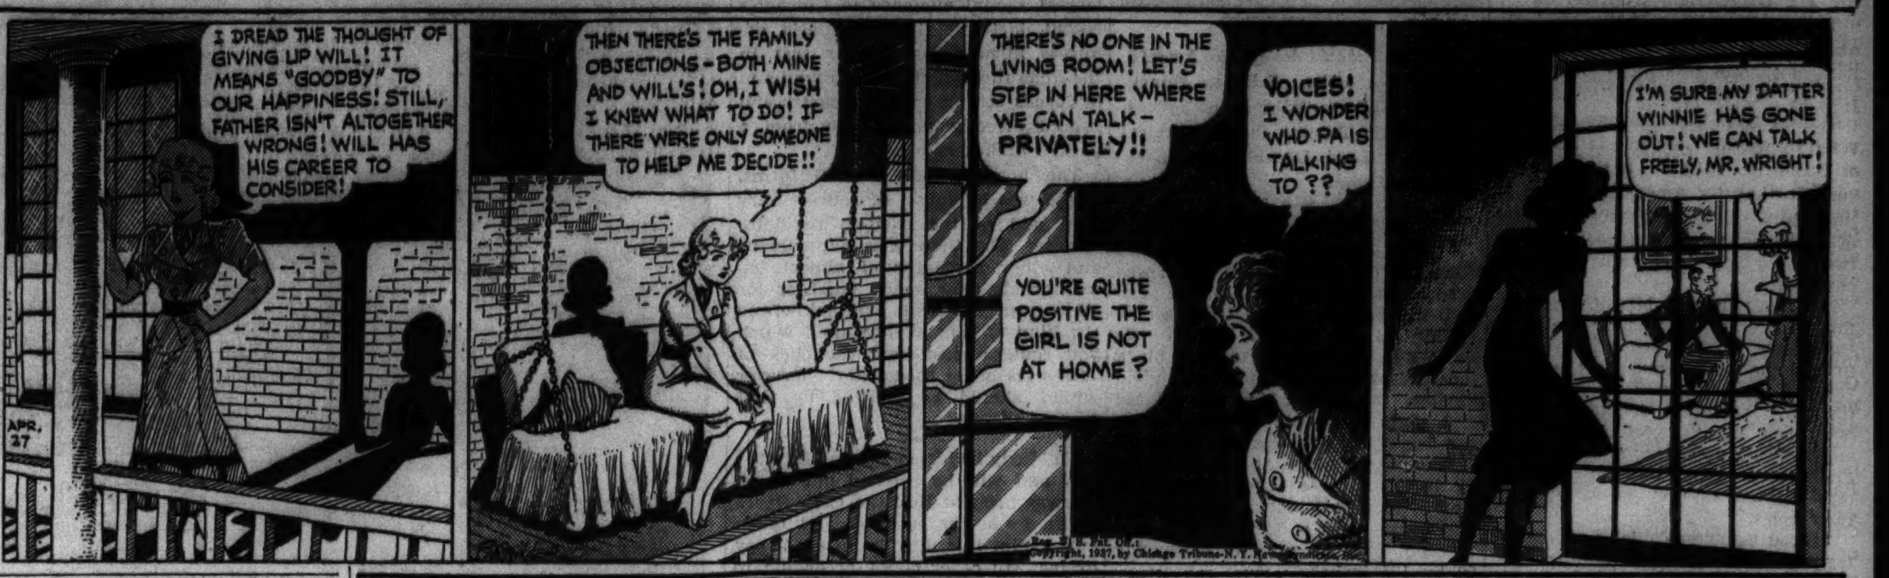
GASOLINE ALLEY—WHAT GOES UP MUST COME DOWN



WINNIE WINKLE, THE BREADWINNER: Unexpected Company

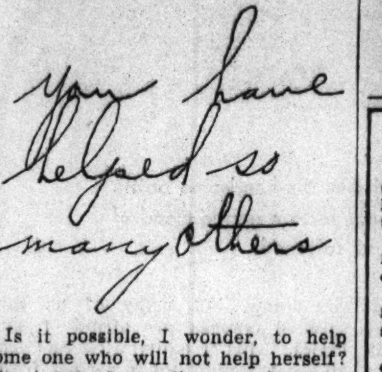


Woman's Weak Will Is Revealed in Handwriting

BY MURIEL STAFFORD.

[Copyright: 1937: By Muriel Stafford.]

"Perhaps you will endeavor to help me discover myself as you have helped so many others. For several months now I have been trying to pick up lost threads of what was once my former self but to no avail. All of my firm convictions are slowly melting into obscurity because of a very deep attachment for some one I must not care for."



Is it possible, I wonder, to help some one who will not help herself? The loops of one line run into the next. High, light letters reveal idealism, but when they start to waver all over the page like this the writer is distinctly weak willed.

In most writings of light pressure you will find some trace of strong opinions, or stubbornness or firmness of character. This handwriting just wabbles around without anything to balance it and unless the writer strengthens her backbone she is going to find herself at the mercy of almost any one.

More than anything else she needs the right sort of influence. To become involved as she has with some one whom she knows is not a strengthening influence is a terrible thing. She is too impressionable, too gullible, too easily hurt to be with any one who is not good for her.

A handwriting as impressionable as this always reflects a true victim of circumstances. The writer needs the right surroundings much more than one whose handwriting reflects that he will do as he wishes and carve his own future regardless of the stumbling blocks.

Your handwriting reveals not only emotional conflict but great depression. Stay by the high ideals you inwardly have and don't let any one persuade you to do otherwise. Stay away from those who should not be your companions and find others.

Talk on Early Music.

Florence Brinkman will give an illustrated talk on early English tunes and texts at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow in the Club Woman's bureau at Mandel Brothers. The program is open free to club women.

Your Handwriting Analyzed

Any Tribune reader can obtain a personal graphology chart showing his or her assets, handicaps, talents, and emotions by following these rules:

1. Send sample of handwriting to Muriel Stafford, Chicago Tribune, postoffice box 1729.
2. Inclose 10 cents (carefully wrapped) for each sample of handwriting you wish analyzed.
3. Inclose a self-addressed, STAMPED envelope, folded once.

Music Clubs Seek Better Merry-Go-Round Tunes

Indianapolis, Ind., April 26.—(AP)—The culture lifting program of the National Federation of Music Clubs was widened today to include "better music for merry-go-rounds" as a summer objective. "Merry-go-rounds," said a resolution adopted by the federation's junior conference, "play an inferior grade of jazz which is destroying the musical ideals of young America."

C. Y. Freemans and Jeffersons Are Parents

Son Is Born to Junior Henry Gardners.

The sale, in which the Kenwood center will join the North Side one in giving it, is to be held from Monday through Wednesday of next week at 227 North Michigan avenue. Mrs. Eugene S. Talbot Jr. and Mrs. Samuel Lebold are chairmen of the sale.

Mrs. Freeman Jr. is a member of the junior auxiliary of the North Side center which is giving a tea and fashion show at Field's on May 14. Mrs. John R. Hurley is president of the auxiliary which meets once a month to sew clothes for the Infant Welfare society.

The women planning the annual White Elephant sale for the benefit of Grove House are calling the various sale departments by such intriguing names that they make one feel she should brave the crowd that always goes to a rummage sale and appear at 615 Davis street, Evanston, early on Thursday morning. Mrs. Stuyvesant Butler and Mrs. Robert T. Sherman will be in charge of selling "revived headgear"; Mrs. C .E. G. Tuthill will sell "footal adornment"; and Mrs. Henry Bartholomay will dispense "mental fodder."

"Whatnots and changelings" will be sold by Mrs. Arch W. Shaw, Mrs. Ralph Hobart, and Mrs. Cuthbert Adams. Mrs. Arthur T. Galt, Mrs. Charles T. Mordock, and Mrs. Cornelius B. Watson will be in charge of the "sewing room pieces" and Mrs. A. C. Goodrich, Mrs. Francis Hardy, and Mrs. Carlton Blunt will conduct the sale at the "cap to toe table for youngsters." Mrs. John Stuart, Mrs. Frederick K. Scott, Mrs. Howard W. Fenton, and Mrs. Kent Clow will sell "resuscitated gowns."

Mrs. James L. Houghteling is chairman of the board of Grove House for Convalescents and Mrs. John M. Butler and Mrs. Paul Starr are co-chairmen of the sale committee.

Women's Symphony Board Plans Sale.

The board of the Woman's Symphony orchestra will hold a "Hi-Hat" rummage sale next Tuesday for the benefit of the maintenance fund. The women are calling it a "Hi-Hat" sale because Mrs. Donald MacMurray, general chairman, has had experience with other rummage sales and she is of the opinion that the most popular articles sold at such sales are dinner and evening clothes, silk hats, and costume jewelry.

The sale will be held in a vacant building at Ogden, Larrabee, and North avenue from 9 o'clock until midnight. Mrs. Edward Morris, Mrs. Henry T. Roberts, and Miss Julianna Holmes are among those working with Mrs. MacMurray. Those who have articles to contribute may telephone the orchestra office, Webster 3946, to arrange to have them picked up.

Mrs. William Davey has come from New York to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert E. Bradley. The former Alice Bradley is having a quiet visit and is looking forward to going with her parents, as soon as the weather is a bit warmer, to their lodge near Coleman, Wis. Mr. Davey is studying at New York university, so he did not accompany his wife west.

Mrs. Bradley is to be the especial guest of The Cordon at its tea next Friday.

Mrs. Blair, Daughter to Leave Thursday.

Mrs. Chauncey J. Blair and her daughter, Marquise d'Ivanrey, will leave Thursday for New York to sail on May 25 for Biarritz, where the latter's widowed daughter, Mme. Gonzalo de la Gandara, and her little daughter, Luz, are living. Mrs. Blair and Mme. d'Ivanrey are being kept busy during their Chicago visit seeing relatives and old friends in an informal sort of way.

Mrs. Arthur G. Cable has sailed for a visit with her mother in Paris.

The Roger D. Shaws are sailing today on the Carinthia for England. They are taking their car. They will visit friends in London during the coronantion. They will return late in June.

Mrs. Harry L. Street and her daughter, Miss Marjorie Street, have moved out to their home in Winnetka after spending the winter in their apartment on Astor street. Early in June they will motor east to attend the graduation of Miss Harriett Street from Vassar college.

Mrs. Edward A. Leight is sailing on the Bremen on May 5 for London. After two weeks in London she will cross to Paris and then will visit Germany and Salzburg before returning home in August.

Dr. and Mrs. Dwight C. Orcutt have returned from a Caribbean cruise with their daughter, Miss Frances Orcutt, who joined them for her spring vacation from Gulf Park college at Gulfport, Miss.

Lecture on Chinese Wall Paintings Today.

Of interest to lovers of oriental art will be Laurence Sickman's lecture on "Chinese Wall Paintings of the Post T'Ang Period" at 2 o'clock today in Fullerton hall of the Art Institute.

The Friends of China and the Orientals jointly are sponsoring the lecture, and will give a reception and tea for Mr. Sickman afterward in the Oriental galleries. Mr. Sickman is curator of oriental art at the William Rockhill Nelson Gallery of Art in Kansas City, Mo.

A card party, fashion show, and tea which will benefit the philanthropic fund of Le Cercle Français will be held this afternoon at the Drake hotel.

Selection of a subject for a drawing by Maud Phelps Hutchins [Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins] will be made at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, May 4. Mrs. Walter S. Brewster, president of the Public School Art society, is opening her home at 2704 Lake View avenue for the occasion.

The Junior leagues of Chicago and Evanston have cards out for the private opening of the annual Fine Arts and Handcraft exhibition of the Association of Junior Leagues of America at the Historical society Friday, May 7, at 3:30 o'clock.

Mrs. Fred H. Scheel and Miss Alice Barler are co-chairmen of the benefit card party the Friendly Aid society is sponsoring on Monday afternoon, May 10, at the Lake Shore Athletic club. The party will celebrate the 45th year of the society, which contributes to fourteen charities.

The officers and board of managers of Fellowship House have planned a benefit for Tuesday, May 11. It will be a showing of the moving picture "All the King's Horses" at 2 o'clock in the afternon at the Cinema theater, with a program of songs and short talks following. Mrs. Ronald Chinnock, whose husband is chairman of the board of trustees, is in charge of arrangements.

Colony Club Benefit.

A dinner for the benefit of the Illinois Colony club's Home for the Aged will be served tomorrow at the home, 7515 Ogden avenue. The hours will be from 1 to 7 o'clock, with bunco in the afternoon and evening. The home is nonsectarian and serves persons without adequate funds. It is supported by the colony.

HAROLD TEEN—THE RECEPTION COMMITTEE

Pattern for Three Garments

WOMAN'S AND MISS' SPORTS. OUTFIT.

It may be a sun-back dress for spectator or active participation in sports; it may be a delightfully tailored ensemble for informal jaunts in town; or it may be an abbreviated and graceful garment for the tennis court or beach. Take your choice or take all three! The pattern allows for all versions. The neckline is rather high in front and dips down in the back in a heart-shaped neckline. The broad band around the neckline forms comfortable shoulder straps in the back. Clever paneling makes the garment fit perfectly while providing plenty of swing in the skirt. The waistline is snugly belted for a slim line. And then there's the jacket, with its brief, flaring sleeves. This little garment transforms the sun dress into an ensemble for street wear.

If you're a tennis or golf enthusiast you will love this model. Summer isn't so very far away, you know, and definitly warm days will be upon us before you know it. The shops have been showing smart cottons, linens, and wash silks for quite some time now, so the supply of fabrics is more than adequate for those of you who are smart enough to begin your summer wardrobes right now.

Style No. 3114 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20 years, and 30, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, and 46 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3⅜ yards of 39 inch material for the dress, and 1⅝ yards of 39 inch material for the jacket.

WHAS to Get Radio Award for Flood Aid

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

William Paley, president of CBS, announced yesterday that the network's medal for distinguished service to radio is to be awarded to station WHAS, Louisville, for heroic flood relief work last January in a special broadcast at 10:30 p. m. next Sunday. During last January's emergency the station's staf stood by 188 hours issuing flood warnings and relief directions. In the past this service medal has been awarded to Leopold Stowkowski, Admiral Byrd, Col. Lindbergh, and Nino Martini, among others.

Unquestionably WHAS did a heroic piece of work last winter. But it does seem that WSM, Nashville, which gallantly turned over its entire facilities to WHAS during the emergency should share this recognition. WSM was not affected by the flood, and yet, though a major competitor of the Louisville station, Nashville canceled all programs—sponsored ones included, so that WHAS, its own transmitter crippled, might use the WSM transmitter. This unselfish action made it possible for WHAS to function through the signals laid down in Louisville by WSM.

Radio row is gasping over the story that Noel Coward has refused $90,000 for 13 Sunday broadcasts—because he expects there will be some pleasant Sunday evenings this spring when he doesn't choose to work.

Grace Moore is to arrive from New York this morning. Her Saturday evening CBS broadcast will emanate from Hollywood henceforth.

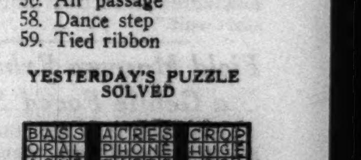
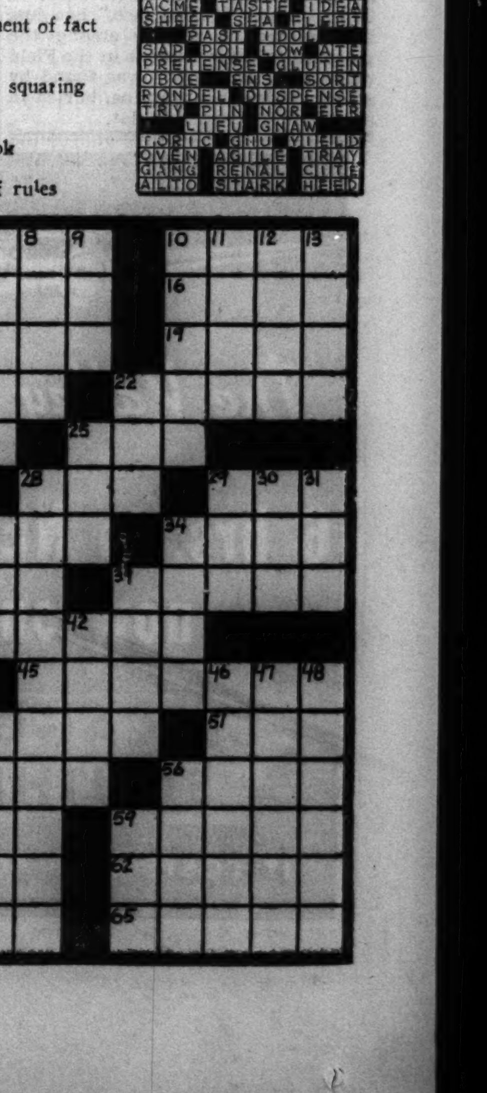
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED





SENATORS HEAR FRAUD CHARGES AGAINST SHERIF

Kentucky Coal Operators Accused of Aiding.

Washington, D. C., April 26.—(AP)—Senator Robert M. La Follette [P., Wis.], chairman of the senate civil liberties committee, accused a group of Kentucky coal operators today of "permitting" Sherif Theodore Middleton of Harlan county to "build up his personal fortune by speculating with state and county tax money."

Sherif Theodore Middleton.

Although the operators were Middleton's official bondsmen and bankers he asserted, they "closed their eyes" to "financial irregularities."

Witnesses before the committee have testified repeatedly that the coal operators "suppressed" all labor unions for the last fourteen years, largely by using special deputy sherifs commissioned by Middleton and his predecessors.

Tax Officials Listen.

La Follette made his charges a few minutes after the sherif had refused to answer questions about his financial affairs, on grounds that he might "tend to incriminate myself" in connection with a possible income tax prosecution.

Investigators said that income tax officials were in the hearing room while Middleton was on the stand.

Before he claimed constitutional immunity from further questioning the sherif readily conceded he had acquired $102,728 worth of real estate and securities since he took office in 1934, although his official salary never amounted to more than $4,460 a year.

"The committee is somewhat puzzled about how you found the office of sherif so lucrative," La Follette remarked.

Bank Records Produced.

La Follette confronted Middleton with bank records and his own reports to the Harlan county fiscal court. The senator said these documents indicated the sherif had transferred $60,156 from official accounts to his personal account between 1934 and 1937.

"I guess that's right," the sherif remarked.

The senator observed that Middleton's commissions on tax collections during the period could not have exceeded $25,783.

Middleton again agreed, and added that "I don't know what happened to the rest of the $60,000." At another point, however, he said he paid in to the public treasury all the public money he collected.

CITY GOES AFTER $600,000 UNPAID INSPECTION FEES

Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes announced yesterday the start of a determined effort to collect $600,000 owing the city in inspection fees from 1933 to 1935 inclusive.

Michael L. Rosinia, head of the prosecution division of the city's law department, has been instructed to begin prosecution of the delinquent property owners immediately. Mr. Hodes said Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court has agreed to appoint a special judge to hear the cases. Prosecution will be based on violation of an ordinance providing a $5 to $100 fine for failure to pay a city fee.

"In the past it has been the practice generally," Mr. Hodes declared, "to issue warants against individuals who owe inspection fees, trusting that the city controler would be able to force them to pay. This system has been unsuccessful because the delinquent fees are for small sums, making it financially impractical to start suit."

LEGISLATURE TO BREAK DEADLOCK, PASS TAX BILLS

Speedy Action Needed to Keep 3% Levy.

Springfield, Ill., April 26.—[Special.]—State senate leaders admitted today that the log jam they created last Wednesday by taking all house bills off the senate calendar and sending them to the executive committee will be broken up gradually this week.

The start will come when the committee meets tomorrow and carries out the announced program of recommending the sales tax bills for passage. These measures cannot be delayed as the present law cuts the 3 per cent rate to 2 per cent on May 1 and it has been conceded that the present rate must be continued until Feb. 15, 1939, for relief.

Passed by House.

The three bills required for the extension already have been passed by the house and no opposition is expected in the senate, except for one measure reorganizing the setup of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission. Some downstaters are said to have aligned themselves against the proposed change.

It is planned that the senate will pass at least two of the three bills in the early hours of Thursday morning, a trick procedure necessitated by the requirement that every bill be read in each chamber on three separate legislative days.

When these bills are released by the executive committee, it is predicted they will be accompanied by other house measures whose sponsors have interceded for them. The same process, it is expected, will be repeated Wednesday, so that the net result will be the washing out of the effects of last week's declaration of war between the houses.

Parole Bill on Calendar.

On the house side this week interest centers largely around two sets of bills that already have been passed by the senate, those on parole reform and divorce. Both the Ward senate bills and the Schnackenberg house bills, which on the whole are duplicates, are on the house calendar for action. The Graham divorce bills are ready for house consideration but they probably will be taken up first in the judiciary committee.

The drivers' license bills, which were taken away from the appropriations committee of the house last week, are set for a special hearing tomorrow morning before the house sitting as a committee of the whole.

The joint committee considering the Chicago park district pegged levy bill is to resume its sessions tomorrow night.

YANKEES BEAT ATHLETICS, 7 TO 1; MAKE TRIPLE PLAY

Doerr of Red Sox Is Beaned.

New York, April 26.—(AP)—The Yankees pounded out 13 hits today to gain a 7 to 1 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics and thereby accomplished a handsome handful of spectacular feats.

First they displaced the A's as American league leaders with a record of three triumphs and one defeat. John Broaca, who limited the losers to six hits, though he gave seven bases on balls, became the first Yankee pitcher to go the route this season.

The world champions also made the year's first triple play, the club's first three ply killing since Yankee stadium was opened fourteen years ago. In addition Broaca, the bespectacled Yale alumnus, extended the control he held over the Athletics last year, when he turned them back four times.

In the eighth with Moses on second and Bob Johnson on first, Chubby Dean drove a liner at Lazzeri. The second baseman purposely trapped the ball and flipped it to Crosetti to force Johnson at second. Crosetti's throw to Gehrig beat Dean to first, and Gehrig then whipped the ball across the diamond to Rolfe, who tagged Moses as he slid into third.

RED SOX WIN, 12-5

Boston, Mass., April 26.—(AP)—The Red Sox chased Jimmy Deshong early and pounded Ed Linke, his successor, today while overwhelming the Washington Senators, 12 to 5. Bobby Doerr, Boston's 19 year old second baseman, was hit on the side of the head by one of Linke's pitches in the fifth inning. Although the ball bounced off his skull almost into the grandstand, he did not lose consciousness.

Shortly before midnight hospital attachés reported Doerr's condition comfortable, and said he was in "no danger."

SPORT MEMORIES.

SPORTS memories of thirty years ago are conveyed to The Wake in a letter from a middle western university athlete of that period whose name was well known at the time. He asks his identity be withheld in his notebook style of narrative here reproduced:

Playing baseball with the All-College Webster City, Ia., Giants with Dixie Fleager of Northwestern, now of Hood Bay Canning company in Seattle; Tom Cole, now traveling educational expert, state of Washington; Bill Essick, still ivory hunter of the New York Yankees, and Jesse Harper, then catcher for University of Chicago. Playing from six to eight games a week, traveling from carnival to street fair about the state.

Meeting Frank Gotch, then little heard of wrestler who hit the same towns giving wrestling exhibitions in which some big fat man, picked up locally, played party of the second part. It was always necessary for Gotch to pull said fat man on top so as to lose a fall and thus create hoped-for interest.

A rat-faced chap scooting about the streets before the match trying to get bets on match or falls and getting none. He never stopped trying. Gotch lecturing and illustrating his new idea in wrestling—the later celebrated toe hold which beat Hackenschmidt at Comiskey park in a title match. It hurt just to watch it. Listening to him tell how each fall he went to University of Minnesota to teach wrestling to the football team. Can testify some of them learned a lot.

Met fat opponent in next town who asked: "Who is your foot racer?" Accusing fingers pointed. "Listen, young fella, I gotta farmer boy down here who thinks he can run a little. Whadda say we get up a match and bet a little, huh?"

"Listen, fat man, if you mean Steele whom I saw back there in a yard, you can go chase yourself. I've seen that chap beat fellows who can give me 5 yards and beat me at 100 yards." "O, so you know him? Well, maybe you could win. Want to talk?" No, there was no race.

FRENCH REMAINS CUBS' CHOICE FOR RED GAME TODAY

Derringer, No Bargain, Will Oppose Him.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Larry French, earnest Cub lefty, who has had a whole week's rest except for three pitches in St. Louis last Friday, the third of which busted up a ball game, will go back to work this afternoon at Wrigley field. Larry was to have pitched in St. Louis Sunday, but Manager Grimm changed his mind. And he was to have pitched yesterday against the Cincinnati Reds, but the weather man changed everybody's mind.

It will be the Cubs' first meeting with Cincinnati, a team that for many seasons annoyed them more than any other in the league. The Cubs always look upon the Reds as humpty-dumpties, but the Reds too frequently are unwilling to accept the nomination. They play their best baseball against the Cubs.

Face Old Annoyer.

One of the annoyingest of these perennial annoyers will pitch this afternoon. Paul Derringer had a spotty season last year, but it wasn't the Cubs' fault. He licked 'em a half dozen times. In his entire career Paul has spanked the Cubs 20 times while losing 11.

That the Cubs are Derringer's favorite touch is revealed by the fact that the Cubs are the only fellows from whom he has won more games than he's lost, excepting the Reds themselves. While a member of the Cardinals, Paul beat the Reds five out of eight games.

On the other hand, French's all time record against the Reds is within one victory of being identical with Derringer's ratio against the Cubs. Larry has won 19 and lost 11 against the Cincinnati lads.

Both Are Floundering.

The Cubs face the Reds and the second week of the season only a shade better than the Reds. The Cubs have played five games, were shut out in two of them and beaten in four. In the game they won, 13 to 12, the Cardinals had the tying and winning runs on third and second when it ended. The Reds have played four games and lost them all.

One of the points of comparison between the two floundering outfits is that they both have been shut out by Dizzy Dean. On opening day Diz whipped the Reds, 2 to 0, in ten innings, even though he allowed 13 hits. Sunday he shellacked the Cubs, 4 to 0, but took no chances on a hit harvest. He allowed only five hits.

The Reds will wind up their series here tomorrow and tomorrow night the Cubs will go to Pittsburgh for a couple of days against the Pirates, who beat them in both games of the season's opening series here. They will be back home next Saturday and Sunday for engagements with the Cardinals, after which they will leave on their first eastern trip.

Talking It Over

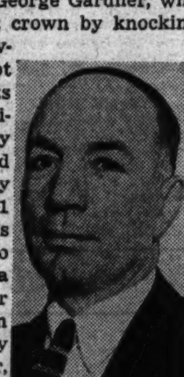
[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THIS department frequently receives inquiries as to the whereabouts of old time fighters. . . . While many, no doubt, are in want, the following items will convince you that some of the boys have done pretty well by themselves. . . . Bud Taylor, bantamweight champion in 1927, is operating a night club in Los Angeles. . . . George Gardner, who became the second man to hold the light heavyweight crown by knocking out Jack Root in 1903, conducts a tavern on Chicago's north side. . . . Root is comfortably fixed, his investments including shares in the Olympic auditorium in Los Angeles. . . . Jimmy Barry, who retired as undefeated bantamweight champion, and Harry Forbes, who held the title from 1901 to 1903, are employed in Chicago's city hall. . . . Tommy White, who claimed the featherweight crown a quarter of a century ago, is a member of the Pinkerton Detective agency in Chicago, while Roughhouse Charley Burns, old heavyweight challenger, is employed as an investigator for a loop law firm. . . .

Benny Leonard.



Benny Yanger.

Tommy Burns, who won championship recognition in 1906 following Jim Jefferies' retirement, is a manager of fighters. . . . So are Ritchie Mitchell, Sid Terris, Sammy Mandell, and Ace Hudkins. . . . Tommy Gibbons, who lasted 15 rounds with Jack Dempsey in the historic bout at Shelby, Mont., is sherif of Ramsey county, Minnesota. . . . Al Singer, who knocked out Mandell in the first round for the lightweight championship, is proprietor of a ladies' ready to wear shop in New York. . . . Among the tavern operators are Tom Heeney, who has a place in Miami; Dave Shade, Pittsfield, Mass.; Buddy Ryan, Chicago, and Mickey Walker, New York. . . . Johnny Coulon, who ruled the bantamweights from 1909 to 1914, is a boxing instructor on the south side. . . . Benny Yanger, famous as the Tipton slasher, serves in a similar capacity at the Chicago A. A. . . . Pinky Mitchell, first junior welterweight title holder, is instructor at Chicago Latin school. . . .

Johnny Kilbane is a city employé in Cleveland; Joey Sangor, a drug store proprietor in Milwaukee; Billy Petrolle, head of an ornamental iron company in Duluth, and Harry Wills, owner of two apartment buildings in New York. . . . Joe Lynch is a New York boxing judge and politician and Eddie Shea runs a cigar store on the south side. . . . Benny Leonard contributes fight articles to various newspaper syndicates and frequently serves as radio announcer at New York bouts. . . . Mushy Callahan is a boxing referee in California. . . . Joey Burman bosses a tailoring concern in the loop. . . . Rocky Kansas, from whom Sammy Mandell won the lightweight title in the first bout held in Illinois after the state legalized boxing, is a property owner in Buffalo, where his fellow townsman, Jimmy Goodrich, works as a boxing and wrestling referee. . . . Tod Morgan, who won the junior lightweight championship in 1925, is promoting boxing in Australia, and Johnny Buff, once 118 pound title holder, is a WPA worker in New Jersey. . . . Tony Canzoneri, who refuses to be classed among the has beens, runs a restaurant and bar in New York. . . .

Then, of course, there are Gene Tunney, millionaire sportsman, and Jack Dempsey, one of New York's most successful young business men. . . .

Ten Years Ago Today—Otto Borchert, 53 year old president of the Milwaukee Brewers baseball team, dropped dead at a banquet given in honor of the team. . . . George Connally won his second game in three days when the White Sox again routed the Detroit Tigers, 7 to 2. . . . Len Kenny, youthful Chicago cue artist, won the interstate three cushion billiard title by defeating Allan Hall, 42 to 32.

Master or Dub, You Are Welcome at Golf School

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Tribune's fifth annual free golf school, which will open one week from tonight on four of the Chicago park district courses, again will present a faculty of professionals whose playing experience and teaching ability have made them the strongest single unit in the United States. Not only will a number of outstanding tournament stars appear as demonstrators during the classes, but several professionals famed as instructors also will take the stand as lecturers at each class.

When the school was founded in 1933, a few members of the professional fraternity were skeptical of the attempt to acquaint thousands of beginners in golf with the fundamentals of the game. The first classes were not a week old, however, before they realized the tremendous possibilities of the new plan. They became the school's most enthusiastic supporters.

Smith Pledges Support.

Their enthusiasm has increased through the first four years of the school to a point where they have begun to ask about the school weeks before the opening announcement is made. This was notably true this year. During the Masters' tournament at Augusta, Horton Smith, twice winner of that event and leading money winner of the 1936 season, offered the services of the all-star foursome which has toured the country for nearly a year, and of which he is the director.

One of the earliest inquiries came from Alex Cunningham of North Shore, president of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association. Cunningham, one of the real veterans of the game, has promised the support of his section for the duration of the school, thus presenting all pupils with an opportunity to receive free instruction from a group of teachers who have been in golf for years.

3,000 In Already.

The average golfer's reaction to the school was proven once more last night, by which time nearly 3,000 men, women, and children had registered for the lessons at the four park courses—Jackson, Diversey in

RAIN STOPS SOX, BUT TALK ABOUT FELLER GOES ON Indian Pitcher Unworried Concerning Arm.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cleveland, O., April 26.—It rained today in the new home town of the sensational Bob Feller, so the White Sox and Indians couldn't get together as planned by the American league schedule makers. But the Feller right arm, recognized at the moment as the most valuable limb in baseball, still is hanging to the shoulder of the 18 year old Iowa phenomenon and the arm, being a subject for nation-wide discussion, is more than enough to offset any turnstile delay caused by inclement weather.

The Feller arm developed into sudden prominence last summer when he struck out seventeen Athletics. It attained additional fame during the winter when because of a complaint from a minor league magnate Commissioner Landis had to step in with a decision recognizing the Cleveland club's rights. Then the arm blew up against the Browns last Saturday in the same spectacular fashion in which it had first swept across the baseball horizon.

Feels Pain in Arm.

In the first inning of that battle the youngster felt a stab in his working limb when he threw a curve ball. Before the inning ended four runs had scored, enough to beat him. But he stuck to his task through the sixth before admitting discomfort. That was long enough for him to strike out eleven despite the handicap. Now the experts, many of whom are guilty of ballyhooing a child into a man's sized task of 20 victories or so, are deep in debate. They are writing pieces around the point that the injury either is serious or nothing. Either side may be arguing correctly.

And He's Got a Curve!

Feller has something. There can be no argument about that. Most of the items written about the lad stress his speed. They compare it with that of Walter Johnson in his prime. That's true, except for control. But nobody has talked or written much about his curve ball, and he has a curve that breaks as sharply and as quickly as a dry lath bent over a kid's knee. Maybe the men who face him, having read in the newspapers about the fast ball, don't look for the curve, hence the numerous strikeouts.

Baseball people, which means those who have been through the mill and still draw pay for what they can detect in a youngster, are just as divided as the scribes in their predictions for Feller. Some of the anti-Feller expressions from this source might easily be due to envy, caused by the fact that they didn't get the boy for their own employer. But some of them are fair. The latter argue that the Iowan will wear out in no time, just as a lot of others have done.

Puts Strain on Arm.

Feller delivers a ball by putting a terrific strain on his arm. He doesn't know how to put some of the power into his pitches by making use of his body weight. In other words, the arm does all the work. He snaps the wing with every pitch. This was noticeable last summer as soon as he attracted attention with those 17 strikeouts against the Athletics. When his arm drooped after six innings last Saturday the men who made the prediction swelled their chests. However, it doesn't mean they are right. The lad still has a lot of time, not to mention stuff, and proper tutoring will correct his present reckless use of energy.

Believes His Doctors.

Feller himself attaches no importance to his present physical state. Doctors who examined the sore spot told him there was nothing that couldn't be corrected by a few days of rest and he believes them. He's been soaking the arm in hot water and says it feels as good as when he

NOT WORRIED

Californians Find Kentucky a Chilly Place

BY FRENCH LANE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Louisville, Ky., April 26.—There is a growing feeling here that open warfare will break out between Kentucky and California any time now.

It all has to do with horse racing, big crowds at horse tracks, big betting, and fine horses. Kentucky, despite all her famed hospitality that has inspired so many poets, slapped California on the cheek this morning in a way that must bring a challenge. Otherwise all honor will be lost.

Think of it!

The Old Chill.

The Irish bred colt had traveled from San Francisco in regal style on the fastest trains. A great reception awaited him, everybody in the party expected.

But what happened?

When he poked his nose out of the express car door to breathe deeply of the air fresh from the blue grass country not a photographer was there to get his picture nor was there a reporter—not even a sob sister—on hand to interview him.

It couldn't have happened in Hollywood.

The California-Kentucky feud has been brewing ever since the Santa Anita track began operating. Santa Anita's now famous $100,000 handicap right off the reel attracted crowds and a betting volume that rivaled these Kentucky Derby items.

Last winter the betting at Santa Anita on handicap day topped the wagering at the last Kentucky Derby. That didn't soothe the situation.

That Indian Broom!

Last May California's representative in the Derby, Indian Broom, turned out to be such a tough guy at the post that he all but spoiled the race. The bumping he started caused Granville, the eventual 3 year old champion, to go to his knees and lose his rider. It further messed up Brevity, the favorite, who was bumped enough to cause him to get away in a tangle and lose the race by a nose.

That was fresh fuel on the flames. Sunset Trail II. was bought in England by the movie director last summer after he had won one race in five starts. He was taken to California late in the fall to be pointed for the Santa Anita Derby.

He didn't do so well in that $25,000 event, but, by winning a race a few days earlier, he had demonstrated that he was gradually becoming acclimated to the far west.

From Santa Anita he went to Tanforan at San Francisco. In his one start there he came from far back, made a brilliant rush in the stretch and got up in the last strides to win

STRONG SQUAD COMES OUT OF POZNAN BOUTS

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

POZNAN, Poland, April 26.—Poland today named the team of boxers which is to represent it in the European tournament at Milan, Italy, starting May 5. The champions crowned in this tournament will go to Chicago to meet the Golden Gloves team May 28.

FLYWEIGHT—Edmund Sobkowiak, Poznan.
BANTAMWEIGHT—Antonio Czortek, Graudenz.
FEATHERWEIGHT—Alexander Polus, Poznan.
LIGHTWEIGHT—Stanislaus Wozniakiewicz, Lodz.
WELTERWEIGHT—Janislaus Sipinski, Poznan, or Anthony Kolczynski, Warsaw.
MIDDLEWEIGHT—Henry Chmiedlewski, Lodz.
LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT—Franziszek Szymura, Poznan.
HEAVYWEIGHT—Stanislaus Pilat, Nowy Targ.

Sobkiwiak a Veteran.

Sobkiwiak, considered the best flyweight in Poland, was awarded his place even though he didn't compete in the national tournament. He must be exceptional if he is better than Leo Runstein of Warsaw and Leonald Pawlica of Lublin, whom we saw win semi-final bouts in the tournament at Poznan. Sobkiwiak, who is 23 years old, has been fighting for five years. Out of 100 bouts he has lost 14. He was picked by the authorities for the team not only because of his boxing ability but also because of a powerful right hand punch he carries.

The Polish public is gradually becoming interested in boxing and is hopeful of having at least one or two representatives capture European titles.

Newspaper Man Comments.

Witold Domanski, newspaper correspondent for the Czas Nowysport, discussed the Polish boxing tournament at Poznan as follow:

"Polish boxers have vastly improved in the last three years. The Chicago trip taught the boys lessons needed for improvement. The experience gained in the Olympics at Berlin last summer was invaluable. The Olympics meant little for the contestants, for they were held only 150 miles from Poznan. The boys are more enthusiastic about winning European titles, since that will mean a visit to Chicago, the mecca of Poles."

It is true that the boxers are intensely interested in the Chicago trip. They still talk Golden Gloves. All who made the previous visit to Chicago ask about Joe Louis, whom they remember meeting at the Medinah club when weighing in. They wish him luck against Jimmy Braddock.

Eager to Fight.

Domanski went on to say:

"Lack of funds for equipment is a tremendous handicap to amateur boxing in Poland. The number interested in boxing despite the handicaps, is a tribute to the organization work of officials and the boys' national pride."

The attitude of the Polish boxers seems to be that equipment and the number of spectators doesn't matter. They want fighters and two can make a fight. Only four sets of gloves were used in the national tournament. In Ireland each boxer brings his own gloves. Tenacity will yet make great boxers out of these determined Polish boys. The Chicago trip is the greatest imaginable incentive and Poland earnestly hopes the project will be continued every year.

John Kuczyk, president of the Polish boxing association for the last two years; Coach Felix Stamm, and several Polish newspaper correspondents will attend the Milan tournament. If Poland wins a championship and sends a representative to Chicago the shout of exultation will be heard from Warsaw to Lake Michigan.

AURORA STALLS FILLED FOR 19 DAY RACE MEET

Well Balanced Fields Are Assured Fans.

Dick Leigh, racing secretary of the Fox Valley Jocky club, took a last look around the Aurora racetrack yesterday, hoping to uncover a few stalls with which to accommodate late comers among the thoroughbred horse colony. His journey was without success, and today, just four days before the Chicago racing season opens, not a stall at the Fox valley plant is unoccupied or unreserved.

Leigh's present difficulties, however, mean his task of drawing up the eight race programs will be an easier one once the meeting is started. For with the thousand and one stalls jammed with horses it should not prove difficult to round up well balanced fields during the nineteen day meeting, which ends with the $12,000 added Illinois Derby on May 22.

Stables which never before have campaigned full strings at Aurora will be on hand for the opening day, featured by the $1,500 Fox Valley Inaugural handicap at 6 furlongs, entries for which close on Thursday. One of the strongest bands of 2 year olds is to be raced by Dick Vestal, former trainer for the Three D's Stock farm. Eight youngsters will race under the colors of Vestal and Hampshire.

Steward Christopher J. Fitzgerald, who will represent the state commission in the stand, is due at Aurora today, and his fellow stewards, J. T. Ireland and T. C. Bradley, will be in Chicago this week to complete the roster of officials.

That great effort won him an opportunity to try for the Derby. He is of the best Irish and English thoroughbred blood. The few curious Kentuckians who dropped around at Barn E. today to size him up, admitted he looks like a good "hawse."

The Derby colt's traveling companion was Grand Manitou, also owned by Walsh. He appears to be a better put up steed than Sunset Trail II. He will go to the post in the Clark handicap at Churchill Downs on Saturday.

George Walsh, brother of Raoul, is the trainer of the two horses. He tried movie acting for a while and was a "stand in" for Georges Carpentier when the French heavyweight champion had a part in some Hollywood productions.

He's almost a replica of Carpentier and also has the Hollywood swing to him, but declares he wants nothing of the movies as long as he has a couple of good horses to train.

M'GRATH'S HAND BETTER; WINS IN PRACTICE MATCH

MEXICO CITY, April 26.—(AP)—Australia's Davis cup stock rose today when Vivian McGrath, forced out of action Friday by recurrence of an old hand injury, returned to practice and trimmed Adrian Quist, 6-3.

McGrath said three days' rest had greatly improved the abscess-like condition of his right hand, and said he believed an operation would not be necessary. His return to practice may change the Australian lineup for the matches with Mexico starting Friday, although it seems likely Quist and Crawford will play both doubles and singles if McGrath's hand again forces him to the sidelines.

Title Event at 100 Laps to End Midget Auto Racing

CANPRA	113	5	4	5	5	5	5	J.O'Malley	4.85-1

Time, 1:58 3-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Wandrel, $6.10 straight, $2.70 place, $2.20 show; Peppery, $2.60 place, $2.20 show; Italian Harry, $3.20 show. Winner, b. m., 7, by The Wanderer-Eleusinia. Owner, Jay McNamara. Trainer same. Start good for all but Peppery. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 2:30. At post 1 minute.

WANDREL, within striking distance of the pacemakers from the start, came around PEPPERY to take command in the stretch and won going away. PEPPERY dwelt slightly at the break, went up on the outside of FAIR BILLY to take lead approaching the final bend and continued willingly, but was no match for the winner. ITALIAN HARRY was taken back off the pace of FAIR BILLY along the backstretch and closed gamely. FAIR BILLY was used up setting the pace and tired.

SECOND RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Maiden 2 year olds. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :55 4-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Battle Jack, $5.00 straight, $3.30 place, $2.60 show; Grape Thief, $9.80 place, $6.30 show; Way Out, $3.90 show. Winner, ch. c., 2, by John P. Grier-Unfurled. Owner, J. W. Y. Martin. Trainer, L. Feustel.

BATTLE JACK, favored by the start, shook off WAY OUT while setting the pace, came very wide into stretch and held sway to the end. GRAPE THIEF, racing greenly, gained sharply in the early stretch while swerving and was going well when straightened. WAY OUT showed a good effort but was tiring at end.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Three year olds and up, nonwinners of two races at any time. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, 1:14 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Dashing Doe, $3.90 straight, $3.00 place, $2.60 show; Aglow, $10.80 place, $6.40 show; Broadkill, $4.40 show. Winner, dk. b. f., 3, by Distraction-Portage. Owner, John E. Hughes. Trainer, G. Garrett.

DASHING DOE, taken back when blocked approaching the far turn, came wide into the stretch and, under a drive, won going away while bearing out during the final sixteenth. AGLOW pressed the pace of BROADKILL to the stretch and tired gradually during the final eighth. BROADKILL was rushed along while setting the pace and was tiring badly at end. HEAD HUNTER could not reach contention.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Three year old fillies. The Modesty. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Winner, ch. f., 3, by Man o' War-Regal Lady. Owner, Walter M. Jeffords. Trainer, P. M. Burch. Start good for all but Graceful Flight.

REGAL LILY, closest to the pace of COSETTE from the beginning, rallied sharply when placed to drive midway of the stretch and disposed of COSETTE to win going away. COSETTE was rushed far out soon after the break and continued willingly through the stretch. MY ELSIE faltered badly after going forwardly to the stretch.

FIFTH RACE—One mile and 70 yards. Claiming handicap for 3 year olds and up. The Laurel claiming handicap. Purse $1,200. Net value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50.

DOG CATCHERS RID STREETS OF STRAY CANINES

Campaign Removes Source of Rabies Cases.

BY BOB BECKER.

Dog catchers now are combing Chicago streets for unmuzzled, unattended dogs in an effort to reduce Chicago's roving dog population which is considered the source of practically all rabies cases. The dog catchers are working from 5 a. m. to 8 p. m. on Chicago streets.

Police Commissioner James P. Allman said yesterday that since the rabies quarantine was established in the county last summer the personnel of dog pound has been increased from 21 to 34. Trucks for picking up stray dogs now total five. So many dogs are being brought in daily that the dog pound is working at capacity.

10,587 Brought to Pound.

A total of 10,587 dogs has been brought to the pound by dog catchers so far this year according to figures released yesterday by Robert Forejt, pound master. The figures by months are as follows: January, 2,583 brought to the pound; February, 2,609; March, 2,954, and April [to date], 2,441. Very few of the dogs caught on the streets are licensed, according to Mr. Forejt. Unlicensed animals are kept just 24 hours before they are disposed of. So far this year 8,527 of these unlicensed, roving street dogs have been destroyed at the pound.

Owners Not Surprised by Drive.

Dog owners who are familiar with rabies and the way it is spread are not surprised by this drive against homeless strays and all dogs running loose on the streets. In every antirabies campaign one of the most effective methods used to control the disease is to remove roving dogs from the streets.

With Health Commissioner Herman N. Bundesen sounding a warning about the possibility of another serious outbreak of rabies among Chicago dogs, and with the dog catchers sweeping the streets of unmuzzled, roving canines, dog owners are being warned to keep their pets under control. It is advised to exercise a dog on leash and not permit it to run free on the streets at any time.

Owners Can Avoid Trouble.

City officials point out that if dog owners will coöperate during the present rabies quarantine they will not only be helping to eradicate rabies but also avoid a possible trip to the dog pound to redeem their pets which may be picked up by the dog catchers.

That the pet dog kept under control and not allowed to roam the streets at will is not a big factor in the rabies menace was stressed yesterday by Glover M. Young, president of the Cocker Spaniel Club of the Middle West.

"I know of no breeders or owners of pure bred dogs who have had a case of rabies in their kennels or homes," he said.

HIGHLAND PARK NINE LOSES TO OAK PARK, 2-0

Oak Park scored its first victory in three starts in the Suburban High School Baseball league by defeating Highland Park, 2 to 0, on the latter's diamond yesterday.

Schiller of Oak Park and Rogan of Highland Park each yielded only one hit. The runs were scored in the fifth and sixth innings.

The Evanston-Proviso and Waukegan-Morton games were postponed because of wet grounds. Score:

We've Had Meister Bräu IN CANS for 8 MONTHS

under constant test before offering it to the Public. Hence we're able to guarantee Meister Bräu to be the same in can or bottle

By RICHARD SEIBOLD, Brewmaster

YOU may think it strange when I tell you that we kept Meister Bräu in cans eight months before offering it to the public. But we wanted to satisfy ourselves that we could satisfy you.

We're just as careful in bottling and canning as in brewing. We start with a special grade of malt and hops. We pay a premium to get the finest. Then we do something that is extraordinary in brewing. We clean and wash these ingredients for your table. This removes the chaff. As a result, we don't have to boil the beer, to boil the chaff away. So we don't boil the life out of the beer.

We retain that life and sparkle with the natural draft beer carbonation created in the beer itself. Thus MEISTER BRÄU has the true draft beer flavor.

We could save time in brewing by adding sugars or syrups, but that makes a beer sweet.

We prefer to cling to old-time ways followed in this brewery since 1891. These old-time ways bring you a beer with the true old-time flavor. So many people have recognized this in Meister Bräu that it has become the fastest selling bottled beer in this great middle-western area. Now it is available in all stores where beverages are sold, in cans, in regular bottles, or in the new "Steinie" bottle.

Drink some Meister Bräu today. We think this beer, made slowly and carefully the old-time way, will win you.

DAY KNOCKS OUT BAXTER FOR 37TH CHICAGO VICTORY

Drops Ohio Fighter for Count in Second.

Davey Day, lightweight contender, scored his 37th victory in 41 Chicago bouts by knocking out Charley Baxter of Columbus, O., in the second round of a scheduled ten round contest at Marigold Gardens last night.

The match came to a sudden ending when Day drove a right to the body which dropped his opponent on all fours. Baxter protested he had been fouled, but Referee Johnny Behr refused to heed his claim. He was counted out after 2 minutes 50 seconds of the round had elapsed. Day weighed 137 pounds, Baxter 136.

Another Capacity Crowd.

The arena was packed to capacity for the ninth straight time. Official attendance was 1,633 and gross receipts $2,040.

In the five round semi-final Ray Baker, Grand Forks, N. D., lightweight, won his seventh bout in eight Chicago appearances when he beat Harry Booker.

Other results:

Al Schwartz beat Jackie Reed [4].
Bobby Fadner beat Henry Gowatch [4].
Lorenzo Lovings beat Joe Richards [4].

PACHO, SABAN DRAW.

New York, April 26.—(AP)—Bobby Pacho, veteran California Mexican, and Baby Salvy Saban, New York welterweight, drew in eight hard fought rounds at the St. Nicholas palace tonight. Pacho weighed 145, Saban 148½.

Pacho gave Saban a boxing lesson in the early rounds and landed repeatedly with short jolting shots to the head and body. Saban found it difficult to penetrate Pacho's defense until the fourth round. After the bell had ended the round, Pacho hit Saban with a left and the New Yorker retaliated with a right uppercut that dropped the Mexican.

Bees Score 9 to 5 Victory Over Dodgers

Brooklyn, N. Y., April 26.—(AP)—Although they outhit Boston, the Brooklyn Dodgers dropped a 9 to 5 decision to the Bees today as Dodger Manager Burleigh Grimes was ruled off the field for the second day in succession. Grimes was banished in the second inning by Umpire Larry Goetz, who ruled that Gene Moore had not swung at a bad pitch.

Lou Fette, who won twenty-five games for St. Paul last year, made his National league debut for the Bees, but was knocked out in the seventh. Veteran Bob Smith finished the game, though Fette gained credit for the victory. Score:

DISCONTINUATION OF RADIX TROPHY IS HIT BY P. G. A.

The Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' association, meeting last night at the Morrison hotel, went on record as disapproving the discontinuation of the Radix trophy. The trophy for the last three years has been awarded to the professional with the lowest scoring average of the year. It was discontinued recently at the request of George Jacobus, president of the National P. G. A.

Discontinuation of the Radix trophy, came as a surprise to hundreds of P. G. A. members throughout the country. It had been donated by Harry E. Radix, Chicago sportsman, upon the suggestion of Horton Smith, and definitly was understood to be a permanent trophy.

The Illinois section last night unanimously adopted a resolution presented by Lew Waldron of Mohawk, which will be forwarded to the national body. The resolution follows:

"That the national body be notified that the Illinois section goes on record as disapproving the decision to discontinue the Radix trophy."

Foul Barred in Marek-Thomas State Title Bout

The state heavyweight championship bout between Max Marek and Challenger Harry Thomas at the Coliseum tomorrow night will not be terminated by disqualification caused by low blows or other foul tactics.

This became certain yesterday when Chairman Joe Triner of the Illinois boxing commission approved the request of Nate Lewis, representative of Thomas, and Pat Kenneally, handler of Marek, that the no foul rule be placed in effect.

The contestant delivering a foul will lose the round in which the violation occurs. At the same time it was announced that the amendment empowering the commission physician to call a halt in the case of cuts which endanger the eyesight will not be waived.

Meanwhile, fans were divided over the outcome as Marek and his hard hitting rival ended hard training yesterday. Marek is a better boxer, punches oftener and carries more speed, his backers say. Thomas' followers point out that in addition to being one of the hardest hitters in the game Harry possesses superior strength.

Three supplementary encounters will bring together Bobby Bruns and George Mansor, Hans Schnabel, and Art Van Saxon, and Orville Brown, and Danny Winters.

Rudy Kay, north side heavyweight wrestler, has been signed to meet Nango Singh in a featured match at Rainbo Fronton tomorrow. Other engagements match Buck O'Neil with Danny Lentz, Ken Fenlon with Jack Conley, Jack [Bad Boy] Brown with Lefty Pacer, and Jerry Meeker with Paul Miller.

Eddie Pierce, Johannesburg middleweight boxer, has agreed to top the show at Majestic arena Friday. Johnny Barbara, promising South Bend, Ind., welterweight, will fight in a preliminary contest. . . . George King, a new promoter, and Matchmaker Sam Abruscato yesterday were granted May 18 on which to present the first of a series of outdoor boxing shows at Western stadium. . . . Joe Louis will return from Stevensville, Mich., Thursday to appear in an exhibition encounter at the Lake Shore Athletic club Friday afternoon.

Varias Milling, Los Angeles featherweight, and Billy Marquart, Winnipeg, Man., have accepted a ten round headliner at Marigold Gardens next Monday. The open air inaugural at Marigold will be held on May 24, featured by a return bout between Milt Aron and Frankie Sagilio. A lightweight elimination between Davey Day and Jimmy Garrison is planned for a special program at the north side arena June 10. . . . Chet Le Vere has been forced to refuse a $1,000 bid to fight Max Chowaniec for the third time at Milwaukee a week from tonight because of a prior agreement to battle Billy Treest at Rainbo Fronton May 7. . . . Art Oliver has signed a two year management contract with Lou Gross. The agreement was drawn by Attorney Edward Gorenstein, brother of Sam, state athletic commission gymnasium inspector.

Alberto Lovell, South American heavyweight newcomer, intends to leave for the east after his ten round bout with Maxie Rosenbloom at Los Angeles tonight. Lovell, who whipped André Lenglet in his American debut recently, will be accompanied on the trip by Bobby Evans, who directed Leo Lomski's Chicago campaign last summer. . . . Gordon Wallace, Vancouver, B. C., 147 pounder, expects to box at Toronto, May 14.

Kay, Conley Wrestle 30 Minutes to Draw

Rudy Kay and Jack Conley wrestled to a thirty minute draw last night in the White City arena. Plan $25,000 in Prizes for Jubilee Race

Cash purses totaling $25,000 were proposed yesterday by the automobile racing committee of the Charter Jubilee association for the 300 mile road race to be held in Grant park on July 17. An additional $25,000 will be spent, according to present plans, to safeguard spectators and contestants.

The committee, meeting yesterday, decided to hold the event over Columbus avenue and Leif Ericson drive between Jackson boulevard and 23d street. The cars will go south on Columbus avenue and north on the drive. Considerable money will be spent on safety at the hairpin curve at 23d street.

Thorne Donnelly was named chairman of the safety committee, which includes Harold Ames and Fred Willis of the Chicago Motor club. Willis also was named chairman of the committee on prizes, entries and rules. His associates in this group are K. K. Kenerdine and Carl Stockholm.

SCHMELING SAILS FOR U. S.; HE STILL HOPES FOR FIGHT

BERLIN, April 26. — (AP) — Max Schmeling, former heavyweight champion, and his trainer, Max Machon, sailed for New York on the Bremen tonight, confident that Schmeling's title fight with Jimmy Braddock will be held in New York June 3 despite the legal warfare going on over it in the United States.

Schmeling said: "This time I'm not carrying another offer to Braddock. Things will be all right after all."

The last time he went to America in an effort to straighten out the mixup, Schmeling carried an offer of a big guarantee for Braddock to fight him in Germany.

The former champion already has worked himself into excellent shape at his country estate at Saarow.

CHICAGO, ILLINOIS NINES MEET ON MIDWAY TODAY

In a Big Ten baseball game of considerable importance to both teams, Chicago and Illinois will meet today at Greenwood field on the Midway. Each must win to retain its rating as a title contender.

The Maroons, rained out of their scheduled encounters with Northwestern and Purdue last week, have a .500 rating on the basis of a split with Iowa. The Illini split with Ohio State in a pair of games last week.

Coach Wally Roettger of Illinois may use Ray Poat, star sophomore from Lindblom High, who limited Ohio State to two hits last Saturday, or Capt. Hale Swanson.

pitched for Max Rosenblum's semi-pros to which he had been loaned by Cleveland early last season. He'll pitch tomorrow if so requested, but his manager, Steve O'Neill, who knows pitchers as the result of years of catching, will not ask Feller to work until the end of the week and even may go beyond that before seeking proof that the present ailment is of no consequence.

O'Neill has no intention of forcing the lad even though Feller, with the usual enthusiasm of youth, might be anxious about proving he can travel the sensational route mapped out by the baseball writers. O'Neill knows that Feller is inexperienced, that he must cultivate control, that he must learn about keeping runners close to the bag, and that he must acquire the habit of gambling with less strenuous pitches until he gets into a hole. The kid will learn all this if given time, provided enthusiasm doesn't ruin his arm in the meantime.

Makes No Predictions.

In the face of all that has been said in his behalf the 182 pound, 5 foot 11¼ inch right hander makes no predictions for himself. He learned much during his first spring in a big league camp, but still seeks knowledge of the pitching art. Feller doesn't pitch to spots. He tries to blow 'em past without aiming at the batter's known weakness, and he suspects this may be the cause of his poor control.

The kid doesn't have a change of pace, which is invaluable to a pitcher no matter how good he might be otherwise. In the few big league games he has pitched he has experimented with a slow curve. He's now in his fourth season of mound work. Prior to that, starting in his 12th year, he operated at all the infield positions while a member of an American Legion junior team. He didn't want to pitch since he prefers to be in action daily, but made a definite decision when he discovered that his arm was good.

Dodges Autograph Seekers.

Today after the game had been called off Feller, accompanied by the two playing mates who live with him, went downtown. He was after a suit of clothes which, despite his modesty, he hopes will knock the home town natives on their backs when he returns to Iowa next fall. He lives, with the two pals, in a private residence on the outskirts of town. There is no telephone there. The autograph seekers and hero worshipers can't contact him when he wants to sleep.

The postponement today brought forth no changes in the original pitching plans of the two managers. It will be Thornton [Lefty] Lee, former Indian, against his last season's companions. Mel Harder will start for the Indians. James Dykes, the Sox boss, also will stick to the lineup which thus far has broken even in four games. For Wednesday's game it probably will be Monty Stratton against Johnny Allen. After that affair the Sox will go home for battles with the Browns on Thursday and Friday.

REPORT YANKEES WITHDRAW $3,000 RAISE TO RUFFING

New York, April 26.—(AP)—It was reported today that the New York Yankees had withdrawn their offered $3,000 raise to Charley Ruffing, holdout pitcher. Originally the Yanks had sent him a contract calling for $15,000. Now, it is understood, Ruffing will have to carry on any further negotiations at his 1936 salary, $12,000.

RUFFING IS SILENT.

At his home in Chicago last night, Charley Ruffing declined to comment on a report that the Yanks had withdrawn their offered $3,000 raise over his 1936 salary of $12,000.

Master or Dub, Golf School Is Open to You

Lincoln park, Columbus, and Marquette.

Joining the school is a simple matter. Merely fill out the accompanying coupon with name, address, and the course at which you plan to take the lessons, and mail it to the golf editor of THE TRIBUNE.

The school is open to any man, woman, or child desirous of learning the basic principles of golf. The first lesson will be held next Tuesday night, May 4; the second on Thursday night, May 6; the third on Tuesday night, May 11, and the fourth and last on May 13. On the morning of each lesson, instructions as to what clubs to bring and the nature of the lesson in question will be explained in detail on the sport pages of THE TRIBUNE. On the night following each lesson a résumé of the instruction will be given over radio station W-G-N by a leading professional.

Veterans Welcome, Too.

The professionals in charge have been asked to make their lessons as simple as possible, so as not to confuse the pupil who may never have swung a golf club before. Prime purpose of the classes is to acquaint the novice with such A B C's as grip, stance, and swing. The golfer who has played for a number of years is as welcome as those who have never handled a club. Reversion to the fundamentals frequently is the solution of kinks that develop in a player's game.

The finals of the school will be held on Sunday, May 16, at a course to be announced later. These will feature on 18 hole exhibition match by four leading professionals. Prior to this match the four most apt pupils of the entire school will be chosen by a jury of pros.

Discuss Caddy Affairs

Caddy chairmen and caddymasters of the Chicago District Golf association last night held their annual dinner and meeting at the association headquarters in the Hotel La Salle. Thirty-six of the 57 member clubs were represented at the meeting, which was presided over by E. A. [Barney] Dolan, chairman of the C. D. G. A. caddy committee.

The only vote taken decided that only home club caddies, rather than boys from other clubs, will work in the $10,000 Chicago open tournament which the association will conduct at Medinah on July 23, 24, and 25.

Caddy rates for the district also were discussed. It was the consensus that class B caddies should be given 85 cents an hour, and class A bag toters $1, depending upon each chairman's conference with his own board of directors.

1936 Doubles Champions Get 1,205.

New York, April 26.—[Special.]—Chicagoans completed their schedules in the American Bowling congress tournament today. They failed to displace any of the high ten leaders, but they rolled numerous totals which will qualify for prizes when the meet ends next week.

Joe Hueck, member of the Southwest Recreation, clustered strikes for games of 233—235—227 and a total of 695 in topping the day's singles competition.

WOODEN LEG CLAIM-TEST

LA PALINA Laboratory of Pseudo Pscience

Our daring researchers have splintered a rumor about wooden legs. One of our boys had asserted that La Palina Excellente 5c Cigar would turn a wooden leg into bone and sinew Prof Tipple finds the claim unsupported. "Not a single leg to stand on", he says.

"Another good idea gone up in smoke", says the distinguished Professor "But, man, what a fragrant and comforting smoke that 5c La Palina Excellente really is!"

OUR CLAIM DEPARTMENT

From newcomer to LEADER in six brief months! This proves that the new La Palina 5¢ Excellente has set a completely NEW STANDARD of cigar value. Enjoy it today!

INVESTORS' GUIDE

[Copyright: 1937: By The Chicago Tribune.]

United States Leather.

Investors' Guide: Kindly send us information regarding United States Leather common stock.—B. M. G.

Answer: Largest domestic tanner of sole and heavy lether, the United States Leather company produces about one-fifth of this country's requirements in those lines. Its principal customers are shoe manufacturers and sole lether cutters. By-products include glue.

Lumber is another by-product, extensive stands of timber having been acquired in Pennsylvania and neighboring states to provide bark for tanning.

For some years the management has been trying to improve the company's position by disposing of excess properties and concentrating operation in best situated plants.

Funds obtained from sale of property have been used to retire the 7 per cent $100 par prior preferred stock by purchases in the market. Of the 166,496 shares originally outstanding, only 72,705 remained on Oct. 31, 1935, and the amount was further cut to 65,000 shares on Jan. 31, 1937.

Other capitalization consists of 249,743 shares of class A convertible stock, entitled to noncumulative dividends of $4 a share, and 397,010 shares of no par common stock.

Higher lether prices and increased demand from shoe manufacturers has materially improved the company's position in the last two years. Net income in the three months ended Jan. 31, 1937, was $261,000 or $4.01 per prior preferred share and 59 cents a share on the A stock, compared with $274,000 in the corresponding period a year earlier, equal to $3.82 per prior preferred share then outstanding.

Net income was $407,000 or $6.27 per prior preferred share in the fiscal year ended Oct. 31, 1936, compared with $314,000 or $4.31 a share the preceding year.

Loss of $1,911,000 was reported in the 1934 year, largely because of inventory writedown after decline of hide prices in the wake of government slaughter of drought cattle. A profit of $981,000 was reported in the 10 months ended Oct. 31, 1933, when rising hide prices produced inventory profit. Losses of $7,750,000 occurred in the preceding four years.

Dividends on the prior preferred were omitted from 1933 until payment of $4 in December, 1936. Payment of $1.75 on April 1, 1937, left arrears at $22 a share. Nothing ever has been paid on the common, and nothing has been paid on the class A since 1929.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

Milkweed Has Its Day

April 26, 1937.

MILKWEED, a field pest that has always been despised by farmers, is to play a new rôle. So far as is known, the Tribune's experimental farm near Wheaton will be the first to attempt to grow milkweed on a commercial scale. Roots of the weeds are to be started soon.

The farm manager has difficulty in convincing most veteran farmers, who have visited the place this spring, that he is serious when he tells them that he will try to grow milkweed as a commercial crop. Farmers generally look upon the milkweed as a nuisance, a fertility consuming old plant. They have been trying to eradicate it along with other noxious weeds.

But they change their mind when given some facts about new discoveries—findings that may soon take the milkweed out of the pest class and place it alongside other cash crops such as grain and cotton.

A Modest Start.

A start in growing milkweed will be made this year on a modest scale. The 1937 cropping plans call for one acre of milkweeds. The manager has been out recently searching northern Illinois and northern Indiana for a rich wild bed of roots. Milkweed seed are not available on the market.

As soon as a bed of milkweeds can be found a crew of workers will be sent to dig them up and haul them to the farm, where they will be set out by hand and nursed along as any other field crop.

The pods of milkweed contain a fluffy silklike fiber and seeds. The pods will be cut off by hand before they open and set free the silk and seed that are easily scattered by the winds.

Will Use All Parts.

When fully matured the remaining part of the plant will be cut, cured and shocked. Every part of the plant, including the pods, will be utilized in commercial processing tests. Various products will be made and sold on the market. In the milkweed chemists have discovered many different products now in demand. These products include pure rubber, varnish gum, resin, wax, chlorophyl, soap stock, oil, oil cake, long fiber, short fiber, milkweed silk, and fiber for cellulose.

It has been estimated that 10,000 pounds of milkweed plants can be grown on an acre of land. This amount of material will yield products worth nearly $800, according to calculations based on recent prices. The products are now imported.

VAN SWERINGEN EMPIRE SOLD TO EASTERN GROUP

Control Given Up by George A. Ball.

New York, April 26.—(AP)—A Pennsylvania philanthropist and two New York investment bankers—all in their forties and heretofore comparatively unknown in powerful financial circles—today purchased the controlling block of securities in the 3 billion dollar Van Sweringen railroad empire.

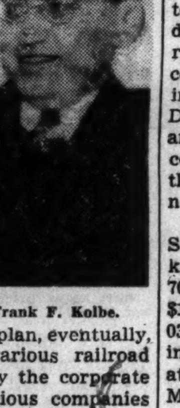
Allan P. Kirby.
[Associated Press Photo.]

The three are Allan P. Kirby of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., son of one of the founders of the Woolworth chain and in the past chiefly interested in the Kirby family philanthropies, and Robert R. Young and Frank F. Kolbe of the stock exchange firm of Young, Kolbe & Son, both former employés of General Motors corporation.

Ball Discloses Sale.

The purchase was announced by George A. Ball, Muncie, Ind., glass jar manufacturer, on behalf of the George and Francis Ball foundation—philanthropic institution to which the slight, silver haired Indiana capitalist transferred the controlling stock of Midamerica corporation, top Van Sweringen Holding company, a month ago. When Ball early in April transferred the holdings to the Ball foundation, it was explained the securities would not be subject to income taxes. Ball would have to pay on a personal scale.

Ball, together with the three purchasers, made the announcement at his suite at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel, where today he met Kirby for the first time.



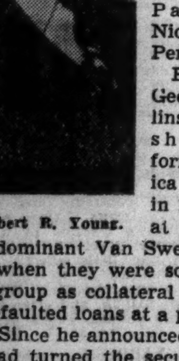
Frank F. Kolbe.

The purchase price was not disclosed, but Wall street analysts have figured the current market value of these securities dominating the various interlocking companies, at around $8,000,000.

Kolbe, who is 40 years old and a former General Motors official, explained it was their plan, eventually, to consolidate the various railroad properties and simplify the corporate structures of the various companies "without detriment to the hundreds of thousands of people directly and financially interested in the profitable operation of the Van Sweringen railroad enterprises to whom we are responsible."

Use Their Own Money.

"The money we have put into these properties is our own money, we have no special obligations to any shippers, to any banking house, or to any group."



Robert R. Young.

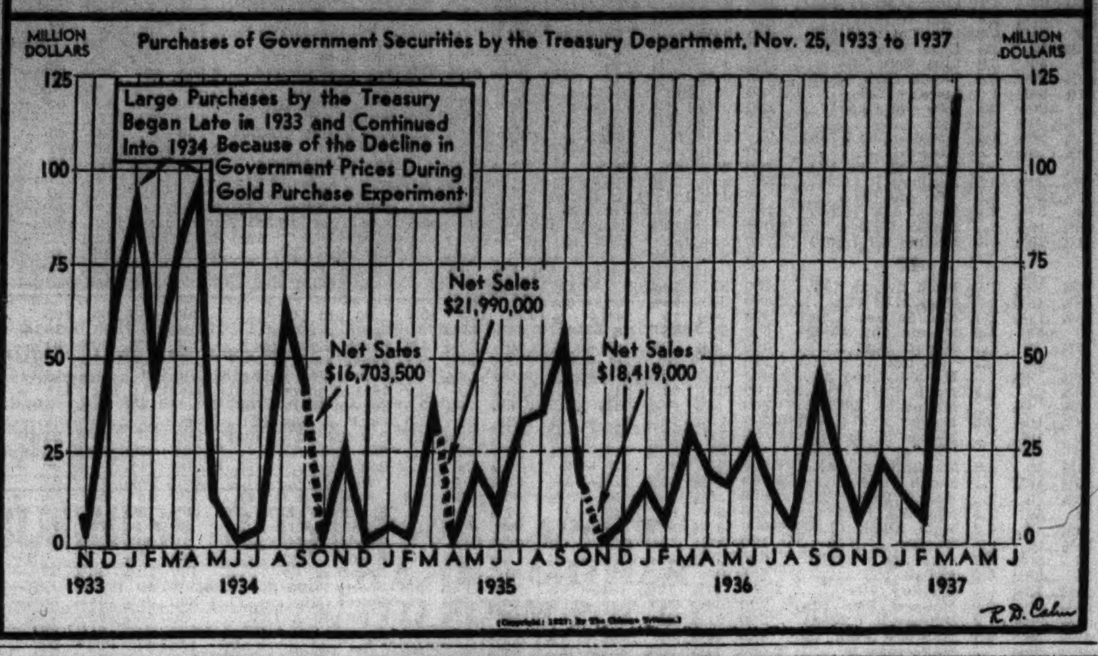
Principal railroads in the network are the Chesapeake and Ohio, Missouri Pacific, Erie, Nickel Plate, and Pere Marquette.

Ball, with George A. Tomlinson, Cleveland shipping man, formed Midamerica corporation in 1935, to bid in at public auction the dominant Van Sweringen securities when they were sold by a banking group as collateral for $40,000,000 in defaulted loans at a price of $3,121,000. Since he announced a month ago he had turned the securities over to a charitable foundation Wall street and railroad financing circles have been buzzing with rumors of possible purchasers.

One group entering into the Young-Kolbe negotiations was headed by Donaldson Brown, General Motors finance chairman, but after a visit to Washington, where he discussed the situation with Senator Wheeler [D., Mont.], who has been investigating railroad financing, it was announced his group had withdrawn.

Senate Study Group to Act.

Washington, D. C., April 26.—(AP)—Chairman Wheeler [D., Mont.] said today the senate committee investigating rail financing would study the sale of securities controling the vast Van Sweringen rail empire.



Gen'l Motors Quarter Profit Cut by Strikes

General Motors corporation—world's largest automobile company—announced yesterday that first quarter earnings showed a sharp decline from the corresponding period of 1936 as a result of the sitdown strike in its plants. The company also disclosed that it is establishing a new division to manufacture Diesel engines.

Net earnings for the first quarter applicable to the common stock totaled $44,814,166, equal to 99 cents a share, compared with $52,464,174, or $1.17 a share in the first quarter of 1936. Net sales in the first quarter totaled $336,849,901, against $341,306,065 in the first quarter of 1936.

Decline Held to 15 Per Cent.

"It will be recognized by all," said Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president, "that operating results for the quarter were importantly affected by the almost complete stoppage of manufacturing for nearly half the period. That being the case it is interesting to observe that the organization was able to control expenses and to resume manufacturing when permitted to do so, with the result that the decline in earnings was limited to a reduction of approximately 15 per cent, compared with the corresponding quarter of the previous year. Dollar sales were substantially equal and the output of motor cars—the corporation's principal product—for the month of March established a new record for all time."

The company had cash, United States government, and other marketable securities totaling $222,715,706 on March 31, 1937, compared with $195,658,172 Dec. 31, 1936, and $218,034,223 on March 31, 1936. Net working capital increased from $339,686,551 at the end of 1936 to $378,294,268 on March 31, 1937.

Create New Diesel Division.

Sloan said a new division will be created to be known as the Diesel engine division of General Motors corporation. The corporation has purchased 75 acres of ground at Detroit on which it will start immediately the construction of a plant in which will be manufactured a line of Winton Diesel engines, ranging from a 20 horse power, single cylinder unit, up to a 160 horse power, six cylinder unit.

"Single units are designed for stationary use only," Sloan said, "whereas multi-cylinder units are adaptable to marine, stationary, or commercial vehicle use."

U. S. GETS MORE GOLD; FOREIGN MONEYS FIRMER

Additional gold imports and engagements were reported yesterday, and leading foreign currencies rallied against the dollar. Another $2,136,000 in gold was engaged in England for shipment to the United States and $1,143,000 in gold arrived at New York from England, besides $381,200 from India.

The British pound sterling rose 11-16 cent against the dollar in trading at New York, while French francs improved 0.00⅛ of a cent, and Swiss francs gained 0.01½ of a cent.

The treasury department announced yesterday that the inactive gold fund on April 23 stood at $529,148,635, an increase of $275,000 over the preceding day.

Reports received at the department of commerce indicated that incoming gold was being used to build up bank balances, rather than for the purchase of American securities, as occurred in the last quarter of 1936.

BRITAIN WILL OFFER FIRST DEFENSE BONDS DESPITE STOCK CRASH

[Copyright: 1937: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 26.—Undeterred by another collapse on the stock exchange which today lopped more than £200,000,000 from the listed value of speculative shares, Sir Austen Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, announced the flotation on Thursday of a short to medium term defense loan of £100,000,000 [about 500 million dollars.]

The loan will be the first instalment of £400,000,000 [about 2 billion dollars] which the government has been authorized to borrow for rearmament in the next five years. Great Britain's total national defense program calls for an outlay of $7,500,000,000.

The bonds will be 2½ per cent and will be sold at one-half of 1 per cent below par. They will be redeemable before the end of 1948 in annual drawings at par of not less than 20 per cent of the amount of the loan, the first drawings to be in the autumn of 1944.

Despite the low rate of interest and the widespread pessimism in security markets at the moment, there is every prospect the loan will be oversubscribed, chiefly by banks, insurance companies and other so-called "institutional" investors, upon whom the government relies.

Stock exchange speculators suffered so heavily today that many of them will not be able to subscribe for the new bonds.

7 MORE CLOSED BANKS MAY MAKE 5 PCT. PAYMENTS

Seven more closed Cook county banks may soon make 5 per cent repayments to depositors, it was indicated in a quarterly report issued yesterday by State Auditor Edward J. Barrett. The report showed the First Englewood State bank made a 10 per cent repayment last quarter and the Forest Park Trust and Savings bank 5 per cent.

The banks expected to make repayments are: Depositors State, Des Plaines State, Elston State, Equitable Trust company, First Italian State, First State of Barrington, and the Glencoe State.

Individual reports, together with best available estimates of the ultimate liquidation of 60 defunct Cook county state banks, will be published in the Metropolitan section of next Sunday's TRIBUNE.

Wilson-Jones Votes Split in Stock, Two for One

Boston, Mass., April 26.—(AP)—George Peabody Gardner Jr., chairman of the Wilson-Jones company of Chicago, manufacturing stationers, announced today a stockholders' meeting had voted unanimously to split the outstanding common stock in the ratio of two shares to one. Net income for the six months ended in February was $3.22 per share, compared with $1.95 in the same period the year before, he said.

Raises Estimate on Auto Sales in March to 365,000

R. L. Polk & Co. has raised its estimate of new passenger automobile sales for March to 365,000 units. The early estimate was for sales of 343,000 units. The new estimate is 23.78 per cent above sales for March, 1936.

Stockholders of The Fair will hold their annual meeting here at 10 o'clock this morning.

Sears' Profit Shows Gain in First Quarter

The tide of earnings for industry during 1937 rose sharply yesterday as Sears, Roebuck & Co., North American company and Consolidated Edison company of New York were among the many concerns reporting considerable gains. At the same time the Cities Service company reported that 1936 earnings were the largest since 1931.

Gen. Robert E. Wood, president of Sears, told stockholders at the annual meeting in New York yesterday that net earnings for the twelve weeks ended April 25 amounted to about $6,800,000, compared with $4,700,000 in the corresponding period of last year.

Sales volume during the period, he said, was 19 per cent ahead of a year ago, with April results about the same as those for March.

Discusses Earnings Outlook.

Wood said he doubted whether the remainder of the year would show the same 45 per cent gain in profits realized in the first twelve weeks, although improvement of profits was in prospect.

There is no need for further financing this year, in his opinion. However, the increase in business and particularly in instalment sales will govern the possibility of some financing ultimately, he said.

Wood asserted the company was free from labor troubles, although some demands had been made at Minneapolis. All directors were reelected and the regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents uas declared.

North American company earned $16,242,135, or $1.89 a common share, in the twelve months ended March 31, James F. Fogarty, president, told stockholders meeting in New York. This was a gain of more than 30 per cent over earnings for the preceding twelve months, he said.

Consolidated Edison Report.

Another utility company, Consolidated Edison of New York, reported consolidated net profit for the March quarter of $14,443,355, or $1.03 a common share, against $12,756,872, or 88 cents a common share, in the first quarter of 1936. In the twelve months ended March 31, last, net income of $37,291,392, or $2.33 a common share, compared with $30,078,017, or $1.70 a share, in the preceding twelve months.

Associated Gas & Electric company and subsidiaries reported for the twelve months ended March 31 net income of $36,204,025 after taxes and depreciation but before interest and preferred dividends of underlying companies. This compared with $33,451,431 for the preceding twelve months.

Cities Service Earns Dividend.

In 1936 Cities Service company and subsidiaries had net income of $6,965,000, marking the first time since the suspension of dividends in 1932 that dividend requirements were earned on the preferred stocks of the company, on which accumulated dividends amount to $29,069,923 on the $6 preferred, $6 preference BB and 60 cent preference B.

Earnings for 1936 were equal to slightly more than 1 cent a share on the common, after allowance for preferred dividends, and compared with $5,856,265, or $5.50 a share on the $6 preferred, in 1935.

The improvement was distributed among all three major branches of the business—petroleum, electric, and gas operations. Sales of natural gas, electricity and refined petroleum prod-

U.S. STEEL DROPS COMPANY UNION DUE TO NEW ACT

Employes and Labor Board Notified.

Employé representation plans—called by labor leaders "company unions"—were discontinued yesterday by the operating subsidiaries of the United States Steel corporation, which formally notified the National Labor Relations board at Washington of their action. The move of U. S. Steel followed that of the International Harvester company, which last Wednesday dropped its plan, which had been in operation for 18 years.

The action of the U. S. Steel subsidiaries was caused by the recent decision of the United States Supreme court upholding the Wagner labor act.

Employés Are Notified.

Led by the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, largest subsidiary of U. S. steel, the various subsidiary companies sent identical letters to their employés notifying them that they will no longer recognize the employés' representation as it has hitherto existed, and they informed the employé representatives that the companies will no longer recognize them as spokesmen for the employés.

The letter sent by Benjamin F. Fairless, president of Carnegie-Illinois, to the 120,000 workers of his company was typical of the others sent workers of the other subsidiaries.

Fairless Explains Situation.

Fairless informed employés that Carnegie-Illinois "will discontinue any financial contribution to the plans; will not furnish any facilities for the election or other activities of the employés or employé representatives under the plans and will not furnish any stenographic or other office service facilities for the activities of the employés or representatives under the plans."

The action by the U. S. Steel subsidiaries is expected to result in the dropping of the complaint brought against Carnegie-Illinois by the steel workers' committee—an affiliate of the Committee for Industrial Organization—which alleged that the employé representation plan violated the Wagner act.

Plan Set Up Under NRA.

The employé representation plan of Carnegie-Illinois was set up at the time of the NRA and thus has been in operation for only about three years. At the headquarters of the company here it was stated that Carnegie-Illinois will deal with any group of employés in company matters, whether affiliated with the C. I. O. or not. But the company will not play any part in the organization of the employés.

Other subsidiaries of U. S. Steel which sent similar notifications to workers yesterday included the American Steel and Wire company, the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad company, and the Columbia Steel company.

STEEL OUTPUT EXPECTED TO BE BEST ON RECORD

Steel ingot production this week is scheduled at 92.3 per cent of capacity, the American Iron and Steel institute estimated yesterday. At this rate output of ingots this week will total 1,209,000 tons, against an estimated 1,196,000 tons last week and the previous record weekly output of 1,193,000 tons in May, 1929.

A week ago the rate of operation was 91.3 per cent, and a month ago it was 90.7 per cent. In the corresponding week of last year the indicated rate was 71.2, and in 1935 it was 43.1 per cent.

Operations in the Chicago district this week are scheduled at 84.5 per cent, a gain of 2.5 points over last week, when the indicated rate was 82 per cent of capacity.

Several Roads Show Gains in Car Loadings Last Week

Railroad freight car loadings reported yesterday by several roads for last week were above the loadings of the preceding week, with the exception of the Baltimore & Ohio, which reported a slight decline. All roads reported substantial gains over the corresponding week a year ago. Reports made yesterday with comparisons follow:

President Bans Speculating by U. S. Employes

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 26.—The White House today declined to explain the reasons impelling the President to crack down on security and commodity speculation by government officials and employés, which he did in a letter to the civil service commission.

H. B. Mitchell.

The President's "mysterious" move, however, served to give fresh momentum to the gossip current in Washington for several months that certain higherups in the New Deal hierarchy have been cashing in handsomely on stock market speculations based on "inside tips" of White House moves likely to send stocks up or down.

"Nod of Head" Breaks Market.

Because of the vast concentration of business regulation in Washington that has taken place under the New Deal and because of the large measure of autocratic power that has been delegated to the President, Mr. Roosevelt makes decisions almost daily that vitally affect vast areas of private enterprise with consequential influence on prices.

Often a mere chance remark dropped by the President, or a nod of the Rooseveltian head, has been sufficient to put stock quotations up or down—generally down. Barely a fortnight ago his passing remark that steel and copper prices were too high sent prices tumbling generally on the stock and commodity exchanges. Only last Friday the Roosevelt move to convict Andrew Mellon's Aluminum Company of America of being an illegal monopoly sent that company's stock down $7 a share on the curb exchange.

Valuable to Insiders.

Any one who was in a position to know that these moves were to be made could have made a "killing" in the stock market by selling stocks short. According to the rumors afloat in Washington certain New Deal "insiders" have been profiting in precisely this manner.

It was conjectured by some that the President took his unusual action today in an effort to clean the New Deal house of practices that would create a tremendous scandal if they should be exposed.

It was without comment or explanation that the White House made public the letter the President addressed to Harry B. Mitchell, president of the civil service commission, under date of April 22.

Text of Letter.

The letter follows:

"I believe it to be a sound policy of the government that no officer or employé shall participate directly or indirectly in any transaction concerning the purchase or sale of corporate stocks or bonds, or of commodities for speculative purposes, as distinguished from bona fide investment purposes. Engagement in such speculative activities by any officer or employé, whether under the competitive civil service or not, should be among the matters considered by the heads of departments and establishments, and by the commission in passing upon questions concerning his qualifications for retention or advancement.

"I would appreciate it if you take steps to make this known throughout the government service."

Mitchell said he did not know the occasion for the President's step.

SANTA FE TO PUT 'SUPER CHIEF' IN SERVICE MAY 18

The new streamlined stainless steel Super Chief of the Santa Fe railroad will be placed in regular 39 hour and 45 minute service between Chicago and Los Angeles on May 18, the road announced yesterday. It will be on exhibition at the Dearborn station today and tomorrow from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m.

STOCKS AND COMMODITIES PLUNGE IN WORLD TRADE

Grains Lead Decline of Staples on Selling Wave.

Commodity prices plunged throughout the world yesterday as wave after wave of liquidation swept into the markets. Grains led the decline, with rubber, metals, and cotton following closely behind.

The reaction started abroad but quickly spread to North American exchanges. Nearly every commodity suffered losses and many closing prices were the lowest of the day.

On the Chicago Board of Trade wheat and rye fell as much as 5 cents a bushel, while soy beans dropped 4 cents, the maximum permitted for one trading session. Corn lost 2¾ cents and oats fell 1⅛ cents. The decline in wheat was paced by the Winnipeg market, where futures also broke the full 5 cent limit. Wheat in Liverpool fell more than 4 cents a bushel.

Rubber and Cotton Drop.

Rubber futures crashed 0.91 to 1.111 cents a pound in heavy trading, with rubber for delivery in May down to 22.15 cents. Cotton sold off as much as $1.35 a bale, and export copper declined more than ½ cent per pound.

Copper futures in New York dipped about ¼ cent. Trading was very active and copper for delivery in May closed at 12.57 cents a pound. Sales totaled 116 lots of 56,000 pounds each. Domestic copper was unchanged at 14½ cents a pound.

Tin futures fell 1.50 to nearly 2 cents a pound and tin for immediate delivery touched 55.375 cents. Lead and zinc for immediate delivery were unchanged, but lead futures dipped more than ¼ cent a pound and zinc futures closed irregular, 0.02 cent lower to 0.05 cent higher.

Hides and Cocoa Lower.

Hides were off nearly ½ cent a pound. Trading was active and hides for delivery in June closed at 16.40 cents a pound. Losses in cocoa were about ¼ cent a pound. Cocoa for delivery in May closed at 9.21 cents a pound.

Coffee contracts declined from ⅛ to nearly ¼ cent a pound. Silk closed 1½ cents to 3 cents a pound lower. Silver futures in Montreal closed irregular, 0.10 cent an ounce up to 0.13 cent lower.

Among the few commodities to show better prices were foreign silver in New York, up ⅛ cent an ounce, and world contract sugar futures in New York, also up fractionally. Quota sugar futures contracts declined.

May Grain Deliveries Fall.

The May deliveries in grains showed the greatest weakness, due in part to steady selling by speculators who were disposing of their holdings prior to May, when they might be called upon to pay for cash grain delivered on future contracts.

At the low point yesterday May wheat futures were 11⅛s cents a bushel under the high of last week, while May corn was off 7½ cents and May soy beans were 10¾ cents a bushel lower.

The price of July wheat at Kansas City fell to $1.11⅜, a figure which would net farmers less than $1 a bushel for the new wheat crop in the southwest.

Securities Break as Foreigners Dump U. S. Holdings.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 26.—Battered by an almost continuous wave of selling, stock prices foundered today with losses running from $1 to $12 a share. No group was spared, and steels, motors, rails, oils, utilities, chemicals, and farm equipments received severe shake-outs. Of the 925 issues traded only forty advanced; 813 declined and seventy-two were unchanged.

Although volume was not exceedingly large, totaling 2,020,810 shares, the ticker ran behind several times during the day, particularly in the closing minutes of trading. The decline was sharpest for any single day since Aug. 21, 1936. The break sent the averages to the lowest levels since last November.

Cause of Downturn.

Various reasons were advanced for the decline, most prominent being that foreign accounts were dumping "international" stocks such as steel, motors, oils, and other industrial leaders induced by the fact that British authorities, in line with President Roosevelt's warning about hot money, were cracking down on large scale investments in American markets. It was believed this dumping set off frightened selling for domestic account, including some long term holdings.

Despite favorable domestic news, such as good earnings reports and another official denial that President Roosevelt was planning any change in the gold price, financial circles were jittery over the possibility of prolonged negotiations over the threatened railroad labor strike and reports of a new flood menace in the Pittsburgh area, which would result in closed steel mills and a cut in freight loadings.

Large Blocks Are Moved.

At the opening large blocks of industrial leaders came out at a fast clip at lower prices. International Nickel dropped 3⅛ on 2,300 shares; Chrysler dipped about 1 point; United States Steel slumped 1⅜ on 2,000 shares, and Texas corporation was off 1⅜ on the same sized block. Anaconda and Kennecott opened 2 points lower each.

The trend of large blocks and sharp breaks continued through most of the day, although around noon activity slowed down somewhat. However, the midday lull was short lived and a final rush hit the market in the closing minutes, driving prices still lower.

U. S. Steel broke the most among old line leaders, dropping 5¼. Sloss-Sheffield slumped 12½. Bethlehem was close behind, giving up 4⅜ points. Crucible dropped around 5, Republic lost 2¼, and National Steel a similar amount.

Following a decline in the metal in London, coppers were hard hit. Phelps, Anaconda, Kennecott, and Cerro de Pasco gave up 3 to 4 points. Other base metal shares also turned weak, including American Smelting, off 4¼.

Rail Issues Weak.

In the rails, New York Central dropped 1⅞ points on an 8,000 block initial sale, and continued weak to close 3⅛ points lower. Western rails were equally weak in the face of improved earnings reports. Atchison dropped 3, Union Pacific was off 1½, Southern Pacific lost 4⅜, Illinois Central slumped 1⅞, and Southern railway dropped 2½.

Farm equipment stock prices were shattered. Case dropped 9 points, Deere lost 6, Oliver Farm Equipment sagged 3¾, and Allis-Chalmers slumped 2. Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward, dropping about 2 points each, led the mail order group downward.

A Needed Service For Bond Buyers
regardless of location or amount of funds
• Due to conditions restricting widespread offering of investment bonds... principally reduced new capital issues and restricted profit margins... investors who purchase bonds occasionally and in moderate amounts have experienced much reduced contact with markets and sources of information.
• This condition has prevailed generally in recent years... not only in large centers, but to a greater extent in smaller places. It deprives many investors of needed service.
• Seeking to extend service to bond investors, more widely, regardless of location or amount of funds, we have devised a plan with distinct merits of simplicity and convenience... affording opportunity to study information leisurely, freedom from personal solicitation, and direct contact with our main office facilities.
• Our new booklet describes this plan in detail. It will be sent upon request, without obligation. Simply write for booklet CT-48.

Stocks, Bonds

New York Bonds.

New York, April 26.—(AP)—Speculative and lower rated issues felt the whip of bearish sentiment in the bond market today while government and high grade corporate loans offered stiff resistance.

Losses were most pronounced in the rail section, although numerous industrial and utility obligations recoiled sharply. Traders said the accelerated downward movement reflected the retreat of listed stocks which, in turn, was attributed to persistent rumors of a gold announcement by the White House. These were officially denied in the afternoon, but the disclaimer had little visible effect marketwise.

United States government bonds held to narrow ranges and, although the majority slipped a bit lower, several closed to the good. Losses ranged to 9-32 of a point. Gains were even narrower.

Chicago Stocks.

Eighty per cent of the stocks traded on the Chicago Stock exchange emerged with losses yesterday. Declines amounted to as much as 3¾ points. Trading was only moderate, however, at 53,000 shares.

Heaviest losses were 2¼ in Borg-Warner, 2½ in Central Illinois Public Service preferred, 3¾ in Chicago Flexible Shaft, 1½ in Gardner-Denver, 2 in Ken-Rad Tube, 2½ in Lion Oil, 2¾ in Rollins Hosiery preferred, 3¼ in Signode Steel, and 1¾ in Zenith Radio. Most active trading was in Chicago corporation common, which closed off ⅛ at a new low for the year at 4¾.

Bank Stocks.

Chicago bank stocks incurred substantial losses yesterday. First National dropped $10 to $11 a share; Continental Illinois, $7 to $8; Harris Trust and Northern Trust, $10 to $15 each; Lake Shore Trust and Savings, $5, and Chicago Title and Trust, $1 to $2. National Builders was unchanged to $5 higher.

Commodities

Live Stock.

Cattle and lambs declined sharply yesterday while a mild rally occurred in hogs. Heavy supplies in both branches offset another upturn in wholesale beef and lamb prices.

Buyers obtained most of the supply of steers at prices 25 to 40 cents below last week. The best full loads of steers on the market topped at $15.50, with the bulk ranging from $9 to $12.50.

Slaughter lambs suffered the sharpest setback in four weeks. Prices fell 35 to 50 cents under last week's close. The day's top at $12.65 showed a 45 cent loss and was lowest since April 9.

Butter and Eggs.

All deliveries of eggs dipped early yesterday to new lows for the season on the mercantile exchange as the result of selling induced by continued heavy receipts and a liberal into storage movement. Short covering caused a rally with the close unchanged to ⅛ cent lower, October selling at 24½ cents a dozen. The price of eggs in the cash market declined ¼ to ½ cent. Receipts of 44,846 cases were the largest single day's arrivals of the season. Sales of futures were 178 cars.

April butter closed ⅝ cent higher yesterday at 31⅛ cents a pound reflecting a firm spot market and a net out of storage movement for the day. November closed unchanged at 31¼ cents a pound. Sales were 16 cars. Potatoes closed 10 to 15 cents higher with May at $2.50 per 100 pounds. Sales, 17 cars. Range of prices on futures follow:

Cotton.

General liquidation developed in cotton futures yesterday with prices declining more than .30 cent a pound or $1.50 a bale at the extreme to a new low level on the current downturn. Weakness in Liverpool and uncertainty regarding the gold price were the bearish influences. Closing trades on futures in Chicago were at net losses of .16 to .28 cent. Other American markets declined .19 to .27 cent a pound.

Crop reports from the south were generally favorable, and rapid progress was reported in planting. Spot cotton closed .20 to .25 cent lower with New Orleans, 13.35 cents; New York, 13.60 cents and Galveston and Houston at $13.25 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound follow:

Sugar.

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—SUGAR—Raw was unchanged today. Futures were irregular. After showing early steadiness the market reacted under increased liquidation and foreign selling encouraged by the weakness of other commodities. No. 4 was the more active and showed early advances of 3 to 4½ points on covering and new outside buying, but lost half of it in later trading and closed 1 to 2½ points net higher. Sales, 27,550 tons. The No. 3 sold up 2 points early on the more active positions on trade covering, but lost it all later under hedge selling and liquidation and closed unchanged to 1 point lower. Sales, 7,000 tons.

Coffee.

NEW YORK, April 26.—(AP)—COFFEE—Futures closed easy today under selling induced by cables from Brazil interpreted as presaging lower prices on Brazilian grades. Santos futures opened 1 point higher to 9 points lower, and closed 1 to 19 points lower. Sales were 46,000 bags. The No. 7 opened 6 points lower to 2 points higher, and closed 4 to 17 points lower on sales of 38,000 bags. Spot market quiet: Santos 4s, 11⅛c per lb; Rio 7s, 9c. Lard.

Weakness in grains and commodity markets in general led to further liquidation by holders of lard contracts and prices dropped 7½ to 17½ cents. Prices at the extreme were within a fraction of a cent a pound of the lowest level of the season. Strength in hogs had little effect. Clear bellies [salt pork] closed 10 to 12½ cents lower. Cash lard was quoted at $11.40; loose, $10.80; leaf, $10.75, and clear bellies at $16.12½ per 100 pounds. Prices per 100 pounds follow:

INSURANCE MEN ASSAIL, DEFEND LONDON LLOYDS

Bitter Arguments Mark Chicago Meeting.

Lloyds of London—noted British insurance organization—was the subject of a warm discussion among insurance men yesterday at a meeting of the Agricultural club at the Hotel La Salle. The meeting was arranged to explain what the status of London Lloyd's will be under the new Illinois insurance code which has been approved by the state senate and is pending before the house.

Under the new code, London Lloyd's will be required to deposit cash or securities in the state, or within the United States, equal to ten times the amount of the largest insurance coverage.

Take Opposing Stand.

Roger Bronson of Fred S. James & Co., Robert L. Muckley, an insurance broker, and C. H. G. Heinfelden, Lord, Lloyd & Bissel, attorneys, maintained that buyers of insurance in Illinois would be penalized by the withdrawal of competition furnished by London Lloyd's. Thomas Keane, chairman of the Illinois senate insurance committee; Roy L. Davis, assistant director of insurance, and Allan Wolf, an agent, defended the imposition of restrictions on London Lloyd's.

Muckley said buyers of insurance will be the chief sufferers if Lloyd's are driven out. He asserted the competition of the London group is needed to keep the eastern companies in line.

"When you present a risk to Lloyd's," he said, "you are talking to an individual underwriter who is ready to see your side of the question and your need for protection.

Assails Eastern Domination.

"On the other hand when you present the same risk to underwriters of other companies, you are talking to a man whose company belongs to one of several bureaus whose forms and rates are dictated by a group of men in New York who believe that no one west of the Hudson river has the brains to deal with insurance problems."

Keane and Davis both insisted that London Lloyd's would be able to write such insurance as no American companies and said they held that the Americans should not have to meet the competition of foreigners.

Keane said he had never been able to get a clear statement as to the financial stability of the individuals making up London Lloyd's. Heinfelden replied that the record of London Lloyd's in paying $65,000,000 in claims for the burning of Smyrna, $13,000,000 for the burning of San Francisco, and more recently $3,500,000 for the Chicago stockyards fire answered any question as to their financial position.

KABLE BROTHERS PLAN CHANGE IN CAPITALIZATION

Mount Morris, Ill., April 26.—[Special.]—Stockholders of the Kable Brothers company, magazine publishers, will vote here at a special meeting May 3 on a proposed change in the capital structure of the company.

It is proposed to increase common shares from 100,000 to 250,000, and to issue 60,000 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock. Both common and preferred will be $10 par.

It is not planned to issue additional shares of common stock immediately, but the preferred would be sold at once. Proceeds will be used to retire 2,500 shares of 6 per cent preferred, $100 par, and to increase the size of the plant. H. G. Kable, president, said additional rotogravure equipment costing about $125,000 will be purchased if the plan is approved.

Temporary Trustee Named for Clarke Security Firm

Melvin M. Hawley, an attorney, yesterday was appointed by Federal Judge William H. Holly as temporary trustee for the Webster Securities company, an investment corporation, wholly owned by Harley L. Clarke. The company has been under reorganization under section 77 B of the amended bankruptcy act for more than a year.

Everyday Economics

In response to requests from readers for simple explanations of financial terms and brief analyses of factors affecting business and finance, The Tribune presents "Everyday Economics." Letters addressed to "Editor, Everyday Economics," telling him what you would like to see discussed here will be welcomed.

Hothouse Lambs.

A "hothouse" lamb means a lamb produced very early in the spring or in the winter for special holiday trade. There are not as many of these baby lambs produced in this part of the country as in the east. Prices paid for such stock are well above those for matured lambs. The word "hothouse" implies that the lambs are produced in artificially heated quarters, but this is not always true. Many are raised in sheds and barns that are protected only against severe weather.

Demand for hothouse lambs in this part of the country is the largest at Easter. They are used mostly by Greeks and Italians for religious festivities. However, in some parts of the east where farmers specialize in their production, hothouse lambs are furnished early enough to be used at Christmas and New Year feasts.

They are always roasted whole. The most desirable weight is around 40 pounds at about two months of age, although they can weigh as little as 25 pounds and as much as 50 to 60 pounds. There is little demand through regular commercial channels for such stock and a slight surplus causes a severe collapse in price of this specialty meat at times.

Tomorrow: Direct stock.

G. C. Gridley has been elected vice president and works manager of the mechanics universal joint division of the Borg-Warner corporation. R. R Rolph, sales manager, was also named a vice president.

MARCH BUSINESS RISES SHARPLY IN MIDDLE WEST

Business activity in Chicago and the middle west recorded sharp gains during March over the preceding month and March 1936, department of commerce and Chicago Federal Reserve bank reports indicated yesterday. Gains in Chicago exceeded those of most other cities. Employment and pay rolls for Illinois industries also improved considerably during March.

According to the commerce department sales of 322 Chicago retail establishments representing almost every type of business were 29.4 per cent higher than in February before adjustment for difference in number of working days, and 15 per cent higher after adjustment. The gain over March of last year was 18.1 per cent before adjustment and 13.7 per cent after.

The Federal Reserve bank report comparing March department store sales showed Chicago ahead of other large cities of the 7th federal reserve district with a percentage gain over 1936 of 26.7.

March employment in Illinois showed a greater than seasonal gain of 2.1 per cent over February, and pay rolls during the same period recorded a contra-seasonal rise of 3.4 per cent, according to the state department of labor. Compared with March, 1936, the rise amounted to 15.5 per cent in employment and 25.4 per cent in total wage payments.

STOCK MARKET HEADS GATHER TO FORM POLICY

Formulation of policies to govern the leading stock exchanges were discussed here yesterday by a committee of the Associated Stock Exchanges, meeting at the Chicago Stock exchange. While members of the committee declined to comment on their discussions, it was reported that attention was given to a program of public education on the operations of the exchanges and brokerage firms.

There also was a possibility that the committee might recommend the recent suggestion of Thaddeus R. Benson, president of the Chicago Stock exchange, that a national association of brokerage firms be established. Recommendations will be presented at the annual meeting of the association in Detroit on May 17.

Monogram Pictures Stock to Be Put on Market Today

Offering will be made today of 350,000 shares of $1 par common stock of Monogram Pictures corporation, New York, at $3.75 a share, by J. A. Sisto & Co., New York, and F. A. Brewer & Co., Chicago. The company recently was organized to continue on a larger scale the business of a predecessor corporation of the same name, which specialized in lower priced moving pictures.

SEARS-ROEBUCK PROFITS RISE IN FIRST QUARTER

Two Big Utilities Show Improved Earnings.

Standard Oil Company of California reported the best first quarter profits since 1930. In the March quarter, this year, a net profit of $7,889,489, equal to 60 cents a share, compared with $2,952,958, or 23 cents a share, for the first quarter of 1936.

Business of the Otis Elevator company during April has continued to show marked increases experienced during the first quarter, Jesse H. Van Alstyne, president, told stockholders yesterday.

"The building industry in the United States," he said, "is still in the first stages of recovery and it is not unreasonable to anticipate a further increase of volume, which will be reflected in our business."

Bendix Aviation Earns Less.

The Bendix Aviation corporation reported March quarter net profit of $806,508, or 38 cents a share, compared with $860,820, or 41 cents a share, in the corresponding quarter of last year.

Chicago Yellow Cab, Inc., and subsidiaries reported consolidated net profit of $601,886, or $2 a share, for 1936, compared with $185,424, or 46 cents a share in 1935.

The Sangamo Electric company reported first quarter earnings of $316,670, or $1.13 a share after the two-for-one split in stock, compared with $138,148, or $1.05 a share on the fewer shares, for the first quarter of last year. Sales during the quarter were about 55 per cent above a year earlier.

The Glenn L. Martin company reported that unfilled orders as of March 31, last, totaled $11,002,340, and that construction of the new plant and procurement of equipment are progressing rapidly.

LEGAL NOTICES.

NOTICE TO TRUST CLAIMANTS
SUPREME COURT OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK
NEW YORK COUNTY
In the Matter of
The Liquidation of
NEW YORK TITLE AND MORTGAGE COMPANY
TO ALL PERSONS HAVING TRUST CLAIMS AGAINST NEW YORK TITLE AND MORTGAGE COMPANY

By an order of the Supreme Court of the State of New York, New York County, dated July 15, 1935, New York Title and Mortgage Company was placed in liquidation pursuant to Article XI of the Insurance Law.

By a further order in this proceeding dated April 5, 1937, the Supreme Court has ordered all persons who claim title to any moneys or properties or assets of any nature, kind or description in the hands of the Superintendent of Insurance of the State of New York, as Liquidator of the New York Title and Mortgage Company, to present and file their claims in writing under oath with the Superintendent of Insurance as Liquidator of said Company or with his Special Deputy Superintendent of Insurance in charge of the said Company on or before September 1, 1937.

All trust claims presented and filed on or before September 1, 1937 will be determined and trust assets distributed without further notice to persons failing to file verified proofs of claim clearly designated as trust claims pursuant to this notice on or before that date. Persons so failing to file proofs of claim will be barred from any distribution of trust assets or assets applicable to the payment of trust or preferred claims that may hereafter be made by the Superintendent of Insurance of the State of New York, as Liquidator of New York Title and Mortgage Company, pursuant to the further order of the Court.

It is provided in the order that no trust claim need be presented or filed by any trust claimant who has already filed with the Superintendent of Insurance a verified proof of claim which has set forth the facts on which the alleged trust is based and which has been clearly designated as a trust or preferred claim and that no trust claim need be filed by any trust claimant who has obtained and served an order directing the Superintendent of Insurance to segregate the amount of the funds claimed by such claimant.

All proofs of trust claims pursuant to this notice must be filed at the office of the undersigned at No. 141 Broadway, New York City, N. Y., and all communications with respect to this notice should be sent to the undersigned at the said address.

The proof of claim should contain a brief statement of the facts on which the alleged trust is based and should be sworn to before a Notary Public or other officer duly authorized to administer oaths, and if sworn to outside the State, the signature of the officer should be authenticated by a County Clerk's certificate.

Superintendent of Insurance of the State of New York, as Liquidator of the New York Title and Mortgage Company, 141 Broadway, New York City, New York.

TEN INJURED, SCORES JOLTED AS CAR OF SUBURBAN TRAIN LEAVES TRACK—The seventh car of North Western train at precarious angle against viaduct support after accident last evening between Canal and Clinton streets, just south of Kinzie street. Firemen and policemen summoned to aid passengers are shown on the right of way near the derailed car. A defective switch was blamed for the mishap. [TRIBUNE Photo.] (Story on page 1.)

GANG FENCE SLAIN—Albert Montlake, shot down by assassins as he was carrying $50,000 in jewels. (Story on page 1.)

WHERE ALLEGED JEWEL FENCE WAS SLAIN NEAR HOME—Albert Montlake, accused by government as fence for loot taken by the old Dillinger gang, left his home, walked west on 73d street from South Shore drive and crossed the street (1) to his parked car (2). He saw gunman and ran as indicated by dotted line, but was shot (3) before he could escape. [TRIBUNE Photo.] (Story on page 1.)

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

FREAK ACCIDENT LEAVES REAR CAR OF TRAIN ON RAILS—A general view of wreck last night on North Western. The seventh car of suburban train left the rails and was tilted against viaduct support. The eighth and last car remained on the rails. All of the injured were riding in the derailed car. (Story on page 1.)

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

FROM GUN OF ASSASSIN—These shells were found in the street where Montlake's assassin stood. Police said the jewel fence had been shot six times. The killer may have used two guns. (Story on page 1.)

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

SWITCH BLAMED FOR ACCIDENT—North Western employé examining switch which is believed to have thrown car of suburban train off tracks as it was leaving terminal. Most of train passed over it successfully. (Story on page 1.)
